POEMS YOU OUGHT TO KNOW.

Whatever your occupation may be, and however crowded your hours with affairs, do not fail to secure at least a few minutes every day for refreshment of your inner life with a bit of poetry.—Prof. Charles Eliot Norton.

TAKE BACK THE HEART.

BY CLARIBEL.

Take back the heart that thou gavest,
What is my anguish to thee?
Take back the freedom thou cravest,
Leaving the fetters for me;
Take back the vows thou hast spoken,
Fling them aside and be free;
Smile o'er each pitiful token,
Leaving the sorrow for me.
Drink deep of life's fond illusion,
Gaze on the storm cloud and flee
Swiftly thro' strife and confusion,
Leaving the burden to me.

Then when at last overtaken,
Time flings its fetters o'er thee,
Come with a trust still unshaken,
Come back a captive to me.
Come back in sadness or sorrow,
Once more my darling to be,
Come as of old, love, to borrow
Glimpses of sunlight from me.
Love shall resume her dominion,
Striving no more to be free,
When on her world weary pinion,
Flies back my lost love to me.

HANNA CONTROLS OHIO CONVENTION

Seventeen Out of Twenty-one Members of New State Central Committee His Friends.

WILL INDORSE ROOSEVELT

Myron T. Herrick of Cleveland to Be Nominated for Governor Today, Probably by Acclamation.

Columbus, O., June 3.—[Special.]—Senator Hanna's friends not only controlled the republican state convention here today, but they secured control of the state central committee for the ensuing year, after a lively contest in every district.

Seventeen of the twenty-one members of the state central committee are Hanna men. Congressman Dick's reelection as chairman of the executive committee is assured, a position which he has held almost continuously since McKinley was first candidate for governor in 1891.

The convention was in session only an hour today. The usual committees were appointed, the new state central committee was elected, and a permanent organization effected. The delegates will reassemble tomorrow, when Senator Foraker will take the gavel as permanent chairman.

Will Indorse Roosevelt Today.

A resolution indorsing Roosevelt as the choice of the republican party in 1904 will be adopted. Senator Hanna's statement to that effect in his speech this afternoon was received with enthusiastic cheers.

The resolutions, as drawn and adopted tonight by the committee on platform, commend President Roosevelt's ability and adherence to McKinley principles, and favor his nomination and the reelection of Hanna as senator.

Opposes Tariff Changes.

The platform will also protest against any change in the tariff or other national declarations.

Certain planks insist on the enforcement of the amendments for negro suffrage, or the reduction of the representation of southern states in congress and the electoral college. The resolutions also favor legislation to stimulate local bank circulations.

No Opposition to Herrick.

Myron T. Herrick of Cleveland will be nominated for governor tomorrow, probably by acclamation. No opposition to his nomination has developed.

The contest for the other places on the state ticket is lively, but neither Senator Hanna nor Mr. Herrick is taking any part in it. The closest contest is over the lieutenant governorship.

The feature of today's brief session of the convention was the speech of Senator Hanna, in taking the gavel as temporary chairman. His indorsement of Roosevelt was unequivocal and warmly received.

Senator Hanna's Address.

Senator Hanna said:

"I congratulate the republican party of Ohio upon this splendid representative body, and I bespeak for the republican party of Ohio the hope and the wish that your deliberations will be governed by good judgment and proper spirit. We have had occasion recently to celebrate a day marking the first 100 years of our statehood, and in the proceedings of that function at Chillicothe there were many things of interest, and many things to call forth feelings of pleasure and pride in recounting the earlier history of our commonwealth.

"Standing today in the morning of a new century and looking back over that period which we have just marked as our first century. There is every reason to emphasize that feeling of pleasure and pride and to make every man, whether born in Ohio or whether a citizen by adoption, feel that it has been a privilege to be a Buckeye.

"In the last fifty years the progress and development of our state have been wonderful. Blessed by nature and in every way situated to advantage for that development; blessed not from circumstances but from facts that impelled the pioneers who came to our forests one hundred years ago (men of character and of the mold to make pioneers)—they hewed their way through the forests and built for themselves their homes, with a spirit that called forth the articles of 1787, which seemed to fill them with the earnest desire to carry out the prophecies and privileges of that wonderful document.

"And so we began our early life, and long through the years, under impulses which made those pioneers irresistible in surmounting all obstacles, the foundation was laid for this great state.

Ohio's Wonderful Development.

"The ax and the plow soon yielded to other conditions, taking advantage of our great deposits of mineral wealth, our climate, and our facilities in those days of water transportation, the foundations of Ohio's industries were laid. It has been a wonderful development. But all has not been due to the fact of these natural advantages, or even the enterprise and energy of the people, but I claim in the light of experience in the last half century we owe as much to the fundamental principles of the republican party for the benefits that have come to our people.

"Forests may stand until time ends; the great mineral wealth may lie undisturbed for centuries unless there be something to quicken the impulses which find a response in the hearts and ambition of every man who has a duty to himself and his family to perform. Without that incentive, without the return for labor and for capital, there must be no result.

"O, my fellow republicans, standing on the threshold of this new century, republicans, should we not be proud and grateful that we have been a part of and connected with the party whose principles and policies have done so much for our development?

Monument to Republican Policy.

"The republican party laid the foundation stone. Human liberty and protection to American industries and the American workingman are placed in the sacred archives of our country's history and furnish its foundation stone. And since that time stone by stone has been added to that structure, every one as hard and indestructible as granite itself; every one composed in its component parts with a mixture of principles which fitted and made complete the whole; and as it was raised year by year, tried by experience, encouraged by success, today standing here in the presence of this great audience, let me point to that magnificent structure, the monument to the principles of the FAT MEN A CIVIC ASSET.

TAX LIKE SWEDEN'S WOULD MEAN RICHES FOR CHICAGO.

Suggested That This City Adopt the Plan of Charging for Space Occupied, in Which Case the Clean Street Problem Would Be Solved for All Time—Leans Insist on a Rebate for Themselves—Ex-Senator Mason Enthusiastic Over the Proposition.

Get out the dumbbells, dust off the home exerciser—yes, even resurrect the bicycle—for Sweden's idea of taxation has been suggested to Chicago!

The idea is simplicity itself. You merely pay for the space you occupy. If your rotundity is such you are forced to walk single file, you are charged for the inconvenience you cause others, and the tax is used to help clean the streets that you and your fellow fat men monopolize.

If the idea is adopted by Chicago, together with certain concessions to persons who do not occupy their share of the world's space, your next personal tax schedule may look like this:

Article.	Ass'd value.	Tax.
One man, weight 250 pounds	$500	$5.00
One wife, weight 144 pounds	288	2.88
		Offsets.
One boy, weight 72 pounds		$0.58
One girl, weight 64 pounds		0.72
Deducted		$2.34
Total tax		$5.54

Case of Weigh and Pay.

The proposition is that all persons who weigh more than 125 pounds be taxed according to weight, or at so much a pound. The lightweights, on the other hand, demand that an offset shall be allowed on all persons under 100 pounds.

The proposition to tax fat persons met with much favor in Chicago yesterday among all classes except the heavyweights. Those who have been obstructed by excessively weighty women on elevated railway stairs, those who have been packed into corners of street cars by fat men, those who have been run down by weighty persons, bounced off the expansive fronts of portly pedestrians, and those who have missed suburban trains because some beefy individual was filling the entire turnstile were most vehement in their advocacy of the tax.

The lean ones are firm in their contention that a person should be made to pay for the space he occupies, and the person who is small enough to leave some extra room on earth for his fellows should reap the benefit, they say. They propose a scheme whereby the assessed valuation of a man shall be $2 a pound, the tax to be 5 per cent of one-fifth of the assessed valuation—the same as is levied on personal property of other sorts.

Some Valuable Citizens.

Under this scale the taxes on certain well known persons would be as follows:

Grover Cleveland	$6.22
William B. Mason	5.43
"Bobbie" Burke (marked down from $5)	4.99
Gen. Shafter	5.43
"Smiley" Corsett	6.11
"Eddie" Marcus	5.27
Dennis Hogan	6.29
"Big" Maxwell (U. of C.)	4.78
Ex-Gov. Rose	4.80
Fred Busse	5.00
G. Huff (U. of Ill.)	6.81
Ban B. Johnson	4.60
J. H. Moore	3.30
William Lorimer (dead weight)	3.17

There would be rebates coming to Judge Haney and Gov. Yates, who would get 30 cents off. There also would be a rebate for John D. Rockefeller, unless the interstate commerce commission happened to be looking.

City Hall Is Skeptical.

The Swedish idea of taxation did not make much of a hit around the city hall. In detective headquarters there was a tendency to "knock" the idea. Among the chief opponents were Patrolmen Dolan and Martini, who tried to figure out what 5 per cent of one-fifth of 269 and 265 pounds would come to.

Chief O'Neill, however, was in favor of the idea.

"It would be a good scheme," remarked the chief. "It would make the police gymnasiums popular. I can see the plump patrolmen now, in my mind's eye, trying to sweat off about 45 cents' worth of personal tax just before April 1. It might make them walk their beats faster for the sake of keeping down weight."

Early yesterday morning the promoter of an anti-fat medicine applied for space in the street cars for an "ad" to be used only in case Chicago decides to adopt Sweden's plan of taxation. Here is the "ad" he had framed up.

REDUCE YOUR TAXES AND WEIGHT.
USE JONES' ANTI-FAT.

Good Thing for Kenna.

Many city officials believe the ordinance could pass the council should it be brought before that body for action. They declare that the lightweights have an overwhelming majority. Michael Kenna, who would be entitled to a rebate under such a law, would lead the forces favoring its passage and would be assured of the active support of Ald. Litzinger, Badenoch, Rector, and others who fight in the light and feather weight divisions. They could not pass the ordinance, however, without sturdy opposition, as Ald. Victor Cerveny of the Twelfth declares it could be passed only over his body, and it would take a pole vaulter to accomplish such a trick. With Cerveny would be Stanley Kunz and John E. Scully, and, for once, Ald. Coughlin would have to vote against Kenna.

Ex-Senator Mason, before he left for Washington yesterday, talked enthusiastically of the proposed law.

"The idea is a good one," he said. "A man ought to pay by the front foot for all the space he occupies. I would be willing to stand my part of the tax. I am sorry I am not in the senate so as to introduce such a bill. Indeed, I am sorry I am not in the senate, anyhow.

"I would like to see men taxed for the number of cubic feet they occupy. We could elect an official measurer to calculate the amount of displacement. I should suggest an extra penalty for all persons who have to back up to a door before they knock."

"Fat Lady" Protests.

Mrs. Baird, the professional "fat lady," who is now playing a heavy part at a State street museum, denounces the proposed law as unjust and declares the Supreme court would hold it unconstitutional because it is class legislation of the worst sort.

"Such a law would fall of its own weight," she said.

Dr. C. Pruyn Stringfield of Gov. Yates' staff, who carries considerable excess baggage, believes the tax would be just and fair.

"We should pay for the space we occupy," he said. "Any person should be willing to rent space for himself in the city's streets. I am willing to pay the tax—much more willing than I would be to occupy any less space."

BREAK CONTRACT; 700 MEN OUSTED.

Drastic Punishment for Union Members Who Refuse to Live Up to Their Agreements.

ACTION BY TWO BODIES.

Cooks and Waiters in Downtown Restaurants May Go on a Strike at Noon Rush Hour Today.

CONTRACT BREAKERS—Four hundred blacksmiths and 300 teamsters are suspended by their national unions for violating contracts with their employers. Effect on industrial situation expected to be wholesome.

WAITERS THREATEN—Cooks and waiters may strike at noon today in two or more downtown restaurants. President Schardt will work for peace.

FREIGHT HANDLERS—Rock Island and Burlington roads sign agreements with their men. Illinois Central to come next.

LAUNDRY SITUATION—Peace conferences continued without result; another meeting today.

"ELEVATED" EMPLOYES—Union secures an advance of 20 per cent in wages to employes of the Union loop.

FLAT JANITORS—Twenty janitors tried to "tie up" buildings controlled by W. A. Merigold & Co. Strike may spread to other buildings.

Radical action was taken yesterday by powerful labor leaders to check contract breaking by labor organizations. Seven hundred union men find themselves this morning suspended from membership for failing to live up to agreements signed in supposed good faith with their employers.

The drastic action of suspension is believed by students of the industrial problem to carry a more wholesome lesson than injunctions or civil suits. The International Brotherhood of Blacksmiths and the Teamsters' National union are the organizations which have administered this lesson.

Decrees After Careful Inquiry.

The two decrees, issued in separate cases, were both issued after careful investigations, in which the suspended men were given ample opportunity to defend themselves.

The International Brotherhood of Blacksmiths found its Chicago local, No. 14, guilty of insubordination in refusing to live up to an agreement signed with the Chicago Metal Trades association, which was broken by a strike in sympathy with the helpers, who went out two weeks ago.

The Teamsters' National union deprived 200 of its St. Louis members of their union cards for failure to obey the dictates of their officers, cease supporting the freight handlers in their strike in that city, and return to work.

Hearken to Public Disapproval.

For the last two months irresponsible labor leaders have been calling strikes, regardless of agreements, verbal and written. Business men have become alarmed, and even the rank and file of organized labor has voiced its protest. This feeling of disapproval reached the stage last week where it had to be recognized, and the blacksmiths and the teamsters were the first to realise its strength.

On Monday, May 18, the blacksmiths' helpers, employed in the shops controlled by the Chicago Metal Trades association, went out on a strike. They had made wage and hour demands a month before, but had agreed that, "pending settlement or arbitration, there should be no lockout or strike." This restriction they found irksome and tossed it aside.

When the helpers struck the blacksmiths of local No. 14 refused to continue at work, although they, too, had an agreement which stipulated "that there shall be no strike or sympathetic strike" during its life. Their action roused the wrath of the Metal Trades association, which protested to the Chicago officials of the union.

Appeals to International President.

Business Agent J. P. Williams of the blacksmiths tried to get the men back to work, but they refused to go. He then telegraphed to the international president, John Slocum, who sent Vice President P. H. Cummins of Cleveland, O., to investigate. A week ago Slocum also arrived in the city and became conversant with the situation.

A second attempt was made to force the striking blacksmiths to live up to their contract, and, when they refused, Slocum and Cummins took drastic action. They notified the men that if they did not resume work their local would be suspended and they would be without standing in the labor world. Even this threat had no effect and the action was taken.

The officers of the local were notified that it was suspended and the 400 members received individual cards informing them they were no longer in good standing.

"I would prefer to have ten men in Chicago whose word is good," said President Slocum, in issuing the decree, "than 400 who cannot live up to an agreement signed in good faith."

Strikers Sue for Peace.

The local men held an indignation meeting and decided that since they were already out of the fold, they might as well carry the fight on as long as possible. A conference was held with the leaders of the helpers' union, and the helpers gave over the management of their strike to the blacksmiths, who appointed a committe of three to reopen peace negotiations with the metal trades association.

This committee visited Secretary Paul Blatchford of the association, and informed him that both the blacksmiths and their helpers were ready to settle all differences and go back to work.

"But you broke your agreements," remarked Blatchford.

"We are willing to have them operative again," interrupted one of the committee, "and order all the men back to work. When this has been done the helpers will allow the blacksmiths to settle their wage scale and agree to live up to whatever agreement is made."

The association has not accepted the proposition. Its members feel that they cannot afford to deal with a suspended body of men who have broken faith and been found guilty of insubordination.

Drivers Lose Membership Cards.

The strike of the freight handlers at St. Louis is directly responsible for the expulsion of the drivers from the Teamsters' National union. As was the case in Chicago last year, the drivers joined in the struggle as soon as their assistance was asked. In doing so they broke agreements with several organizations of employers.

Last week President Albert Young of the

UNITED STATES TO JOIN WITH THE CHICAGO BANKS.

Meeting Called for Tomorrow by Chairman Forgan and He Has No Doubt the Secretary's Application to Have Treasury Admitted "on Trial" Will Be Favorably Considered — Arrangement of Much Advantage to Local Financial Institutions.

The bankers of Chicago will meet tomorrow to take action on a plan for the admission of the United States government as a member of the Chicago clearing house.

It is almost certain that an arrangement will be concluded similar to the deal between Secretary of the Treasury John Sherman and the associated banks of New York in 1878, whereby the subtreasury in New York became a kind of business partner of the great banks of that city.

Secretary of the Treasury Leslie M. Shaw reached Chicago yesterday and was in conference for a long time with J. B. Forgan, who is chairman of the executive committee of the Chicago clearing house. Late in the afternoon Mr. Forgan issued a call to all the members of the clearing house for a meeting tomorrow afternoon, when the question will be decided whether an application of the United States government for admission shall be accepted or rejected.

Secretary Shaw to Attend.

It is expected that Secretary Shaw will himself be present at the meeting and will talk with the Chicago bankers over the details of the scheme by which the United States subtreasury will be made to participate in the clearings of Chicago.

Chicago bankers are exceedingly well pleased to learn the object of Secretary Shaw's visit, and they predict that the admission of the government into the clearing house, which will almost certainly be the result of tomorrow's meeting, will materially help Chicago to rival New York as a financial center.

One of the results of the government's becoming a member of the Chicago clearing house would be that hereafter the banks in the west in settlement of constantly fluctuating accounts with the government would buy exchange on Chicago rather than in New York, which hetofore has had this business owing to the clearing arrangements between its banks and the New York subtreasury.

The scheme will also lessen the necessity of a small army of clerks under heavy guard every day escorting bags of coin and rolls of bills between the various banks and the subtreasury. It will render possible the employment of fewer clerks not only in the subtreasury but in the various banks.

Expects Favorable Action.

"I think the meeting I have called of the clearing house tomorrow will be favorable to the admission of the United States government as a member," said Mr. Forgan last evening. "Secretary Shaw heartily favors the scheme, and I know of no opposition from any of the present members of the clearing house, though, of course, there is likely to be some controversy about the details. I am in favor of an arrangement like the one in New York.

"The government should not be required to pay the regular dues exacted of other members, nor to assume any share in the liabilities that other members may incur. It should be required, however, to join in any movement for assistance to any member threatened with trouble. It should pay a share in the cost of maintaining the clearing house, proportionate to the business it does there, and it should not expect to participate in elections of officers for the clearing house or to be represented on the clearing house executive committee."

For years the bankers of Chicago have been hoping that the government would do business with them through the clearing house, as it does in New York, but the influence of New York bankers appears hitherto to have prevented any such deal. Secretary Shaw, however, is said to have made overtures himself to the Chicago bankers, and actually to have suggested that the government be taken into the clearing house "on trial" for ninety days, and then, if the Chicago bankers were satisfied, the arrangement be made permanent.

Opposition to Plan in 1878.

In 1878, when the idea of having the treasury become a member of the New York clearing house was suggested by Secretary Sherman, it startled both the bankers and government officials. The judgment of the secretary's associates was against it. Nevertheless he carried it through.

It was done to facilitate the resumption of specie payments and has worked successfully ever since. The claim has been made that but for this plan specie would not even yet have returned to circulation.

YATES MAKES COSTLY MISTAKE.

Buys Box of Fine Cigars for President's Visit and Then Gives Them Away to Ordinary Callers.

Springfield, Ill., June 3.—[Special.]—Incidental callers at the executive mansion during the last week or ten days have been smoking 25 cent cigars with Gov. Yates. A choice brand was procured for the president's dinner tomorrow, and not until late this afternoon did the executive discover his mistake. Then only three of the cigars purchased specially in Chicago for the edification of the governor's guests at the president's dinner remained in the big box. It was too late to get another box of the same kind, so it was necessary to call upon a local dealer to furnish his choicest cigars for the occasion. Gov. Yates now remembers that compliments were paid to the excellent quality of the cigars by many, who thought the brand was the usual one smoked by the executive.

START HAIRDRESSING REFORM.

Three Young Leaders at Newport Adopt Unconventional Style for Hot Weather.

Newport, R. I., June 3.—[Special.]—Miss Natica Rives, Miss Nathalie Schenck, and Miss Cynthia Roche, three young women with original ideas, may do their sex a good turn by revolutionizing the manner of wearing the hair in hot weather. Miss Rives appeared a few days ago with her hair streaming down her back. Miss Schenck saw Miss Rives and at once became a convert. Miss Cynthia Roche has followed suit, and as the young women are leaders here it is probable other girls will adopt the plan.

FALLS DEAD ON HIGH STEEPLE.

Walter White, Church Repairer, Expires and Companion Prevents His Falling to Earth.

Walter White, employed in repairing the steeple of the South Chicago Congregational church, Ninety-first street and Ontario avenue, dropped dead of heart disease yesterday high above the ground. He was seized by John Mayberry as he was about to fall from the scaffold. He was colored, and lived at 7012 South Chicago avenue.

ROOSEVELT NEAR THE CLOSE OF HIS 14,000 MILE TRIP

President's Tour of Twenty-two States and Territories Begins and Ends in Illinois.

LAST OF 66 BUSY DAYS

Notable Speeches Made During the Two Months Make Impress on the Nation's Policy.

PRESIDENT'S PROGRAM TODAY.

LINCOLN—Stop of ten minutes for brief speech from car platform.

SPRINGFIELD—Stop of four hours, including a drive to the tomb of Lincoln, an informal luncheon at the executive mansion, and an address by the president at the state capitol.

DECATUR—Stop of forty-five minutes. The president will attend the dedicatory services at the Industrial university and make a brief address. He will also address the railway and factory men at the station before departing direct for Washington.

President Roosevelt made a "roundup" of Illinois yesterday, making speeches at many towns, reviewing parades, unveiling a monument, dedicating a memorial building, and making a characteristic hurry up job of it generally.

The president will finish up Illinois today with stops at Lincoln, Springfield, and Decatur, and then he will speed away to Washington, having made the most remarkable tour of the United States ever made by a chief executive of the nation during his term of office.

The president left Washington to begin his western tour at 9 o'clock a. m., April 1. He will return to the capital on June 5. In the sixty-six days intervening between those dates he traveled 14,000 miles and made stops in the principal cities of twenty-two states. He delivered several hundred addresses, some of them so important that they are practically incorporated in the nation's policy.

Many Topics Discussed.

The president's most notable address, delivered in Chicago on April 2, gave a new interpretation to the Monroe doctrine. It has been the subject of newspaper comment in every capital of the old world.

The president delivered speeches on the trusts and on the tariff at Milwaukee and elsewhere, his addresses on the subjects sounding the keynote of republican policy in the next national campaign.

At St. Louis the president's notable address at the dedication of the Louisiana Purchase exposition was marked by the broad, liberal views of an enlightened statesmanship.

At San Francisco, Seattle, and Tacoma the chief executive proclaimed America's mastery over the Pacific ocean, showing by convincing arguments that the United States, from its commanding position, was destined to control the commerce of that mighty sea.

The president's journey across the continent and back was not all a public function. For sixteen days he disappeared in Yellowstone park, taking a rest not only from official business but from travel and public speaking.

Details of Long Journey.

The president's journey carried him first to Chicago, then to the great northwest, including the states of Wisconsin, Minnesota, North Dakota, and Montana. After his sixteen days' stay in Yellowstone park he turned eastward, passing through South Dakota, Nebraska, Iowa, and Missouri to St. Louis, where he assisted in the formal dedication of the exposition buildings and grounds.

From St. Louis the president turned westward again, traversing Kansas, Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona, Nevada, to the Pacific coast. Then northward his journey took him through California, Oregon, and Washington, to the Puget sound country. He returned eastward through Idaho, Montana, and Wyoming.

Rides a Race in Wyoming.

At Laramie the president made a characteristic diversion from the usual features of a perfunctory presidential tour. He mounted a horse and with a small escort he rode sixty miles to Cheyenne, covering five miles of the distance at racing speed in order to prevent several enthusiastic Rough Riders from saying that they had beaten a president of the United States in a race. And then, booted, spurred, travel stained, the president rode into Cheyenne, direct to the speakers' stand, and, clad in his riding clothes, delivered a forcible address to an audience of several thousand persons. No other incident of the president's tour was more characteristic of the pluck, skill, and endurance of the man.

No Accidents During Journey.

During the long journey of 14,000 miles the president met with not a single accident. Not a mishap marred the journey. He was accompanied by secret service men. At every city detectives and police were watching for the possible raising of an assassin's hand. But nowhere were their services needed.

At many points in the journey the president was attended by armed escorts—United States infantry, cavalry, artillery, National Guards, rough riders, G. A. R. men, Spanish-American war veterans, and cowboys; but the escorts were there only to add a picturesque feature to the parades in the executives' honor. They were not needed. The president was safe in the hands of the people.

Yesterday in Illinois.

Returning to Illinois yesterday, the president made his first speech at Freeport at 8 o'clock in the morning, and when he concluded his address at Bloomington, shortly after 10 o'clock at night, he had spoken nine times.

Eight of his speeches were made in the open air and several of them in rain storms. The hardest rain encountered was at Pontiac, where he dedicated a soldiers and sailors' monument. The downpour was so heavy when his train arrived that it seemed inadvisable for him to venture out.

"I will leave it to you, Mr. Mayor," he said to that official. "If you say go, we will go." The mayor decided the president should go, and, wearing a raincoat, he braved the elements.

Complimented by Democrat.

The most interesting feature of the day occurred at Dwight. The mayor of this place is a democrat. In introducing the president he said:

"I consider you, Mr. President, the ideal

American citizen. I am in favor of the course you have pursued and will support you for reëlection."

The president, responding to the introduction, said: "I am pleased by the kind words the mayor has said to me. Perhaps I prize them especially, Mr. Mayor, coming from one who is not of my party; but the whole thing is, my friends, if we are all good Americans, that is enough platform for all of us to stand on. I prize more than I can say such words as have been uttered by the mayor and I assure you I shall do my best to try to deserve them."

Starts Hotel Machinery.

The president also assisted in the opening of a new hotel at Dwight. A wire was run from the hotel to the rear platform of his car, and by pressing a bulb he started the machinery in the building.

The places at which the president spoke were Freeport, Rockford, Rochelle, Aurora, Joliet, Dwight, Pontiac, Lexington, and Bloomington.

Freeport His First Stop.

Freeport, Ill., June 3.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt spoke at the dedication of the monument marking the spot upon which Lincoln and Douglas debated in Freeport in 1858. The president arrived from Dubuque at 8 o'clock and he was driven directly to the monument, where many thousand persons from Freeport and vicinity had assembled.

The president was introduced by Congressman Hitt. The president referred to the debate as an event that was far reaching. He highly complimented the women's club of Freeport, which erected the monument.

His Speech at Freeport.

President Roosevelt spoke as follows:

"We meet today to commemorate the spot on which occurred one of those memorable scenes in accordance with which the whole future history of the nation is molded. Here were spoken the winged words that flew through immediate time and that will fly through that portion of eternity recorded in the history of our race. Here was sounded the keynote of the struggle which, after convulsing the nation, made it in fact what it had only been in name—at once united and free.

"It is eminently fitting that this monument, given by the women of this city in commemoration of the great debate that here took place, should be dedicated by the men whose deeds made good the words of Abraham Lincoln and the soldiers of the civil war.

"The word was mighty, but had it not been for the word the deeds could not have taken place. But without the deeds the words would have been the idlest breath. It is forever to the honor of our nation that brought forth the statesman, who, with far sighted vision, could pierce the clouds that obscured the sight of the keenest of his fellows and could see what the future inevitably held. And, moreover, that we had back of the statesman and behind him the men to whom it was given to fight in the greatest war ever waged for the good of mankind, for the betterment of the world.

Lincoln's Place in History.

"I have literally but a moment here. I could not resist the chance that was offered me to stop and dedicate this monument, for, great though we now regard Abraham Lincoln, my countrymen, the future will put him on an even higher pinnacle than we have put him. In all history I do not believe that there is to be found an orator whose speeches will last as enduringly as certain of the speeches of Lincoln. And in all history, with the sole exception of the man who founded the republic, I do not think there will be found another statesman at once so great and so single hearted in his devotion to the weal of his people.

"We cannot too highly honor him. And the highest way in which we can honor him is to see that our homage is not only homage of words; that to loyalty of words we join loyalty of the heart, and that we pay honor to the memory of Abraham Lincoln by so conducting ourselves, by so carrying ourselves as citizens of this republic, that we shall hand on undiminished to our children and our children's children the heritage we received from the men who upheld the statesmanship of Lincoln in the council and who made good the soldiership of Grant in the field."

The president stopped in Freeport only half an hour, and at 8:30 departed for Rockford.

Dedicates Hall at Rockford.

Rockford, Ill., June 3.—[Special.]—The feature of the visit of President Roosevelt to Rockford today was the dedication of Memorial hall, a $60,000 structure consecrated to the soldiers and sailors of Winnebago county.

President Roosevelt reached Rockford at 9:15 a. m. He was accompanied by Congressman Robert R. Hitt and John A. Davis post, G. A. R., of Freeport in a body as an escort. No handshaking reception was attempted owing to the brief period the president had to spend in Rockford. He was officially greeted by a committee of six, consisting of Mayor Charles E. Jackson, Judge A. H. Frost, Congressman Charles E. Fuller, and Messrs. T. E. Buckbee, J. B. Whitehead, and Walter Van Alstyne of the county board, and escorted by carriages to Memorial hall, some eight blocks distant from the depot.

Both sides of the thoroughfare were lined by uniformed men drawn up facing the passing procession. They comprise the local civic and military societies and acted as a combined escort and guard to keep the spectators to the rear from crowding past the ropes stretched the entire length of the street.

The variety of uniforms thus massed, the decorations abounding everywhere, and the tier on tier of spectators for a background made the drive to the hall a memorable one for the occupants of the carriages, as well as all others participating in the incident.

City in Gala Dress.

The city was decked in gala garb, pictures of the president adorned the store fronts and residences, thousands of visitors flocked to the city over the steam and electric railways, and local business men and manufacturers united in a movement for making the occasion of the president's visit a general holiday. The consequence was that the main thoroughfares were literally jammed with a moving mass of humanity long before the factory whistles sounded the advent of the presidential train.

Arriving at the Memorial building, Congressman Hitt introduced the president to the vast audience confronting him, and the chief executive made a brief response, after which came the unfurling of the flag over the memorial structure.

The president and party then reëntered their carriages and enjoyed a short drive through the principal streets, first passing in review before some 4,000 school children massed at a park adjoining the memorial building grounds. Each child carried an American flag, and the salute given President Roosevelt was a most inspiring sight. The party also passed in review before the students of Rockford college on the return journey to the depot.

Greatest in Aurora's History.

Aurora, Ill., June 3.—[Special.]—Aurora passed through one of the greatest days in its history today, on the occasion of the visit of President Theodore Roosevelt. Fully 50,000 persons from Aurora and all the surrounding towns within a radius of seventy-five miles gave the chief executive of the United States an enthusiastic reception.

The presidential train arrived in Aurora a few minutes ahead of schedule time, at 12:15 o'clock. Immediately after the arrival of the party they were driven to the home of Senator A. J. Hopkins, on North Lake street, where luncheon was served.

The scene at Lincoln park, where the president spoke, was awe-inspiring. Thousands of people gathered there to see the president and to hear the few words he uttered. He said:

"I have been more than pleased with my visit to your beautiful city, and I regret much that my time is so used up that I can say no more than to give you greeting, for I must fulfill my engagements in other cities.

"I am glad to visit the home city of my old friend, Senator Hopkins. The senator and I were friends when I was not greeted with such acclaim as now, and when some hands were turned against me he always gave me a square deal. A square deal is all we want, my friends, and the man who asks for more is not entitled to anything.

"Again, my friends, I thank you, and wish you good-by and good luck."

After President Roosevelt completed his remarks he was driven to the railway station, where he took the train for Joliet.

This morning at 9:30 o'clock a delegation of Chicago policemen and detectives, thirty-six strong, arrived in the city. The men were the pick of the Chicago police force and were under charge of Lieut. Collins himself. During the morning the visiting police were taken in charge by Chief of Police Nichols, Fire Chief Schoberlein, Capt. Weber, and Detective Virchow, and were shown the sights of the city. Afterward they were detailed to duty.

Labor's Welcome at Joliet.

Joliet, Ill., June 3.—[Special.]—The most striking feature of President Roosevelt's visit to Joliet this afternoon was his reception by the employés of the Illinois Steel and American Steel and Wire companies, and by the railroad men of Joliet. As the special neared Joliet it passed the blazing furnaces and smoking chimneys of the big mills, while thousands of employés with bare arms, their faces grimy from their work, rushed from the blast furnaces, converters, and other departments to the gates as the whistles announced the arrival of the president's special.

With their caps in their hands they cheered and waved a welcome that President Roosevelt, standing on the rear platform of his car, recognized and seemed greatly pleased with.

Afterward the president spoke to several thousand people at the Central school, and dwelt particularly on the dignity of labor. He called attention to the fact the country has been passing through a period of great prosperity, that the workmen employed in our mills and factories have had almost continuous employment, and then declared that while it was an easy matter for those who sought to criticise to find fault with some of the existing conditions, and for them to attempt to tear down existing conditions, it was no easy matter for them to offer suggestions to build up in place of that which they sought to tear down.

President Roosevelt declared that the man who sought to stir up between citizens of this republic animosities on account of creed, class, or wealth, or its lack, was an enemy to republican institutions.

He declared that in no land was the dignity of labor upheld and the rights of the workingman recognized so universally as in the United States today. He spoke briefly on the responsibilities of citizenship and the duty that every man owed the state to take an interest in public affairs, and declared his belief in loyalty of American citizens on account of their patriotism, their sense of decency, and their common sense.

Speaks at Pontiac Dedication.

Pontiac, Ill., June 3.—[Special.]—The Livingston county soldiers and sailors' monument was dedicated with impressive ceremonies today, including a brief address by President Roosevelt. At 5:15 p. m., the time of the arrival of the president, a downpour of rain was falling, but, despite the protests of the local committee, the president insisted on being driven to the speakers' stand, several blocks from the station, and in a few short sentences dedicated the monument to the memory of those to whom it was erected. Gen. John C. Black of Chicago made the principal address of the day.

At Bloomington in Evening.

Bloomington, Ill., June 3.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt was welcomed to Bloomington by 75,000 persons, the greatest crowd ever assembled in the city.

The third annual encampment of the Spanish-American War Veterans of Illinois aided in the reception.

Following the parade through the business and residence streets, accompanied by the escort of the various military bodies, came the banquet at the Illinois hotel. The president occupied a carriage with former Vice President Adlai Stevenson and T. C. Kerrich, chairman of the executive committee. Entrance to the hotel would have been impossible but for the efforts of the Sixth regiment, so dense was the crowd that surrounded the structure. The banquet hall was brilliantly decorated and presented a magnificent scene.

The triumph in decorations, however, was seen at the Coliseum, where the president spoke at 9 o'clock. Suspended from the ceiling was a great floral bell constructed in Chicago and which required 5,000 roses in its makeup. Suspended from the bell were lines of red, white, and blue incandescent lamps.

Dynamite, but No Plot.

Lincoln, Ill., June 3.—[Special.]—A stick of dynamite found under a corncrib in the south part of the city, near the tracks of the Alton railroad, led to the report of a plot to blow up the presidential train on Thursday. The fact is that a workingman using dynamite in blasting had left the explosive, where it was found, not daring to take it home.

ROOSEVELT'S SPECIAL TRAIN HAULS NO CAR FOR JOLIET.

John Lambert Adds an Extra Coach to the Presidential Special—and Then Takes It Off.

Bloomington, Ill., June 3.—[Special.]—When President Roosevelt's train reached Aurora today there was a bit of friction. While the president was at luncheon at the home of Senator Hopkins a committee of citizens from Joliet arrived in the private car of John Lambert, well known in New York for his connection with the steel interests.

Without consulting any one on the president's train Mr. Lambert had his car hitched to it. No one else has asked such a favor during the president's entire trip. Mr. Mellen and the other railroad presidents who have traveled with the president have never suggested such a thing. Mr. Felton, president of the Chicago and Alton, had not thought of doing it on his own account.

Back from Senator Hopkins' came the president, Secretary Loeb, and Assistant Secretary Barnes. In about two seconds after their arrival Secretary Loeb sent Mr. Barnes to ask Mr. McCoy, the Pennsylvania agent who attends to the railroad matters of the trip, how that car got there. The answer was that the railroad people put it on.

The railroad people took it off. Mr. Loeb then invited most of the people who had been passengers on the car to ride over to Joliet as guests of the president, but no twenty minute ride could cool off the burning breasts of the mayor of Joliet and other of Mr. Lambert's friends.

MOODY MERRILL DENIES GUILT.

Former Boston Business Man Accused of Embezzlement Arraigned and Released on Bonds.

Boston, Mass., June 3.—[Special.]—Moody Merrill was arraigned in the Superior Criminal court this morning and pleaded not guilty to the charge that he embezzled $19,000 from Mrs. Sarah Cohen before he absconded from Boston ten years ago. He was held in $10,000 bail. Merrill was once the republican nominee for mayor of Boston, and Judge Bishop, sitting on his case today, was an old legal associate of Merrill and ran for governor the same year Merrill was up for mayor. The story of Merrill's double life and his ten years in New Mexico as a banker paying debts he had assumed for another was revealed when Mrs. Cohen began her suit against him.

TROLLEY CAR RUNS DOWN BOY.

Five Year Old Mathew Griffen Probably Fatally Injured in Van Buren Street.

Mathew Griffen, 394 Carroll avenue, 5 years old, attempted to cross in front of a west bound Van Buren street electric car last evening and was run down. At the county hospital it was said he would probably die. His legs were cut off, his left arm broken, and he was injured internally. He was visiting an aunt at 450 Van Buren street and was on the way to a candy store to spend 5 cents which his aunt had given him when he was run down.

Fine Trains, Between Chicago and New York.

The Pennsylvania Lines have put on a fast train between Chicago and New York, known as "The Seashore Limited," leaving Chicago 10:30 a. m., arriving New York, Twenty-third Street Station, 12:30 noon following day.

The time of "The Pennsylvania Limited" has been shortened one hour, becoming a 23-hour train. Leave Chicago 6 p. m., arrive New York 6 p. m. Eastern time following day. This train makes connection at Harrisburg for Baltimore and Washington and Philadelphia for Jersey coast resorts.

In addition to the above the Pennsylvania Lines have four other trains between Chicago and New York.

republican party, and let that party write the inscription upon its base, in letters that all who run may read, 'Hands off.'

"Time and patience have builded that structure. The blood and sweat of our best husbandry have contributed to it. If we are to have a new era, or if the era of the twentieth century is to be a continuation of republican prosperity, let those who were the workingmen upon that edifice 'stand guard.'

"Our state affairs, my fellow citizens, of recent years need no praise from me. Every time the republican party has placed at the head of the executive affairs of this state their chosen candidate it was a guarantee that the best interests of the people would be subserved and that all the necessary attributes of an economical and progressive administration would be the result. Time and results have proved that fact, and on this occasion it is a pleasure to me, nearing the close of the present administration, to pay that tribute to your present governor which he so richly deserves.

His Tribute to Roosevelt.

"What can be said of Ohio can be said of our nation. Republicans today can congratulate themselves that in the direction of national affairs they have realized all they hoped for and all they expected in the administration of Theodore Roosevelt.

"We look back but a few short months, when that heroic young man, standing under the gloom of that awful tragedy at Buffalo, feeling and appreciating the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people made that sacred promise to them that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, it should be his aim to carry out the policies of President McKinley.

"And how well he has succeeded we all know and we all feel—as this convention will express an appreciation of that administration. We all realize to that young, heroic president is due, as coming from his heart, the most patriotic, unselfish, and energetic devotion to the interests of the people and the principles of his party. Standing in the presence of the American people and hearing those words, the solemn import of which indelibly impressed itself upon all who stood near him, no one can doubt his motives or even his ambition. No one can place him in the category of a man whose ambition is greater than his patriotism.

Nation's Eyes on Ohio.

"As we are soon to enter upon a national campaign and as other matters must be issues from point to point, the people today all over the United States are watching with interest this republican convention of the state of Ohio, because Ohio enjoys the proud prestige of always having been loyal to those principles and contributed from her forces of power and intellect many of the best advocates the country has produced.

"Is is any wonder, then, that the people of the whole country should be onlookers this day and tomorrow and watching with eagerness the result of the principles announced and the policies to be tried which shall have their direct influence and effect upon the campaign of 1904? Is there anybody in this great audience—aye, is there anybody in the state of Ohio, who hesitates for one moment, under all the conditions which have gone before, under all the environments of the present, under all the hopes of the future, to see one single cause as to why the republican party should change one iota in those principles?

"Human liberty, protection to American industries, and our workingmen. We started with that slogan many years ago. It went forth and reached the hearts of every fireside in the land, and if we needed any additional tribute or any accessory to add to the luster of that monument, it would be the culmination of happiness and contentment perceptible everywhere around us. I once said: 'Let well enough alone.' For God's sake 'keep letting it alone.'"

Looking to the Future.

"If you consider from a practical standpoint what is best for our country, with the evidence of the past before you, with the object lessons around and with certain deductions as to the future which must follow sound reasoning and right principles, can we ever hope to place ourselves in a happier position as regards ourselves and our own interests?

"I say to that, 'No,' and therefore in the opening of this state campaign, when we are called upon to voice our sentiment reflected from the people—so that it is their sentiment—and knowing full well and trusting in the intelligence of the people of the Buckeye state, are we not safe in starting forward simply to repeat our history to say we have redeemed every prophecy and fulfilled every promise?

"And it was not the result of accident or circumstance. It was because the republican party had found early in its existence the true principles which govern the people—namely: government by the people; a policy which was only tried first as an experiment and then, through the long years of experience, brought to its aid and support the best minds and the best thought of our country; that added an impetus, supported by the people, as a result of the experiences, an irresistible Americanism which could not be checked, and I give notice to the democratic party, if you get in the way we will run over you.

"The people are not narrow in their line of reasoning. It is a matter of pride to us that the people of this country are so intelligent, and when I hear the suggestions that the time may come as a result of this enormous influx of immigration the spirit of Americanism will be contaminated by contact. I say, O, no, my friends, the institutions of the United States are upon a surer foundation, and there is a bulwark built years ago which stands today stronger and stronger. That bulwark is our common schools, our institutions of education, so that we are adequately prepared for all assimilation that may be necessary for any and all who may come to our hospitable shores.

"The future of the United States cannot be measured in words. The experience of fifty years has taught us that nothing is impossible. There are no conditions existing today but are in a further stage of development than they have been in the past. Our great reservoirs of mineral wealth have just been opened, and through the intelligence, the ingenuity, and the industry of our people, coupled with those natural advantages, the United States stands today in the front rank of the industrial nations of the world.

"Having just arrived at that point, does any one suppose we are going to stop or halt in our progress? That is not the spirit of the American people. We will go on and on; riches untold will come from old mother earth; under the inspiration of energy and our mechanical devices, and that wealth added to our country's treasure will make us stronger even than before in the financial circles of the world, there is nothing impossible that is susceptible to human agency or ingenuity that we cannot reap an advantage from.

"That is a business proposition, my friends. That is a proposition which must be faced from all sides and considered with all interests in view, and if there is one thing more than another that makes me hopeful for these developments in the future it is because of this great prosperity and development people are beginning to appreciate that all interest and all factors that contribute to these results are and should be of mutual interest.

Capital and Labor.

"I speak of the relationship between capital and labor. The day is dawning when that all important, aye, economically important, question will be taken up, discussed and considered, not purely from the standpoint of politics but from the standpoints of humanity and society.

"That is simply another mile stone to mark our progress in that direction, but it will not be the last. 'Onward' is our motto as a people, and in order that that advance may be safe and sure, all the people must look for guidance along the path to those who lead them and have led them safely in the past. It is because of this that I speak hopefully of the future of the republican party, not only in Ohio but in the nation, and I would speak in such words and with such emphasis as would inspire the minds not only of the republicans by profession but of every man who from the standpoint of humanity and patriotism will and must consider the best interests of his country.

"The republican party is in the lead and we have no brass band ahead of us. We are going to follow along the lines and by the straight path which we have trodden for nearly fifty years. You must accept results as proof, and if you consider not only your own material interests but the best interests of society and of our common country, you cannot fail to find yourselves in the ranks of the republican party without any regard to past party affiliations, marching shoulder to shoulder with soldiers who have won the battles of the past and who are leading on to new victories, with that banner floating aloft which proclaims the principles of the republican party."

NOMINATING SPEECH BY HANNA.

Effort Is Making to Have Him Sserve as National Chairman and Nominate Roosevelt.

New York, June 3.—[Special.]—It was ascertained tonight that President Roosevelt's friends, believing he is to be nominated by acclamation, are to ask Senator Hanna to remain chairman of the republican national committee and conduct the fight in 1904 for Roosevelt just as he led the fight for McKinley in 1896 and 1900. They may go further and ask Mr. Hanna to place Mr. Roosevelt in nomination if it can be so arranged. When President Roosevelt returns to Washington—and he is expected to be there within a few days—certain republicans who have always been friendly to Senator Hanna, and others who have not been on a familiar footing with him, are to talk with President Roosevelt for the purpose of assuring the president that the wisest move to be made at this time is to induce Senator Hanna to remain as national chairman.

SCOTT ELECTED BY 49 VOTES.

Official Count in Fourth Supreme Court District Gives Place to Democrat by Narrow Margin.

Quincy, Ill., June 3.—[Special.]—The official count of the vote in the Fourth supreme judicial district of Illinois shows that Guy C. Scott of Aledo is elected to the state Supreme bench by a majority of forty-nine votes over Judge Joseph N. Carter, republican, of Quincy. There is some talk of a contest, but Judge Carter does not approve of it.

The majorities in the several counties of the district are given as follows:

FOR SCOTT—Brown, 389; Cass, 539; Mason, 369; Menard, 240; Mercer, 1,810; Schuyler, 113. Total, 3,450.

FOR CARTER—Adams, 43; Fulton, 738; Hancock, 143; McDonough, 609; Morgan, 352; Henderson, 470; Rock Island, 345; Warren, 701. Total, 3,401.

LONG TRIP BY NEW LIFEBOAT.

Queer Looking Craft Comes from Muskegon to Chicago in Three Days.

After three days' rolling in Lake Michigan a new pattern lifeboat, set adrift with three occupants at Muskegon, came to port in Chicago yesterday morning. The odd craft reached port at dawn with sail set, and from the life saving station at the mouth of the river looked like an incoming schooner. The tug Charnley was hurried into the lake to tow the vessel to dock, only to find the supposed schooner a metallic cylinder thirty feet long. Capt. R. D. Mayo, formerly in the government life saving service, was in charge of the lifeboat, wihch he invented. He kept sail on the craft until it reached dock alongside the life savers' pier.

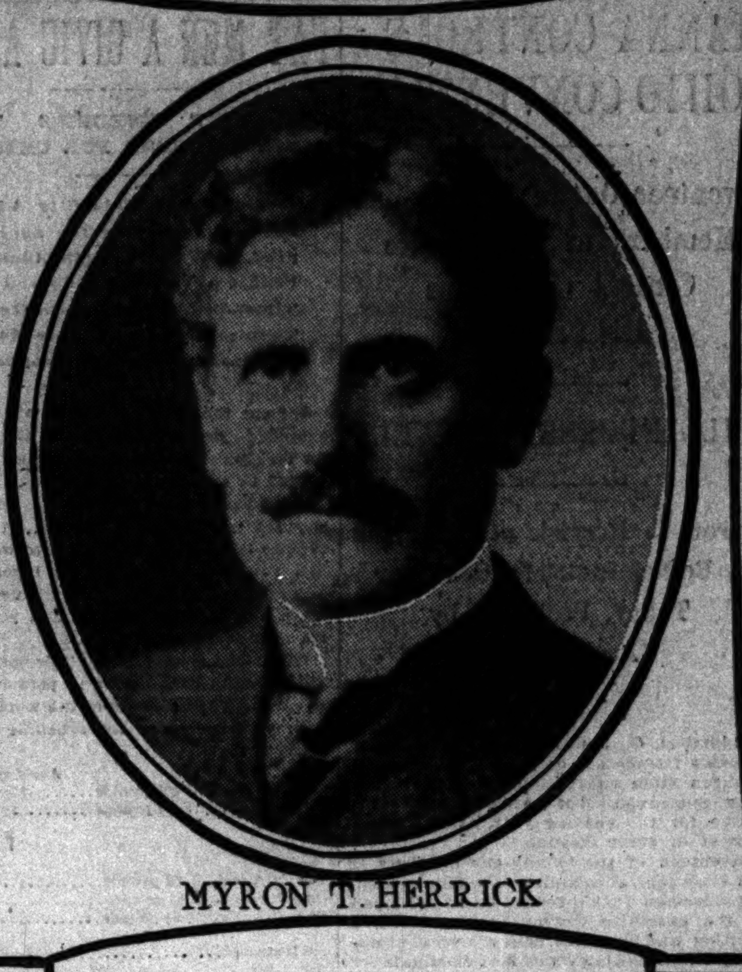

MISTAKES HART FOR A BURGLAR

Government Geological Surveyor Killed by Watchman of a Pennsylvania Hotel.

West Elizabeth, Pa., June 3.—Government Geological Surveyor E. M. Hart of Blairsville was mistaken for a burglar and killed by Night Watchman Edward Thomas of the Hotel Jefferson, in Jefferson township, Allegheny county, at an early hour today. Thomas is under arrest.

TO BE NOMINATED FOR GOVERNOR OF OHIO.

MYRON T. HERRICK

Col. Myron T. Herrick, who will be the nominee for governor of the Ohio republican convention, now in session at Columbus, is president of the Society for Savings of Cleveland, a mutual savings society with $37,000,000 of deposits, and is the Ohio member of the republican national committee. He was born at Huntington, O., in 1854, was graduated from Oberlin college and the Ohio Wesleyan university, and in 1878 was admitted to the bar. He practiced law until 1886, when he was elected secretary and treasurer of the Society for Savings, of which he became the head in 1894. Two years ago he was elected president of the American Bankers' association. Col. Herrick and William McKinley were close personal friends, and Herrick was one of the first men McKinley placed on his staff of colonels when he was elected governor of Ohio. He is one of the trustees and the treasurer of the National McKinley Memorial association.

GIRL IS MARRIED BY SIDE OF COFFIN OF HER FATHER.

Miss Marie Morse Becomes Bride of Harry A. Horner, Believing Her Father Would Approve the Step.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 3.—[Special.]—Standing by the side of the coffin which held the body of her father, Henry G. Morse, president of the New York Shipbuilding company, Miss Marie Morse this afternoon exchanged marriage vows with Harry A. Horner, to whom she was to have been wedded on Saturday in Holy Trinity Protestant Episcopal church.

Mr. Morse was stricken with apoplexy on Tuesday afternoon in the office of J. P. Morgan in New York.

Mr. Morse was to have given his daughter away on Saturday. Considerations of love and sentiment impelled Miss Morse yesterday to reconsider her determination to put off her marriage.

"It would please father," she told her family, "if he could know that he was here when I became a bride. He would not be satisfied, I am sure, if the wedding did not take place. So I shall be married today." This decision was acquiesced in by Mrs. Morse and her children.

FAILURE BRINGS NEW DISASTER.

Atlas Loan Company at St. Thomas Closes Its Doors as Result of the Ames Crash.

Toronto, Ont., June 3.—As a result of the failure of A. E. Ames & Co. yesterday the Atlas Loan company of St. Thomas today closed its doors. A. E. Wallace, president of the Atlas, was connected with the Ames firm. It is stated the liabilities of the Atlas firm will reach $400,000.

Many people of St. Thomas have all their deposits in the Atlas company. They fear they will be ruined, though Mr. Wallace made the statement that he expected the depositors would be paid in full. The money loaned on mortgages, it is said, amounts to $400,000.

A statement of the affairs of A. E. Ames & Co., whose suspension was announced yesterday, has been prepared and shows a substantial estate. The assets consist largely of stocks, which, of course, have a fluctuating value, but it is understood that in case of careful handling the suspension will not result in any disastrous losses to creditors. Deposit accounts range from small amounts up to thousands.

RELIEF FUND REACHES $19,260.

More Contributions for Jews Reported and Entertainments Swell the Official Figures.

Treasurer S. J. Kline of the Kisheneff relief committee reports a total of $19,260 in subscriptions. Receipts of more than $5 since the last report are as follows:

Chicago Lodge No. 4, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks	$100.00
Julius Rosenwald	100.00
Lyon Bros	100.00
Chippewa Falls, Wis	33.00
Millinery employés, Mandel's	31.00
Ladies' Refuge of Chicago	25.00
Herman Baum	15.00
Congregation B'nai Sholem	5.80

Five hundred dollars was raised last evening at a charity ball in the West Chicago clubhouse, 50 Throop street. The Star Whist and Literary club raised $100 at an entertainment given in Douglas clubhouse. The Relief league will meet at 52 Dearborn street at 8 o'clock tomorrow night, when the plans for the Coliseum entertainment on June 20 will be settled.

HANCOCK TAVERN A FRAUD.

Long After the Boston Tea Party Took Place the Hotel Was a Four Room Dwelling.

Boston, Mass., June 3.—[Special.]—The old Hancock tavern, recently taken down and which made a fortune for its owner, largely on the strength of the tradition that it was here the members of the Boston tea party met and disguised themselves before going to Griffin's wharf, Dec. 16, 1773, to empty the British tea into the harbor, was tonight declared useless as a landmark by a committee of the New England Historic Genealogical society, appointed to investigate its history. They discovered that for years before and after the tea party it was a four room dwelling, and not until 1812 was it known as Hancock's tavern.

MISS WARE IS UNDER ARREST.

Former Commissioner at Eugene Is Charged with Conspiracy to Obtain Lands by Fraud.

Portland, Ore., June 3.—Miss Marie Ware, who recently resigned as United States commissioner at Eugene, at the request of United States District Judge Bellinger, was arrested here today. Miss Ware is charged with conspiracy to obtain government lands by fraud. Horace G. McKinley, timber land locater, was arrested yesterday charged with making false affidavits in the office of the United States commissioner at Eugene.

DEPEW ON THE PRESIDENT

NEW YORK SENATOR SAYS ROOSEVELT MAKES DARING CAMPAIGN.

Declares His Anti-Trust Attitude Has Endeared Him to the People and Taken from the Democrats Their Chief Political Thunder — Looks with Optimistic Eye on the Growth of Labor Unions and the Prevalence of Strikes.

"What do I think of the present political situation? Why, there is no political situation!" said Senator Chauncey M. Depew last night, when seen at the Annex, shortly after his arrival from New York, to attend today's annual meeting of the Chicago and Northwestern railway.

"President Roosevelt, who is the natural candidate for the presidency, of the republican party, is an extraordinary man in many respects. His political campaign is the most daring ever made by any presidential candidate. It is contrary to all rules of political campaigns and peculiarly individual.

"It is not a campaign of republicanism but of Rooseveltism, and the people are delighted with the change. The fact that there is no concealment or subterfuge strongly appeals to the people. They prefer an impulsive man who occasionally goes wrong to a crafty man who never makes mistakes.

Steals Democratic "Thunder."

"In his attitude toward the trusts President Roosevelt has taken the side of the people, and he stands as the exponent of the popular sentiment on the trust question. The idea is generally prevalent that President Roosevelt has antagonized Wall street in making his fight against the trusts. That is just the kind of man the people want. His action in dealing with the trust question has left the democratic party no ground to stand on except as champion of capital and combinations."

"What do I think of the strike situation?" continued Mr. Depew. "I think strikes are a healthy sign. There are no strikes in hard times. Strikes simply mean an effort to adjust the distribution of the shares of compensation between employer and wageworker. If there is nothing to distribute, no effort will be made to regulate the distribution.

"The organization of labor on the one hand and that of the employers on the other has greatly simplified matters. As the opposing forces are powerful and organized, there are fewer to deal with, and it is easier to establish a basis for an equitable agreement between the two parties. Although strikes are a severe remedy, they serve a good end. The general situation never seemed to me more hopeful and promising of stability and prosperity than just now."

To Choose His Own Running Mate.

"I have not the least doubt," said Mr. Depew, returning to the subject of national politics, "that President Roosevelt will be nominated by acclamation and that he will be granted the privilege of choosing his own running mate. He will probably select some good man from the middle or western states. I am confident that his majority will be the largest ever given to any presidential candidate by the electoral college.

"As to the democratic party, I think Judge Parker will be nominated by the democratic national convention. Mr. Cleveland has maintained a thoroughly dignified position since his retirement, but he will not get the nomination. No man distasteful to William J. Bryan has the least chance in the convention."

Senator Depew, Frederick W. Vanderbilt, H. McKay Twombley and J. C. Fargo, president of the American Express company, came to Chicago yesterday to attend the annual meeting of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad company today. They arrived over the Lake Shore road at 8:30 o'clock in the evening and took rooms at the Annex. They expect to return to New York tonight. Senator and Mrs. Depew will sail from New York next Wednesday to visit Mrs. Depew's mother in Paris.

FORBID USE OF THE TELEPHONE.

Radical Action Taken by the Old Order of German Baptists in Conference at Wakurasa, Ind.

Goshen, Ind., June 3.—A ban was placed on the use of telephones by the Old Order of German Baptists at the annual meeting held near Wakurasa, this county.

This will discourage its use, though not going so far as to insist that the more progressive members who have adopted its use remove their telephones. The only specific reason given during the discussion was that telephones give offense, but when asked to specify the objectors could give no satisfactory reason. They are opposed to all evidences of progress and advancement over the facilities enjoyed by their forefathers. Except the Amish, who wear no buttons on their clothes, but instead hooks and eyes, the Old Order of German Baptists is the most conservative denomination in the country.

They oppose college educations for their children, favoring only instruction in the rudiments for them. They have no Sunday schools, vigorously condemn all fraternal and secret orders, and dress exceedingly plain. The men wear broad rimmed hats and the women plain black bonnets.

CITIES ALL SEEKING CULTURE.

Boston Audience Is Told by Chicagoan of the Value of Music in Educating People.

Boston, Mass., June 3.—[Special.]—"Boston justly ranks among the foremost cities of the world for its culture. But I doubt if any research of select clubs in transcendental philosophy has been as valuable to the world as that which has been accomplished by the Boston symphony concerts, lifting a city population to a higher degree of musical capacity by years of well planned programs perfectly rendered. And in Chicago we have come to recognize that the organization of which Theodore Thomas is the leader has been doing university work as truly as the institution which is called the University of Chicago."

So said Prof. Richard G. Moulton of Chicago at the commencement exercises at Boston university today, while speaking on the subject of "The Renaissance of University Education."

Prof. Moulton spoke briefly of the religious and political revolutions of the renaissance, and said that a third wave of the tide is upon us and this time it is a renaissance of culture.

NERVY BURGLAR STEALS DOG.

Tucks Animal Under His Coat to Smother Its Barking, Then Ransacks the House.

Buffalo, N. Y., June 3.—[Special.]—A nervy burglar, confronted last night in the residence of F. V. E. Bardol by a muzzled bulldog, tucked it under his coat to smother the barking and began a search which rewarded him with considerable jewelry. The burglar was discovered by the housekeeper, who, with two other women, chased him. He clung to the dog for a block, and, finding the women closing in on him, turned and threw the dog at them, and, leaping to a high fence, escaped through a vacant lot. The fence was too much for the women and they abandoned the pursuit.

BIG ELECTRIC LINE PROPOSED.

Company Incorporated to Connect All Principal Illinois Cities by Dixon Capitalists.

Sterling, Ill., June 3.—[Special.]—A company has been incorporated to build an electric line from Chicago to Rock Island and from Steward, Ill., to Cairo, the total distance being about 650 miles. The plan is to build a main line from De Kalb to Rock Island and then to branch from various cities until the line reaches Cairo on the south and Chicago on the east. The undertaking is the most extensive that has been attempted in the country. The directors of the new company are Titus brothers of Steward and Shaw brothers of Dixon, with the head offices at Dixon. The powerhouse is to be located in Rock Falls.

MINERS TO VOTE ON NEW DISPUTE.

Meeting Called for Pottsville, Pa., on June 15; When Action Will Be Taken.

OPERATORS REMAIN FIRM

Union Representatives Declare Mine Owners Are Quibbling and Violating Promises.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., June 3.—[Special.]—The three anthracite boards of united mineworkers met here today and decided to call a joint convention of the men to meet at Pottsville on June 15.

The call for the convention of miners, which was issued tonight, is signed by the presidents and secretaries of districts Nos. 1, 7, and 9. It recites the contention of the operatives that Presidents Nicholls, Dettrey, and Fahey were chosen members of the board of conciliation in conformity with the award of the strike commission, and the refusal of the operators to accept them as representatives of the miners. The call continues:

"In view of the action of the operators in refusing to carry out the award of the commission the executive boards of districts Nos. 1, 7, and 9, after carefully canvassing the entire situation, decided to notify all local unions that a convention will be held in the city of Pottsville, beginning at 10 a. m., Monday, June 15, 1903. The purpose of this convention will be to decide what action shall be taken or what course shall be pursued by the officers having your affairs in charge."

Statement of Operators.

The statement of the operators as given to the public today is as follows:

"Referring to the official announcement of the representatives of the United Mineworkers of America as given in this morning's press, the contention of the operators' representatives elected to the board of conciliation is that the recognition of the United Mineworkers of America was not one of the questions submitted to the commission for decision; that Mr. Mitchell admitted this by appearing before the commission simply as a representative of the anthracite mineworkers; that the award of the commission specifically asserted that the recognition of the United Mineworkers of America, as at present constituted, was inadvisable; that award No. 4 providing for the board of conciliation lays down certain rules for the appointment of members of said board.

"The representatives of the operators have been appointed strictly within the terms of said award, and there is no objection on their part to cordially accepting Messrs. Nicholls, Dettrey, and Fahey as the representatives of the miners, providing they are elected by a majority of the mineworkers, as specified in the award of the commission. The objection is solely against their appearing as the official representatives of the United Mineworkers of America, appointed by an executive committee, without authority for such appointment."

Mine President Answers Charge.

District President Fahey, the chairman of the miners' representatives, made the following statement:

"There was no meeting of the stockholders of the coal companies called for the purpose of appointing the operators' side on the conciliation board, but the representative of the stockholders, the officials of the company, met and selected their representatives. The mineworkers selected their members, as by calling a meeting of all their members or stockholders, but by their organization through their representatives as empowered by the rules and regulations of their organization, which does exist, and as provided by the award of the coal strike commission. We raise no question as to the manner in which the operators selected their representatives, and we at least hoped for the same treatment at their hands. Our understanding is that miners and operators shall stand on an equal footing in every way on the board of conciliation."

Truesdale Sees No Trouble.

New York, June 3.—President Truesdale of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad made the following statement today:

"The operators without a single exception, so far as I know, are not only entirely willing but extremely desirous of carrying out the terms of the award of the anthracite strike commission, not only in spirit but to the letter.

"There is no occasion for making any threats of a strike or tieup to settle the point at issue.

"The commission's award provides for the appointment of an umpire. I am sure all the operators will be entirely willing to have this question referred to the chairman of the commission, Judge Gray, and let him decide it, and I have no doubt Judge Gray would be entirely willing to do so.

"So far as the Lackawanna company is concerned there is not a single grievance or question of difference between the company and its mine employés which is to be referred to or passed upon by the board of conciliation."

UNION PACIFIC STRIKE ENDS.

Machinists and Company Both Grant Concessions—Men Return to Work on Monday.

Omaha, Neb., June 3.—The machinists' strike on the Union Pacific system, that has continued for more than eleven months, was settled today at a conference between President Burt of the railroad company and representatives of the strikers. The terms of settlement follow:

Piece work shall be abolished; every striking machinist shall be reinstated; an increase of 7 per cent in wages; nine hours shall constitute a day's work; the company retains such of its present force of nonunion men as it desires; the strike is to be declared off and work resumed Monday morning next at Council Bluffs, Omaha, Columbus, Grand Island, North Platte, Cheyenne, Rawlins, Green River, Evanston, Ogden, Denver, Cheyenne Wells, Ellis, Junction City, and Kansas City.

COAL DEALERS IN CONVENTION.

Retailers of Indiana and Michigan, with a Few from Ohio, Hold Meeting at Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 3.—[Special.]—The retail coal dealers of Indiana and Michigan are in session. Over 400, including many Ohio dealers, are here. Mine owners and sales agents of mine owners are in evidence. President Lake in his annual address said that the year had been one of hardships for dealers, and he hoped that such a condition of affairs would never exist again. The net gain in membership for the year was 300.

The association, President Lake said, had been subjected to much unjust criticism because of the popular impression that it was a combination. "We disclaim any knowledge whatever of the existence of a combination," said he. "This association has never tried to fix the price at which coal shall be sold."

News of the Labor World.

The conference between the Commercial club of Bedford, Ind., State Labor Commissioner McCormick, the quarry and mill operators, and the locked out workmen failed to agree as to a settlement of the trouble.

The commission created after a deadlock of the joint conference of Indiana miners and operators over the question of special men to fire explosives has made its report and the miners claim a victory because it calls for special men at more mines than the miners had asked.

The freight teamsters and freight handlers employed by the wholesale houses of St. Louis have returned to work after being on a strike for several weeks. The freight handlers and warehousemen employed at the freighthouses on both sides of the river have not yet settled their grievances.

Drastic Punishment for Union Men Who Refuse to Live Up to Agreement.

ACTION BY TWO BODIES.

Blacksmiths and Teamsters on Record Against Broken Faith with Employers.

national organization ordered the men back to work. His St. Louis representative, M. J. Dwyer, called the striking teamsters to a massmeeting and ordered them to return to work. He gave them until noon on Tuesday, and informed them that those who refused to obey would be expelled.

At the appointed hour 90 per cent of the teamsters were back at work. The employers reported the names of the others to the national officers, and all were informed that their membership cards had been called in and that they would not be recognized by any employer in St. Louis as members of the union.

Waiters May Strike at Noon.

Unless the conservative labor leaders prevent radical action the waiters, waitresses, and cooks will strike in several of Chicago's large downtown restaurants at noon today.

The joint board of the unions concerned in the struggle decided upon this course at a meeting held last night. Before laying out their plan of campaign the board heard reports from every restaurant in the downtown district, and found that only two of the leading ones had signed their scale.

The unanimity with which the restaurant men refused to sign the wage and hour schedules led the union leaders to decide that a strike is the only weapon left them, and they agreed to use it against the men who are at the head of the Restaurant Keepers' association.

General Tieup in Prospect.

Should the strike be called it probably will precipitate the general tieup that has been feared by the eating house interest. The restaurant men are prepared for a fight, and as soon as it is declared they will call a special meeting of their organization and vote on a proposition to close down every establishment within the loop.

Committees from the unions visited all of the restaurants yesterday and asked the proprietors to sign their scale. In every restaurant they were given the same negative response.

"We have nothing to do with the matter," was the stereotyped reply. "You must see our secretary, Mr. Seaman."

When committee after committee reported this answer to the joint board strike talk became general. Some of the union men wanted to have it called early in the morning, but as soon as the rush hour the majority of the board decided it to be the proper time for a spectacular opening of the struggle.

Will Concentrate the Strike.

The employés in all the restaurants will not be asked to go out, for the union officials do not believe such a course would be good policy at this time. Instead they will probably make the fight against three of the leading houses, but no names were given out last night.

Talk of the impending strike led some of the Chicago Federation of Labor leaders to hold a conference. All regret that the waiters and their affiliated locals have refused to deal with the employers as an association.

President W. G. Schardt and Organizer J. J. Fitzpatrick of the central organization will be requested this morning to visit the joint board of the unions and appeal to them for peace. They will attempt to demonstrate that the employers have a right to organize an association and that it should be recognized as a competent body to deal with.

Hotels in Less Danger.

As yet no attempts have been made by the unions to carry the strike to the hotels. They have refused to deal with the Hotel Men's association, but some of their leaders have informed Secretary Paul Blatchford that if the proprietors frame up a counter proposition it will be considered.

"I am inclined to believe that the unions draw a distinction between the hotels and the restaurants," said Secretary Blatchford for the hotel men. "We will make them another offer of settlement, and from present indications I think they will accept it, as they have told me that they will consider a counter proposition. This will be drawn up and presented as soon as possible."

Other Labor Developments.

Other labor developments of the day were as follows:

The Rock Island and the Burlington railroads signed agreements with the freight handlers. The Illinois Central will do the same on June 15.

Peace conferences were held by the laundry owners and their drivers, but no settlement was reached. Another meeting will be held today.

Twenty flat janitors tried to tie up the apartment buildings controlled by W. A. Merigold & Co., and threaten to spread the strike to other buildings if it is not settled today.

The packing house teamsters and the packers have been unable to reach an agreement on a wage scale, and there is renewed talk of a strike.

The Amalgamated Association of Street Railway Employés signed an agreement with the union loop which gives them a 20 per cent wage increase.

Strikes of cigarmakers in four shops forced the employers to agree to hire none but members of the International Cigarmakers' union.

The last obstacle to a peaceable adjustment of the freight handlers' controversy with the railroads centering in Chicago disappeared yesterday, when the Rock Island and the Burlington roads signed agreements. The scale recently signed by the Lake Shore was taken as a standard by both sides.

The Illinois Central refused to sign on the ground it had an agreement which is good until June 15. This was accepted by the men and a meeting will be held on that date to prepare a new agreement.

Laundry Strike Still Unsettled.

The laundry owners and their drivers were brought together by S. T. Edwards of the Chicago board of arbitration. At their meeting this morning Mr. Edwards may request five representative business men to be present. He will then ask both sides to accept a proposition that binds the employers to hire union help when it is available, otherwise to employ whom they please.

During the day the striking laundry workers made a demonstration before the Paragon laundry, 1700 North Ashland avenue. The owners tried to open up the plant, and one of their wagons, driven by Richard Richardson, was attacked. The goods were taken out, tossed about the street, and the wagon was turned over. A riot call was sent to the Sheffield avenue station, but before the police arrived Richardson had been knocked down and had received several scalp wounds. No one was arrested, as the strikers fled. Richardson was taken to his residence, 2104 North Marshfield avenue.

Flat Janitors Strike.

The flat janitors placed three of the apartment houses controlled by W. A. Merigold & Co. in a state of siege yesterday. Twenty of the men employed by the firm watched both the front and rear entrances, trying to stop the delivery of groceries and general supplies.

While they were on duty W. A. Merigold Jr. drove up in a fashionable cart and, entering the buildings, found the fires out, the hot water cooling, and the hallways uncleaned. Where the fires had not died down completely, he stirred them up and acted as a stoker. He treated it as a joke, but declared that the strike probably would be settled today, when the members of the firm have an opportunity to meet with the business agents of the union and find out exactly what they are striking for.

The strike followed the alleged discharge of Janitor Henry Janecke for refusing to consent to a transfer from the Surrenden building, 1653 Sheridan road, to a building owned by W. A. Clover. Mrs. Merigold requested the janitor to make the change.

The discharge was deemed sufficient cause for a strike, and the men employed by the firm in the Hampton, Sheridan road and Dakin street; the Curran, 1268 Sheridan road; and two other buildings in the vicinity went out. Later fourteen other janitors in the employ of the company joined the fight and began to picket.

"As yet we have not stopped any goods from being delivered," said Business Agent Alexander, "but we have requested several drivers to turn back. If the company does not settle this trouble tomorrow an active fight will be started, and the tenants will have to be the sufferers. Every building the firm has will be affected."

CROWD AT BOARD OF TRADE WAITING FOR DETECTIVES' RAID.

[From a photograph taken for The Tribune.]

The contemplated raid on the board of trade yesterday was headed off when twenty of the twenty-five brokers charged with operating bucket shops heard that warrants had been issued and appeared before Justice Bradwell and gave bonds. Expecting a visit by patrol wagons, a crowd of people gathered at the board of trade building to see the brokers hauled away, but were disappointed.

BLAMES A FEW LABOR LEADERS.

Correspondent Sums Up the Cause of the Deadlock in the Laundries of Chicago.

Chicago, June 3.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—All union labor in Chicago is now arrayed against the laundry owners in the demand that they should agree to employ only union help.

What is the present situation?

At the end of nearly five weeks of a complete tieup of all the larger laundries in the city, the laundry employés are eager to return to work, the laundry owners are eager to open their shops, the long suffering public is eager to get its accumulation of soiled linen laundered in the old convenient way—and the patience of all these three parties is nearly exhausted.

Who, then, are keeping the laundries closed?

A half dozen labor leaders who have set up as their aim the complete unionization of the laundries as a preliminary to the unionization of all other kinds of business one after another. The laundry business has been selected for attack on this point as less highly capitalized than many other forms of industry.

Why is the entire unionization of industries insisted upon? Because this means complete control, and organized labor in Chicago has deliberately set itself to rule or ruin.

Why has the Laundry Owners' association thus far held together—only five of its own members having broken ranks, although many of them are small men financially and unprepared for so severe a test of endurance?

Simply because they realize that it is not merely a question of rule or ruin, but of rule and ruin. Here are a handful of men who virtually are the union, since the rank and file are ignored, if conservative and conciliatory are denounced, while the real wishes of the majority are constantly overridden.

Are these half dozen men, then, of the sort to whom it would be prudent for business men to intrust the management of their carefully built up interests? Without saying anything derogatory to the labor leaders, it must be admitted that they have not had the past successful experience in the management of large business concerns which would justify their claim to complete control of such concerns.

Can men who have spent a good part of their lives in building up a business afford to turn it over to the control of a union a few months old, whose officials are more likely to have been selected for oratorical ability and demagogical policies than for business capacity?

Have the labor leaders of Chicago shown themselves so reasonable, so conciliatory, so broad minded, so considerate of the interests of the employers, so inclined to hold back the hot heads in the unions, that the laundry owners can safely look upon them as trustworthy custodians of their property interests? There is only one answer to be given by any fair minded person to this question. The employers cannot trust the labor delegates and stewards to leave them—if once their plants should be unionized—either fair profits or any such power of discipline by dismissal for incompetency or insubordination as is necessary to the successful management of any business.

Out of regard for their own interest the laundry owners should stand firmly on their original position of no discrimination against union or nonunion help, submission to arbitration, and freedom of employment.

Secondly, out of regard to the interests of the public, the laundry owners should stand firm. Because, if this strike is successful, one after another will follow, that of the restaurant workers first, to secure the same end, to the detriment of the present prosperity of our city.

Thirdly, out of regard to the interests of the working people, the employing class should do nothing at present to strengthen the intolerable tyranny of the labor leaders, which is felt even more keenly by the laborers than by any other class. The rank and file of the workers are well disposed, desirous only of a fair share in the profits of industry. They suffer more than any one else from the strikes, which are only too often called to gratify a labor leader's love of power and desire for prominence.

When the labor unions of Chicago shall be under better leadership, and this time must come, they can redeem themselves from the stigma which is now fast falling upon them and regain the confidence of the community.

Quo warranto proceedings to decide whether Justice Edwin J. Rhoades or Justice Henry D. Smalley should hold office in the town of Lake were filed yesterday by State's Attorney Deneen. The petition is filed at the instance of Justice Rhoades and is directed against Smalley, whose appointment is said to have been irregular.

W. F. Smith Dispels Mystery.

W. F. Smith, secretary of the Merchants' Mercantile agency, declares he has not mysteriously disappeared. The reports of Mr. Smith's disappearance and suggestions that he had been murdered emanated from Canton, O., where he had been on a business trip last week. He resides at the Del Prado hotel in Chicago. J. R. Knapman, treasurer of the agency, which is at 203 La Salle street, yesterday exhibited letters written by Mr. Smith from Elkhart, Ind., when he had gone from Canton.

WOMAN HURT BY AN AUTO

NOVICE DRIVES ON BOULEVARD AND SMASHUP RESULTS.

Machine Owned by I. R. Warn Runs Into a Trap and Mrs. Edith Dunham Sustains Severe Injury, Her Companion Jumping in Time to Save Herself—Horse So Badly Injured That It Is Shot—Crowd Holds Chauffeurs Till the Police Arrive.

An automobile containing four persons crashed into a trap, in which two women were driving, yesterday afternoon, at Grand boulevard and Forty-first street, killed the horse and injured one of the women. The other woman jumped when she saw that a collision was inevitable and escaped with a few scratches.

A crowd, which was attracted to the crossing by the collision, rushed in and held the automobilists, refusing to permit the big touring car to proceed until the police arrived and took the entire party to the Fiftieth street station.

The women in the trap were Mrs. Edith Dunham of 2004 Wabash avenue and Miss Kittie Dexter. Mrs. Dunham, who owned the trap, suffered a severe injury to one of her legs.

Auto Driver a Novice.

The auto was driven by I. R. Warn, 697 Fulton street, a novice, who was being instructed by L. W. Friedberg, a chauffeur employed by the firm that sold the auto. With them were two other persons whose names were withheld at the police station.

Each party blames the other for the accident and the witnesses believe that both the driver of the auto and the driver of the horse became excited and caused the collision.

The accident happened at 2:30 o'clock. Mrs. Dunham, driving a fine horse, was proceeding south in the boulevard on the left hand side of the center driveway. The trap was crossing Forty-first street when the big touring car came rushing north. It slacked its speed as it fell in behind a wagon loaded with gravel that was pulling across the boulevard, and at that moment the women in the trap became frightened at the prospect of a collision and tried to pull to the left. At the same instant the big auto car swerved to the right and crashed into the trap.

One Hurt, Another Jumps.

The horse was lifted half into the car and thrown back, turning the trap completely around and throwing Mrs. Dunham to the roadway. Miss Dexter jumped just before the crash came.

Mr. Warn, although he has had but little experience with a machine, managed to stop the auto, and its occupants were uninjured.

Park Policeman Daniel Gleason soon arrived, shot the horse to end its sufferings, and then summoned a patrol wagon. The witnesses directed their anger toward Mr. Friedberg, the chauffeur, and charges were made that he was not licensed. His employer, however, declares he is one of the best auto drivers in the city.

Mr. Warn bought the machine three weeks ago and since that time has been taking lessons in handling it, with Mr. Friedberg as his instructor.

TRUSTEES PAY DAMAGE CLAIM.

Cosmopolitan Power Company Settles with the Drainage Board for $22,492.

The claim of the Cosmopolitan Power company for damage to its property near Canal street by reason of the widening of the river at that point was settled by the drainage board yesterday for $22,492. The trustees built a dock adjoining the property some months ago, and when this gave way the power house of the plant began to crumble. Before the dock was built the trustees asked the power company to remove part of its building and then offered the same amount that is now to be paid as damages.

The board has received a petition from property owners on the west fork of the south branch, asking that the river be dredged. The water is said to have been receding since the opening of the canal.

The board approved an ordinance for an issue of $1,500,000 in 4 per cent bonds, dating from July 1 next. Bids will be received up to June 17.

SCHUMACHER ESTATE MAY PAY.

Blue Island Avenue Bankers' Creditors Probably Safe—Relative's Business Not Affected.

Efforts are being made to straighten up the affairs of Charles C. Schumacher, who died recently, and who operated a bank and safety deposit vaults at 266 Blue Island avenue. Attorney George W. Hess, Schumacher's lawyer, does not believe the loss to those who deposited funds with Schumacher will be great, for it is thought his assets will cover the amounts which were loaned to him by small depositors. Charles F. Schumacher, who operates a real estate and loan office at 256 Blue Island avenue, was related to C. C. Schumacher, but was not connected with him in a business way. The death of C. C. Schumacher and the trouble with the estate and will not affect the real estate and loan firm.

Mr. Cheney Denies Reconciliation.

The return of Mrs. John Vance Cheney from New York a few days ago gave rise to a rumor that there would be a reconciliation between her and Mr. Cheney. When Mr. Cheney was asked about the report yesterday he replied "Never." Mrs. Cheney obtained a divorce some months ago.

HAIR CLIPPER CAUSES PANIC AMONG GIRLS AT ROSELAND.

Elsie Wehling Loses Her Braids to a Man Who Put Them in a Basket and Fled—Crowd Joins in Fruitless Hunt.

Carrying a pair of shears and a basket with which to harvest and garner locks of hair, a stranger has caused terror among the little girls of Roseland, and an organized hunt was made for the "clipper" by a crowd of citizens.

Severed so close to the neck that blood flowed from the wounds made by the scissors points, Elsie Wehling's braids were taken from her so quickly she did not have time to cry for help. The girl is 13 years old and lives at 11542 Yale avenue.

Mrs. John Wehling, mother of the child, ran to the residence of T. B. Stroseker, One Hundred and Seventeenth street and Yale avenue, and telephoned to the Kensington police. A number of young men volunteered to pursue the assailant and aided the police. A thorough search was made for the man, but he was not found.

Four other girls told of seeing a man earlier in the day who answered the same description. They said he started toward them, motioning to them to wait, but they became frightened and fled. These girls were Alice Bymer, Katherine Decker, Alice Decker, and Mary Moran. Their ages are from 11 to 14 years.

"I was standing in the alley when I suddenly felt some one grab me from behind," said Elsie Wehling. "Then I heard the click of a pair of shears and the man ran south in the alley. I was too frightened to cry and I just stood still and watched the man as he turned around the corner. I saw him open the basket and put the braid of hair which he had clipped from my head under the cover."

ROBBER'S VICTIM ARRESTED ON A DISORDERLY CHARGE.

After Being Held Up on the Madison Street Bridge Charles A. Smith Falls Into Clutches of the Police.

Troubles were multiplied for Charles A. Smith, a constable attached to Justice Bradwell's court. After he had been beaten and robbed the police ran up and arrested him for disorderly conduct, a charge from which he was freed in Justice Prindiville's court yesterday. Smith was walking across the Madison street bridge late Tuesday night when he was attacked by five men, one of whom held a revolver. He resisted as best he could, drawing his own revolver and firing several shots, but he was struck down and robbed of his gold watch and $5. Then the holdup men fled and the police came.

Robbed and Beaten.—S. P. Kleindest, 2731 South Park avenue, was robbed and severely beaten by four men yesterday afternoon at Indiana and Rush streets. He was taken to the Passavant hospital, and soon afterward the police arrested four men who were taken before Kleindest and identified. The prisoners gave their names as Henry Koeningsberger, Clifton Cook, John Berners, and Henry Callahan. Kleindest lost $10.

Two Men Rob Five.—Five men were held up and robbed in the saloon of William L. Slimm, 295 Seminary avenue, last evening by two masked robbers, who met with no opposition, although three of the victims were armed. D. H. Hammill, 443 Seminary avenue, one of the victims, lost a gold watch and $40, while from the other men about $50 was obtained.

D. K. COCHRANE, JUSTICE. TO SUCCEED "BIFF" HALL.

Circuit and Superior Court Judges Meet and Fill Vacancies Created by Death and Resignation.

David K. Cochrane was elected yesterday by the judges of the Circuit and Superior courts to succeed the late W. T. Hall as justice of the peace. Mr. Cochrane has practiced law at the Chicago bar nearly fifteen years. He is a member of the firm of Meek, Cochrane & Munsell, with offices in the Metropolitan block. He is a graduate of the University of Michigan, as was his predecessor in the office of justice.

Mr. Cochrane is president of the Third Ward Republican club and lives at 3530 Ellis avenue.

At the meeting of the judges Judge Freeman presided. Aside from Mr. Cochrane there was but one candidate—D. J. Lyon. Mr. Cochrane was elected on the first ballot.

A successor to A. L. Crowley, who recently resigned the position of jury commissioner, was also elected, the choice falling on James A. McLane. He lives in the Third ward and has a real estate office at 100 Washington street.

All of the twenty-eight jurists except Judge Clifford and Judge Windes were present at the judges' meeting. They indulged in a good deal of joking over the results of Monday's election, and it is understood that Judge Hanecy received some sharp thrusts from certain of the victorious democratic judges.

RAID HOTEL TO FIND POOLROOM.

Detectives Visit Sherman House and Arrest Three Men Who Are Said to Be O'Leary's Agents.

Three men accused of operating a poolroom on the main floor of the Sherman house were arrested yesterday by Central station detectives. The three men are John Doyle, Robert Anderson, and I. Murphey. Considerable excitement was caused among the guests. It is said by the police that the men are employed by O'Leary. They will be given a hearing this morning at the Harrison street police court.

BOARD OF TRADE HEADS OFF RAID.

Members for Whom Warrants Are Issued Hurry to Court and Furnish Bonds.

HEARING TO BE JUNE 10.

Twenty-five Officials and Brokers Charged with Operating Bucket Shops.

Private detectives were cheated out of a chance to make a raid on the board of trade yesterday, when twenty members of the board, learning that warrants had been issued for them, hurried to Justice Bradwell's court in the morning and surrendered themselves. Five others for whom warrants had been issued were reported out of the city.

All are charged with operating bucket shops, and the twenty were released at once, their hearing being set for June 10. William E. Lambert and William G. Anderson made the complaints. They are said to be detectives working in the interest of other parties.

Bucket shop men, who have been deprived of the use of the board of trade quotations, are believed to be behind the warrants, and George T. Sullivan, whose place was raided last week, is charged by some with being responsible.

Warrants for Twenty-five.

The board of trade members for whom warrants were issued were:

Reuben G. Chandler, president;
Ernest A. Hamill, treasurer;
George W. Patten,
H. M. Montgomery,
William C. Warren,
Frank C. Remick,
Charles H. Taylor,
R. D. Richardson,

Bradwell Issues Warrants.

After their failure to secure warrants from Justice John C. Everett on Tuesday, the detectives appeared before Justice Bradwell. They said they were willing to take oath that the men for whom they wished to procure warrants were engaged in a fraudulent business. The warrants were prepared in a short time and the detectives swore to them. It then was too late to get service, and further action was delayed until yesterday morning.

The board of trade men learned of the movements of Anderson and Lambert, but they did not know when the warrants would be served. They decided not to take the risk of opening their safes, but waited until a "tip" that there was to be "something doing immediately" reached them.

It was said the "tip" came from Justice Bradwell himself, who informed the different defendants over the telephone that they could escape the unpleasant experience of riding in the "omnibus" by going right over to his office at 128 Clark street.

Surprise for the "Raiders."

It was said this action was not expected by those directing the action against the board, that they had intended that the wealthy brokers and traders should be disturbed while at work and taken in custody by constables.

When the "tip" reached the board and La Salle street it was promptly acted upon. The accused men suspended business activity for the time being, and there was a rush for cabs. Upon reaching Justice Bradwell's court the brokers furnished bonds for their appearance June 10 and then returned to the board of trade.

Much excitement had been caused there by these developments. A large crowd of traders assembled at the La Salle street side of the building, and there in loud tones discussed the case, but when it became apparent that none of the members was to be carried off in a patrol wagon things quieted down and business went on as usual.

Detectives Lambert and Anderson could not be found after the bonds had been signed by the defendants. They are said to have told Justice Bradwell that they bought and sold wheat through many of the board of trade firms and that the prosecution would be conducted as a result of their trading.

Blames Bucket Shop Men.

"This attack on the board," said President Chandler, "is an act of retaliation and revenge on the part of the bucket shop men, on account of the board's withholding from them its market quotations. They are desperate since the failure of their last scheme to capture the open board of trade and work it as a quotation factor. The board of trade is more than willing to put to the test of the law its methods of dealing. The attack is prompted by men blinded with disappointment and rage, as they realize the impending annihilation of their lawless business."

Telegraphed to Other Cities.

"This is a case of malicious persecution," Thoron Logan said, "and bucket shop men are behind it all. The charge on which we were arrested is absolutely false and without grounds.

"Bucket shop men have wired to several cities that the board of trade was raided and all of the directors arrested. From Omaha I have received a telegram informing me that it was rumored about that city that the board of trade was shut down, and the greatest of excitement prevailed among the brokers for a time."

Statement by Sullivan.

George T. Sullivan refused to be interviewed in connection with the case further than to deny he had anything to do with the prosecution.

"My name is not signed to any of the warrants, nor am I interested in the affair," Sullivan said. "Of course I know those fellows across the street are doing an illegitimate business, but I am not prosecuting or persecuting them as they did me."

The articles removed by Detective Wooldridge from Sullivan's office have been returned because of a replevin writ secured for the grain company. The writ was returnable yesterday before Justice Wolff, and the court decided that Sullivan's company could keep the property.

GO TO LAW OVER $6,000 ESTATE.

Sixteen Nieces and Nephews of Mrs. Amanda M. Paul Want Their Aunt's Will Set Aside.

Sixteen nieces and nephews of Amanda M. Paul, who died in 1901, leaving an estate valued at $6,000, filed a bill in the Circuit court yesterday in which they ask that her will be declared void. Mrs. Paul's nephew, Aaron H. Cole, it is said, managed the execution of the will, by the terms of which he was left nearly all of her estate. A charge is also made that Mrs. Paul was of unsound mind and memory at the time she signed the instrument.

JAMES B. HOY DIES SUDDENLY.

Succumbs to Appendicitis at His Residence, 591 South Sawyer Avenue.

James B. Hoy, who was indicted in connection with the tax fraud cases involving the Masonic temple, died suddenly yesterday at his home, 591 South Sawyer avenue, of appendicitis. He was 31 years old and left a wife and one child. Mr. Hoy was active in local politics and was the agent for a brewing company. Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at St. Agatha's church. Burial will be at Calvary.

POLITICS SWAYS THE D.A.R

"INFLUENCE" WEIGHED AGAINST PERSONALITY IN ELECTION.

Former, Represented by Mrs. Dorothea Law of Dixon, Candidate for Vice Regent, Wins Easily—State Convention Held in Oak Park Congregational Church—Mrs. James H. Walker Presides at Luncheon—Next Meeting to Be at Moline.

"Personality as Opposed to Political Influence" was made the battle cry at the seventh annual conference of the Illinois chapters of the Daughters of the American Revolution, held at Oak Park yesterday. "Personality" was a qualification for office weighed in the scales with "political influence," and, despite the pleadings of Mrs. Frederick Lee of Mrs. Alice Bradford Wiles' camp, the ability to control votes overbalanced the charms of a "fascinating personality."

The issue was raised by Mrs. Lee after Mrs. Matthew T. Scott of Bloomington had nominated Mrs. Dorothea Law for vice regent of the Illinois organization. Mrs. Scott urged votes for Mrs. Law on the ground that her influence in D. A. R. circles had been largely responsible for the election of Mrs. Charles H. Deere to the regency. This declaration brought Mrs. Lee to her feet.

Objects to Political Influence.

"I do not believe," said the friend of Mrs. Wiles, "that political influence should have anything to do with a candidate's fitness for office. We should consider personality alone in our elections." Mrs. Lee then nominated Mrs. Frank Barker of Rochelle. Mrs. Barker immediately withdrew.

The question raised by Mrs. Lee caused no little stir, as all the friends of Mrs. Law were ready to vouch for their candidate's "charming personality" as well as her influence, but before they had opportunity to do so Mrs. Law had been elected. This was the only effort made by any of the Wiles faction to influence the election.

Result of Election.

The election resulted as follows:

Vice regent—Mrs. Dorothea H. Law of Dixon.

Recording secretary—Mrs. J. R. Kimball of Moline.

Treasurer—Mrs. H. I. Rupp of Monmouth.

Mrs. Matthew T. Scott and Mrs. Benjamin Fessenden were appointed to serve with the state regent, Mrs. Deere, on the Fort Massac board.

The convention opened its all day session in the auditorium of the Second Congregational church at 10 o'clock in the morning. Long before Mrs. Deere called the meeting to order daughters from all over the state were gathered in groups discussing past political battles, the national issues, the proper way to celebrate the fourth of July, and the impending election. The address of welcome was made by Mrs. Frances A. Lackey, regent of the George Rogers Clarke chapter of Oak Park. In her response Mrs. Deere told of the marvelous growth of the Illinois organization since the first convention in Chicago was attended by two members. During the last year, she said, chapters had been organized at Effingham, Morrison, Knoxville, and a second chapter at Monmouth.

The report of the state secretary was read by Miss Florence Gould, and showed the present membership in the state to be 2,400.

Mrs. Walker Presides.

Mrs. James H. Walker presided at the luncheon which followed the morning session and which was served by 130 members of the church. Mrs. Walker's tribute to the organization and its purpose of immortalizing the dead continentals was received with applause. She then introduced the speakers, one by one, who responded to the following toasts:

"Our Guests"—Mrs. F. A. Lackay.

"A D. A. R. and What It Means"—Mrs. D. H. Law.

"My Diocese"—Mrs. C. H. Deere.

"The D. A. R. in the Public Schools"—Mrs. E. S. Gregory.

"Our Entertainers"—Mrs. Ella F. McClelland.

"Our President General"—Mrs. L. C. Colman.

"The Benefits of the State Conferences"—Mrs. Benjamin Fessenden.

"The Flag"—Mrs. E. S. Walker.

"Fort Massac"—Mrs. M. T. Scott.

Statues for Schools.

Mrs. Fessenden announced that it was the intention of the daughters to place statuette reproductions of Daniel Chester French's "Minute Man" in every school in Chicago. She declared that each statuette would cost $75, and that four schools already had been supplied. The bronzes are to be placed in the schoolroom having the best attendance record.

The afternoon address was made by the Rev. W. E. Barton, pastor of the church. Dr. Barton declared that it is a fine thing to have a proud ancestry.

By invitation of the Moline chapter the next state convention will be held in that city.

PROMOTER OF NEW BANK IS SUED FOR A DIVORCE.

Mrs. Y. B. Haagsma Says Husband Deserted Her Two Years Ago—Aged Woman Objects to Milking Cows.

Ysbrand B. Haagsma, until recently secretary of the Republic Iron and Steel company and treasurer of the Holland society, is the defendant in a suit for divorce filed in the Circuit court yesterday by Mary Adda Haagsma. The charge is desertion.

Haagsma severed his connection with the $55,000,000 corporation a month ago and has been engaged since in the organization of the United States Trust and Savings bank.

Mr. and Mrs. Haagsma were married in January, 1877, at Sonora, Ill. From that time until Feb. 15, 1901, it is set forth, they lived together. They have two children, both of whom are over 21 years of age. Mr. Haagsma is said to have lived at the Lexington hotel for some time. The family formerly lived in Evanston.

Objects to Milking Cows.—To milk eight cows daily and do other work about the stable and garden at the age of 63 years Mrs. Sara Salge declares is too much. So she has filed a bill for separate maintenance against Henry Salge, a farmer living at Schaumberg, who, she says, is wealthy.

Aged 19, Wants a Divorce.—Married in 1901 under false representations at the age of 17 to a man 30 years old is the complaint made by Mrs. Sara C. Locker in a bill filed against Charles D. Locker. Complainant says the defendant deceived her in regard to his ability to support her.

Says Wife Pulls His Beard.—In a bill filed in the Circuit court Moses D. Leavitt says he paid his wife $90 to live with him on the west side and to permit him to select a place to purchase kosher meat. By this agreement a previous divorce suit was settled. Since then plaintiff says his wife has assaulted him with a broomstick and has pulled out sections of his beard.

NEW SCHOOL A NECESSITY, IS THE RULING OF COOLEY.

Declares the Avers Avenue Branch Should Be Built, Even Though Certain Property Owners Are Protesting

Supt. Cooley will oppose any delay in building a school on the site selected at Avers avenue and Eighteenth street, despite the opposition of the citizens of that section. After driving over the Fourth district yesterday and inspecting nearly all of the schools the superintendent determined that a new school in the vicinity of the Avers avenue site is imperative.

The opposition, headed by Ald. Ruxton and Woodward, wants to preserve Avers avenue for solely residence purposes, and urges that the encroachment of a public school would mean the usual quota of small stores.

Supt. Cooley found many of the Fourth district schools to be overcrowded. At the Bryant school, Forty-first court and Fourteenth street, the average number of pupils accommodated in a single room was found to be 50. Many of the rooms seated more than that number, which is held altogether too many for the most beneficial work.

"HOSPITAL" IS IN LAW'S CLUTCHES.

Arrests and Injunction for "Christian" Concern on the North Side.

FRAUD CHARGE IS MADE.

Dr. J. B. Murphy Prosecutes and Gets Court Order Protecting His Name.

"The Christian hospital," an institution at 617 La Salle avenue, which is said to make a business of selling "reputations" to physicians, collided with the law yesterday and came out in a badly battered condition.

On complaint of Dr. John B. Murphy, who charges the fraudulent use of his name, Judge Holdom enjoined the "hospital" from advertising Dr. Murphy as president of its staff.

Postoffice Inspector Stuart arrested the principal directors of the institution, charging them with fraudulent use of the mails, and the Chicago Medical society began collecting additional evidence designed to expose the extent to which the hospital has carried on its "business."

The federal grand jury will investigate the charges.

Storm of Protests.

The prosecution is the outcome of Dr. Murphy's indignation. Following the unauthorized use of his name, he received protests from medical men in all parts of the country, these protests branding the "hospital" as a "murderer of decency" and a "scheme to rob."

The plan, as set forth in the "hospital's" literature, was to dispose of "memberships" on the staff of the hospital at so much per. For $25, the maximum fee, the applicant received a "beautifully engrossed certificate, which imparts confidence to patients," while for other sums the institution retailed "official buttons" and other insignia intended to impress the credulous.

It is said that the same scheme was worked several years ago by many of the same parties, and that the attempt was made to dupe Dr. Nicholas Senn. The institution, then established at Niles, Mich., is said to have been called "the St. Luke's hospital." Dr. Senn received an artistically engrossed certificate of membership on the staff of surgeons, but he returned it and threatened prosecution, whereupon the directors withdrew his name.

One of the directors of the concern, Arthur C. Pobert, is said to have been in serious trouble before.

First Tidings by Mail.

In his petition for an injunction Dr. Murphy nominates as defendants N. News Wood, O. H. Wood, N. E. Wood, Pobert, and fifteen others. Dr. Murphy states that he returned from Washington on May 17 last and found in his mail a letter from N. News Wood informing him that he had been elected president of the staff of the Christian hospital. This was the first he had heard of the "hospital."

At the same time letters began to pour in upon him from physicians all over the country who had received the prospectus of the hospital, the same bearing Dr. Murphy's name. Some wrote to warn the surgeon of the fraud, others to protest against the enterprise in which he apparently had embarked. Other names which are said to have been used without authority were Prof. John B. Deaver of Philadelphia, Prof. Francis Delafield of New York, and Dr. A. C. Bernays of St. Louis.

Dr. Murphy immediately reported the matter to the Chicago Medical society, which set to work collecting evidence. It was discovered that the charter of the organization dated back to 1893, when a corporation known as "The Chicago Store" was formed. It is not known whether "The Chicago Store" ever did any business, but it next came to notice on June 24, 1901, when its stockholders met and changed its name to the "Christian Medical Dispensary and Humane hospital." On June 23, 1902, the name was again changed to "the Christian hospital."

"Good Things" for Sale.

The literature spread about the country consisted of a circular letter carrying Dr. Murphy's name and describing the various grades of diplomas which might be secured and their prices; a circular advertising Dr. N. E. Wood's book, "Dollars to Doctors," which teaches "how to make the public pay"; an application blank delineating the advantages of securing indorsement by a "reputable Chicago institution like the Christian hospital"; a facsimile of the diploma, and a picture of the official button.

One clause in the circular letter related to doctors who wish to bring patients to the hospital.

"You can bring in a case," it said, "and spend a few days with us and take a postgraduate course and the patient (through us) will pay all your expenses."

Another inducement reads:

"We will agree to pay you a cash commission of 50 per cent of all surgical fees and 25 per cent of all medical fees received from patients you bring or send to us. This, of course, will be held strictly private and confidential. Your professional interests as well as our own demand this."

Sample of the Protests.

Here is a sample of the letters which Dr. Murphy received by the score last month:

"Dallas, Tex., May 12.—Dr. John B. Murphy—My Dear Sir: I find it impossible to resist the desire to express to you my opinion of the circular letter received by many Dallas physicians today. For sublime gall, for an evidence of total professional depravity, for every objective system of a crowd of grafters, as an evidence of the entire abandon of every decent attribute of manhood and honorable professional pretensions, for all that goes to make reputable medicine a stench, it is the limit.

"I have not the time to write of this matter in detail, but I must say that it is really beyond credence that you would lend your great name to this nasty, dirty, indecent scheme to rob patients with your 50 per cent commission. I am going to take it upon myself to air this thing in the Dallas medical journals and introduce resolutions in every medical association in this state.

"V. P. ARMSTRONG."

Here's the Defense.

The only answer which the defendants make to the charges is this statement of Dr. N. News Wood, president of the hospital:

"Why, we thought Dr. Murphy would feel honored to receive the appointment of head of our staff. I can't understand it all."

The hospital is a small affair, having an operating room and three persons who pose as patients. W. A. Shaw, attorney for the state board of health, names eight of the defendants who are not licensed to practice medicine in Illinois.

DELAY IN MACHEN CASE SURPRISES.

Postmaster General Is Disappointed by Failure to Present It to Jury.

OFFICIALS ALL ON HAND.

Attorney General May Inform Subordinates Action Must Be Expedited.

POSTAL SCANDAL.—Postmaster General Payne greatly disappointed at failure of department of justice to present case against former superintendent of free delivery to the grand jury.

SECRETARY MOODY.—His return to Washington revives rumor that he has been promised place on Supreme bench. He is quoted as saying he intends retiring from politics.

Washington, D. C., June 3.—[Special.]—There was much surprise and great disappointment on the part of Postmaster General Payne and other officials of the department because the case of August W. Machen, the former superintendent of the free delivery system, was not presented to the grand jury today according to the plan arranged.

The case against Mr. Machen is based upon the charge that he received a percentage of profits from letter box fastener contracts and otherwise violated the laws.

A strong case was prepared by the postal inspectors and the legal officers of the department, according to their statements, and was referred to the department of justice. It was handed to United States District Attorney Beach, who turned the case over to his assistant, Hugh T. Taggart. Important government witnesses were on hand prepared to give evidence, but their services were not needed.

Every official interested in the case, including Attorney General Knox, expected the case to be presented today. When it was learned that it had not been given to the jury there was considerable speculation as to whether or not the delay was favorable to Mr. Machen. Assistant District Attorney Taggart was asked when he would present the case to the grand jury, but he was noncommittal and would give no information whatever. "The grand jury has other important business to attend to," he said, "and I will not say when the Machen case will be reached." Although the grand jury has other important business on hand that body was in session only five minutes today.

Officials of the postoffice department would not discuss the matter today, asserting that the case is in the hands of the department of justice. It is not unlikely that the case may be taken up tomorrow, but it is doubtful.

Mr. Machen's attorneys desire the case to be heard before the United States commissioner here, and that the evidence be presented direct to the grand jury. An effort was made today to make it appear that there was a disposition to shield Mr. Machen, and the failure to present the case to the grand jury was cited as evidence of this intention.

There is the highest authority for the statement that both the attorney general and the postmaster general are determined that Machen shall be prosecuted if an indictment can be secured. They are confident there is sufficient evidence on which to base an indictment. If there is an unnecessary delay on the part of the district attorney or his assistant, the attorney general will direct them to proceed with the case. Mr. Knox has all the necessary authority to direct the United States district attorneys to prosecute causes committed to them, and district attorneys have been removed summarily for failing to obey instructions of this character. While there is considerable gossip because of the slight delay the officials of the postoffice department are confident that within a short time an indictment will be secured.

***

George A. C. Christiancy, assistant attorney in the office of the assistant attorney general for the postoffice department, now on indefinite leave of absence, will not resume his duties in all probability. He requested leave until the completion of the investigation of his office. An indefinite leave was granted and the investigation is far from completed. The law provides for only thirty days' leave and Mr. Christiancy already has been absent from the department nearly a month. The postmaster general is now considering whether Christiancy shall be removed, given a further leave without pay, or, under the circumstances, his leave extended with pay.

***

Secretary Moody's return to Washington has revived the gossip which started while he was traveling with the president that he is to retire from the cabinet when there is a vacancy on the supreme bench to accept a justiceship. It is learned that Mr. Moody has no such understanding with the president and does not look forward to any such outcome, but has told his friends that he intends to retire from the cabinet and perhaps from political life at the end of the present presidential term.

The president and Mr. Moody are in thorough sympathy, and no hitch in their cordial relations is responsible for Mr. Moody's desire to resign the naval portfolio. It is understood his decision is based on a personal preference to resume the practice of law.

Mr. Moody never made any secret of the fact that he found life in congress more congenial than any other public service, but there is nothing to indicate that he cherishes an ambition again to represent his state in the national legislature.

***

Because of his belief that there soon will be a general political disturbance in China, with possible international complications, Rear Admiral Evans, commander in chief of the Asiatic naval station, has requested the navy department not to withdraw the marines from the Philippines until those sent from the United States to relieve them reach Manila. All marines in the archipelago, excepting a small detachment at Cavite, are congregated at Olongapo, the new American station on Subig bay.

Rear Admiral Evans regards it unwise to relieve the marines until their places have been taken by fresh levies from the United States. His caution is due to the fear that a large number of American troops and marines will soon be needed in China. There are 800 marines at Olongapo. Some of them were to start home in April and the "beyond sea tour" of the rest has expired.

The department will act on the suggestion of Rear Admiral Evans, and a battalion of marines equal to that in the Philippines will be sent before the marines in the far east are returned to the United States.

MACHEN COAL BID IS VALID.

Attorney General Knox Says There Is No Law Forbidding Official Taking Certain Kinds of Contracts.

Washington, D. C., June 3.—[Special.]—Attorney General Knox in a written opinion prepared at the request of Postmaster General Payne holds that A. W. Machen was acting entirely within the law in seeking to sell coal to the postoffice department while he was still superintendent of the free delivery department.

A contract for 2,000 tons of coal was awarded to Machen Bros. as the lowest bidders. A. W. Machen is a member of the firm.

In his opinion the attorney general says: "While I am of the opinion that you are not forbidden by any statute from awarding the contract under consideration to the lowest bidder, I must not be understood as advising you that you are under any legal obligation to do so. The matter is one of administrative judgment and discretion."

Attorney General Knox quotes two sections of the statutes bearing on the case, as follows:

"Section 412. No person employed in the postoffice department shall become interested in any contract for carrying the mail, or act as agent, with or without compensation, for any contractor or person offering to become a contractor in any business before the department.

"Section 1,783. No officer or agent of any banking or other commercial corporation, and no member of any mercantile or trading firm, or person directly or indirectly interested in the pecuniary profits or contracts of such corporation or firm shall be employed or shall act as an officer or agent of the United States for the transaction of business with such corporation or firm."

The attorney general says it is clear Machen was not seeking a contract "for carrying the mail," as forbidden in section 412, and furthermore was not acting as agent, as forbidden by section 1,783, because of the fact that he was the principal in the transaction.

The postmaster general must award the contract on its merits, disregarding Machen's official position at the time the bid was made.

OPEN BIDS FOR BATTLESHIPS.

Navy Department Preparing to Build the Three Greatest American Fighters Afloat.

Washington, D. C., June 3.—Bids were opened at the navy department today for the construction of the Minnesota, Vermont, and Kansas, the three 16,000 ton battleships authorized by the last congress, each to cost not exceeding $4,212,000.

The Newport News Shipbuilding company of Newport News, Va., was the lowest bidder for one vessel, the William Cramp & Son Ship and Engine Building company was the only bidder for more than one ship. Following are the bids:

Newport News Shipbuilding company, one vessel, department's plans, to be completed in forty-two months from date of contract, $4,110,000; William Cramp & Son Ship and Engine Building company, one vessel, department's plans, to be completed in forty-two months, $4,190,000, or two vessels, department's plans, in the same time, $4,181,000 each; Fore River Ship and Engine Building company, Quincy, Mass., one vessel, department's plans, forty-two months, $4,179,000; Eastern Shipbuilding company, New London, Conn., one vessel, forty-two months, $4,192,000; New York Shipbuilding company, one vessel, department's plans, forty-two months, $4,165,000.

It is supposed that the unsettled labor conditions throughout the country are the cause of the small number of bidders, and for the fact that only one company bid on more than one ship.

WRIGHT NOT IN POSTAL FRAUDS.

Department Denies All Knowledge of the Man Arrested at Ballston, New York.

Ballston, N. Y., June 3.—A man who registered at a hotel here as H. A. Wright, New York, was arrested today upon telegraphic advices from the postoffice department, saying the man was charged with postal frauds. The telegram said that he traveled as Dr. O'Brien.

Not Known at Washington.

Washington, D. C., June 3.—Postoffice department officials disclaim any knowledge of H. A. Wright, or "Dr. O'Brien," arrested at Ballston on the charge of fraud. They say that his arrest probably grows out of one of the routine cases constantly under investigation by the department.

HEALTH BOARDS DENY NEED OF CALIFORNIA QUARANTINE.

Representatives of Twenty-one States in Session in Washington Discuss Questions of Sanitary Measures.

Washington, D. C., June 3.—[Special.]—A quarantine against the state of California on account of the bubonic plague was declared unnecessary in resolutions adopted today by the conference of representatives of the national and state boards of health.

It was held that the measures taken by the local authorities in California are sufficient to give protection for the public, and no restrictions need be placed on travel or commerce.

Twenty-two states are represented at the conference which opened today, and many topics of interest to the general public will be discussed.

There was a long discussion today of local health and quarantine conditions, the various representatives explaining the sanitary laws and the method of carrying them out in their particular states, addresses being made by Drs. Wesbrook of Minnesota, Hunter of Mississippi, McAlester of Missouri, Probst of Ohio, Smith of Oregon, Lee of Pennsylvania, Swarts of Rhode Island, Simons of South Carolina, Tabor of Texas, and Cooper of Delaware.

Dr. Wyman briefly described the sytem and workings of the United States public health and marine hospital service, and suggested a plan of organization by which the work of the national and state health administrations might be coördinated and made more effective.

The conference adopted a resolution expressing approval of the methods of cooperation suggested by Dr. Wyman.

RAILWAY TO OWN RESTAURANTS

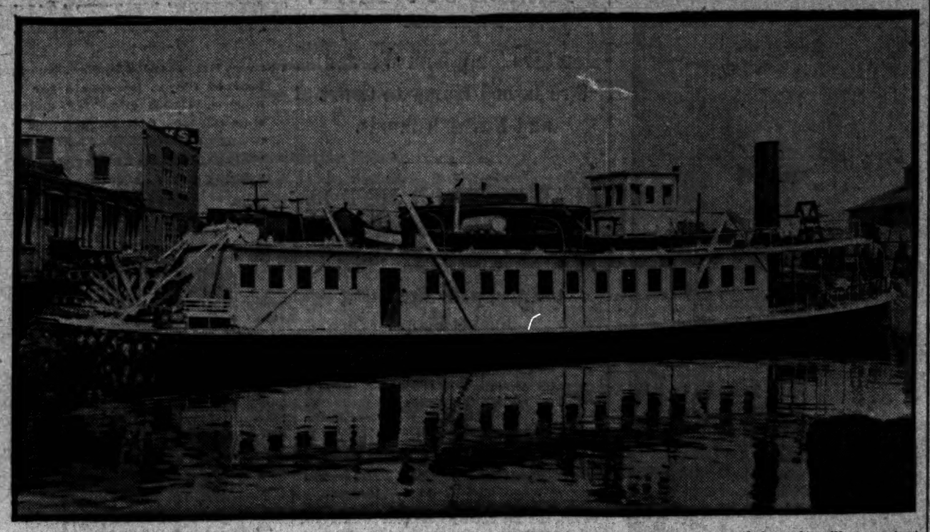

Pennsylvania Will Manage All Eating Houses and Hotels in Its Depots West of Pittsburg.

Within the next two weeks all restaurants and hotels in the depots of the Pennsylvania system west of Pittsburg will be conducted by the railroad company under the supervision of E. W. Westlake, western superintendent of the dining car service.

Dissatisfaction with the service and other causes have led the company to cancel all the leases under which the places have been conducted. The proposed system already has been given a test in the eastern section of the road and has proved satisfactory.

About a score of hotels and restaurants will be affected by the change. With it will come the installation of a commissary department and building in the Twelfth street yards of the company. The restaurants will be conducted along the lines of the dining car service.

BOAT SOON TO START ON TRIP TO GULF BY STRANGE ROUTE.

John W. Parmalee's boat, Fortuna, which is nearing completion at the Marine Iron works, on the north branch, will soon start on a trip from Chicago to New Orleans over a route that is new. The steamer, which is a skimming dish houseboat sort of a vessel, will go on Lake Michigan to the Sturgeon Bay canal, through into Green bay, south to Lake Winnebago, and thence by way of the Wisconsin river into the Mississippi. Mr. Parmalee will take a party of Chicago friends with him, and the journey through the lakes and rivers and down the Mississippi will be made in a leisurely manner. Capt. D. S. McCorquodale of Chicago will navigate the boat. The steamer is arranged in houseboat style, so the travelers will have all the comforts of home during the long voyage.

FUND FOR CHILDREN'S PAY

WOMEN TO RELIEVE DISTRESS DUE TO CHILD LABOR LAW.

Clubs of the State Asked to Care for Cases Where Suffering Is Caused Through Operation of New Statute—Miss Jane Addams Thinks the "Poor Widow" for Whom Factory Owners Have Been Solicitous Is a Myth—Hull House First to Act.

If the new child labor law causes any distress the clubwomen of Illinois stand ready to relieve it. It has been requested, on the suggestion of Miss Jane Addams, that each woman's club in the state shall create an orphan's scholarship fund to take care of one or more cases of children under 14 years old whose families are dependent on them for support.

It will be the duty of the club to see that the child be kept in school, is properly clothed and fed, and to pay to the mother whatever sum the child might otherwise be earning in a factory. Before this is done, however, it will be the duty of the club carefully to investigate the case, and be sure that the mother actually is unable to keep her child in school and would suffer by being deprived of the child's wages.

"I think," said Miss Addams, "that few such cases will be found. My idea in making the suggestion was, as much as anything else, to lay the ghost of that widowed mother about whom the manufacturers have always had so much to say. It is she who always has made any child labor legislation so difficult, and I believe she is a myth. I never have known any poor widowed mother dependent on a small boy for support. Children under 14 cannot make enough to keep a family, but if any such should be found the women's clubs ought to be ready to take care of them.

"Poor Widow" Story Exaggerated.

"While there is a good deal of poverty in Chicago," said W. Lester Bodine, superintendent of compulsory education, "the poor widow story has been greatly exaggerated. There are more deserted women, and whenever a man runs off and leaves his wife he invariably leaves her the whole bunch of children to look after. Those are the women who may suffer from the new law. To them the $3 or $4 a child under 14 makes is a great help. There are probably 5,000 children under the required working age in the factories in the state, but most of these belong to people who easily could afford to send them to school.

"In this respect the colored brother sets a good example for the white man's burden. There are few little black faces in the factories. Colored people will sacrifice almost anything to keep their children in school. I don't believe the burden will fall heavily on the 25,000 clubwomen of the state."

Hull House First to Act.

The Hull House Woman's club is so far the only one that has taken decisive action. It has voted to take care of one or more families, as may be found necessary.

"We want to show people," said Mrs. Laura Dainty Pelham, president of the club, "just how many little fellows in kilts are the sole bread winners and protectors of large families of widowed mothers, decrepit grandfathers, and crippled brothers and sisters."

In the Chicago Woman's club the question has been referred to a committee, which has not yet reported. The other clubs in the city are considering it carefully and will report in the fall.

FINDS MEN MORE EMOTIONAL.

Dr. Helen Bradford Thompson Publishes Results of Comparing Minds of the Two Sexes.

"Men are more emotional than women. Men are superior to women in inventiveness and physical strength. Women excel in memory, and the two sexes are equal in general information." These are some of the conclusions reached by Dr. Helen Bradford Thompson after a series of experiments on twenty-five men and twenty-five women conducted while she was at the University of Chicago in the years 1898-1900. Dr. Thompson, who is now director of the psychological laboratory at Mount Holyoke college, has published the results of her researches in a pamphlet just issued from the University of Chicago press.

Men's superior strength of mind, Dr. Thompson says, is not due to a sex difference, but to the influence of society as now organized, boys being taught to be independent, while girls are taught obedience.

Miss Thompson was formerly an Englewood High school girl. She was graduated from the University of Chicago in 1900.

The first number of Modern Philology, the latest addition to the list of scientific journals published by the University of Chicago made its appearance yesterday.

OLD MEN'S SOCIAL CLUB MEETS.

Unique Organization, All of Whose Members Are Past 80 Years, Holds First Summer Assembly.

Under the trees in Drexel boulevard, near Forty-second street, yesterday afternoon, the first summer meeting of the Old Men's Social club of Drexel boulevard was held. Wells E. Wines, 91 years old, was chosen president for the year. The club was founded in 1897, all members being more than 80 years old. Next Wednesday afternoon a meeting in memory of members who died in the last year will be held.

OBITUARY.

EX-STATE SENATOR CHARLES H. CRAWFORD, Chicago, died yesterday afternoon at his residence, 4131 Drexel boulevard, aged 58. Mr. Crawford, who was born in Bennington, Vt., came to Illinois with his parents in 1840, and settled in Bureau county. He came to Chicago in 1872 and practiced law. In 1884 he was elected to the State senate, was reelected in 1888, and again in 1894. He was the author of the first primary election law. For the last two years he had been an invalid. He left a widow, two sons, and two daughters. The funeral will be held at the residence on Saturday. Interment will be at Mendota, Ill.

PREPARING FOR ARGUMENT ON THE 99 YEAR GRANTS.

Corporation Counsel Walker May Decide to Have City Represented at Hearing Before Judge Grosscup.

A decision will be made by Corporation Counsel Walker today whether the city shall be officially represented in Judge Grosscup's court on June 18 when the receivers of the Union Traction company and the bondholders and stockholders discuss the ninety-nine year act and its value as applying to certain tracks. This discussion is held to be most important, as on its outcome, so attorneys for the Union Traction assert, will depend whether that company follows the lead of the Chicago City railway and opens negotiations for an extension of franchises.

Despite denials it is contended that the Union Traction company is quietly working with the City railway, as John P. Wilson also is special counsel for the "protective committee" of the former company. It is contended that the two courses of settling the ninety-nine year act and other problems have been agreed upon—the City railway by direct negotiations with the city and the Union Traction by getting the question before the highest courts, as outlined by Judge Grosscup.

Rumors were current during the day that the matter would be thrown into the council Monday night by an effort on the part of certain aldermen to censure the local transportation committee for dealing only with the City railway.

WOMAN AND HATPIN: DANGER!

Dancing Teacher Says That Combination Is Formidable Enough to Drive Brave Men to the Woods.

"A hatpin in the hands of an angry woman is a most formidable weapon. It has more terrors to me than the bite of a snake, for it penetrates deeper; it is worse than the sting of a bee, for it strikes more than once."

Prof. P. J. Ridge, who for fifteen years has had a dancing academy at 127 La Salle street, made this statement in telling of an encounter with Miss Jennie McMahon, an actress. Prof. Ridge was arrested on charges of assault and disorderly conduct.

Prof. Ridge said he was in Miss Leddia Thornton's academy for actresses, 125 Dearborn street, on Tuesday evening, when Miss McMahon entered. He said she had not been friendly with him since he gave another preference in selecting a leading woman in a traveling dramatic company.

"We had a few words," Prof. Ridge explained, "when suddenly Miss McMahon flew in a rage and drew a hatpin. I drew back when she made a threatening motion toward me. There was a short conflict, in which the only part I took was to avoid coming in contact with the pin. I didn't strike the woman.

"In fact, I wouldn't have gone within range of that pin for anything. I have a deadly terror of the weapon. If holdup men ever use a hatpin as a weapon, it is time for the citizen to fly to the woods."

Miss McMahon, who is about 20 years old, told the police substantially the same story. She admitted having a hatpin in her hand, but asserted that Prof. Ridge attempted to strike her. Prof. Ridge was released upon bonds.

COED RAISES A POINT AT LAW.

Says That Window Broken During Sorority Party Was "Wear and Tear" on Building, and Refuses to Pay.

A coed and a broken window figure in the latest developments in the cases of the Northwestern girls who are threatened with arrest because of their unpaid livery bills.

A window at the Evanston Boat club was broken during the Delta Delta Delta sorority party there recently, and Miss Amy Olgen, president of the sorority, replying to a bill for damages, said the breaking of a window was "legitimate wear and tear" on the building, and she refused to pay the bill. Justice Boyer, to whom the bill was sent for collection, is seeking legal light.

Five of the seven young women who have been threatened with arrest for unpaid livery bills have made their peace with the liveryman, but two of the group are still delaying their visits to the collector's office.

The faculty at Northwestern investigated the livery bill complications, and learned, it is said, that many students have neglected to pay small bills. These delinquents, it is alleged, do not belong to that part of the student body which is paying its way through the university by hard work, but to the "society" element. The result probably will be that the faculty will enforce a rule that will make society a less prominent feature of university life.

COYNE'S SALARY RAISED $2.000.

Higher Pay Also Will Be Received by 987 Employes of the Postoffice, Beginning July 1.

Beginning July 1, Postmaster F. E. Coyne will draw $2,000 extra per year, and his chief assistant, John M. Hubbard, will get an additional $500. This will make their salaries $8,000 and $3,500 respectively. Supts. McGrath of the mailing and Steward of the delivery divisions, whose salaries are $2,700 each a year, and Schlossman of the money order and Smith of the registry divisions, who receive $2,400 each, will all be advanced to $3,000.

Increased pay will be given 962 other employés of the postoffice, distributed through the various grades as follows: Two hundred and thirty from $600 to $700 per year; 331 from $700 to $800; 93 from $800 to $900; 132 from $900 to $1,000; 84 from $1,000 to $1,100; 72 from $1,100 to $1,200; 10 from $1,200 to $1,300; 8 from $1,300 to $1,400; 5 from $1,400 to $1,500; 3 from $1,500 to $1,600; 0 from $1,700 to $1,800; and 5 from $1,800 to $2,000.

Twenty-eight inspectors in the custom house will have their pay advanced from $2.50 to $4 per day. This will put them in the class with the inspectors of the New York district.

MORE TROUBLE FOR D'ESSAUER.

New York Officers Seek Warrant to Arrest Him When He Leaves Joliet.

KOCIAN HAS FINE VIOLIN.

Young Musician Presented with Valuable Instrument from Clopton Collection.

NEW YORK BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE. New York, June 3.

An application was made before Magistrate Hogan today for a warrant for S. George d'Essauer, who is now serving an indeterminate sentence in Joliet prison, and who is wanted in this city in connection with an alleged "bunko" game, by which Paul W. Smith, a broker, lost $1,500. d'Essauer has served two years and a little over on his sentence, which cannot exceed ten years. The detective who made the application said that it had been learned that influential persons have been trying to secure d'Essauer's release during the summer, and because of this Inspector McClusky had decided to try to prevent his getting away before he answered to a charge of grand larceny. The warrant was sought for the purpose of arresting d'Essauer on his release from Joliet.

Magistrate Hogan directed that the matter be brought to the attention of the district attorney, with a view to an indictment against d'Essauer being found.

Jarsolav Kocian, whose troubles with the violin that belonged to W. C. Today Clopton invited Kocian to his hotel and gave him his choice of his whole collection of valuable violins, the one which he had taken abroad being excepted. Herr Kocian selected a beautiful Joseph Guarnevius. The new instrument, he said, was equally as good as the one he had returned to Clopton and he valued it just as highly. Mr. Clopton, he added, had placed a sentimental value on the other instrument and therefore did not want to part with it.

Contrary to all anticipations, the great building lockout is still on. At the meeting today of the United Board of Building Trades, representing the labor men, the faction which favors a continuation of the strike lockout won. By the vote of 22 to 13 the board decided to support the contention of the United Building Material Drivers' union.

Workers Refuse to End Building Trade Strike.

Incidentally, it rejected the report of the committee of five, which recommended as a basis of settlement that the drivers be thrown out of the organization. There was a big fight in the board, and it was finally decided to put the matter over for final settlement until Monday.

So far as the lockout is concerned, this not only puts the situation back where it was, but injects a fighting element in the board.

Erie was again the shuttlecock of Wall street rumor today. The Gould-Pennsylvania feud supplied the motive for a reported coup, by which, as the story was told, the Erie railroad had been obtained by the Gould-Harriman-Rockefeller interests, as the seaboard outlet for the Gould system, the Harriman, Kuhn, Loeb & Co. systems, and the Northern Securities system. The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul was mentioned as the medium through which the purchase had been made, and that $25,000,000 of unissued St. Paul stock was said to have been sold in the open market, and the returns invested in Erie stock.

Rumor of Sale of Erie to Goulds Denied.

No one and no representatives of the property reported to be interested in the deal would discuss further than to add his denial to those that had already been made.

Mr. Gould, who was in the city this evening, said, when asked about the story: "Really, it is news to me. I have heard nothing of it."

Fred D. Underwood, president of the Erie, said there was no word of truth in the report so far as he knew. E. H. Harriman's private secretary, who is attending Mr. Harriman at the Hotel Netherland, denied that Mr. Harriman had been in consultation with Gould and Rockefeller today. He said, in his opinion, the story was not worth second thought.

FOUR DROWN IN DISASTER TO AN EXCURSION STEAMER.

Sunday School at Hannibal, Mo., Starts Out to See the Flood and Steamer Is Wrecked.

Hannibal, Mo., June 3.—[Special.]—Four persons were drowned here today by a disaster to a river steamer towing a barge, both filled with Sunday school children.

The steamer and barge had been chartered by the Park Methodist church for an excursion to Quincy to view the flood. Just as the start was made a cylinder head in the boat's engine blew out, disabling the steamer and placing it at the mercy of the swift current. The steamer crashed into the stone pier of the Hannibal bridge, near the shore, and was wrecked.

The current held the steamer against the pier and most of the adults and children were able to climb to safety on the bridge.

Before all could reach safety, however, the current swung the barge out into the stream. Three children, Lonnie B. Curts, aged 14; Harry Eichenberger, aged 17; Martha Coppedge, aged 8, and the steamer's cook, Peggy Harvey, fell into the water and their bodies were swept away by the swollen current.

A score or more of rowboats put out from shore and rescued the remaining children on the barge.

Food Won In a case of Appendicitis.

Food cured a well-known Kansas school teacher of appendicitis. "A year ago last July I was taken sick with appendicitis and was operated upon, being down in bed for nine weeks, and although I was given up to die by the doctor and the entire community I got up again and went back to work although a wreck. About the middle of last February I was taken sick the same way but went to Eureka Springs and stayed for five months, ill all the time and just about half alive.

"It was about this time I received a letter from an aunt in Nebraska telling me of what a food called Grape-Nuts had done for her and asking me to try it. I did so, and in a short time Grape-Nuts had done me more good than all of the treatments put together. My case is spoken of as one of the most interesting in Kansas, for I spent over $1,000 for medical treatment and finally had to fall back on food and am now getting along far better than I have before for several years. I am recuperating rapidly and getting strong and healthy again. My stomach and bowels are normal and on the whole I feel like a new man.

"I studied dietetics in my work as school teacher, but never knew before that the power of pure scientific food could be so great. I recommend Grape-Nuts to all, whether in health or sickness, young or old." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Weak intestinal digestion causes appendicitis when much white bread, potatoes, or partly cooked, starchy cereals are used. Grape-Nuts food will prevent such troubles, because the starchy part of the cereals has been already changed and predigested in Grape-Nuts, therefore there is no overtaxing of the organs and no fermented food to cause trouble.

ABLE TO PROVE BALLOT FRAUDS.

State's Attorney Deneen Finds Evidence Against Some Judges and Clerks.

LITTLE ABOUT BRENNAN.

Alderman Waists All Evening for Serving of Warrant but None Is Issued.

Every effort is being made by the state's attorney's office to bring to justice all perpetrators of frauds in the election of last Monday. Attempts to connect Ald. John J. Brennan with the charges have thus far met with little success, but several witnesses yesterday gave evidence that makes probable the conviction of some judges and clerks of election.

No warrant had been issued for Ald. Brennan up to the hour the state's attorney adjourned his investigation. Mr. Brennan was prepared for arrest, however, and had made arrangements to give bond.

State's Attorney at Work Late.

State's Attorney Deneen remained in his office until 9 o'clock last night awaiting a witness that W. W. Wheelock, attorney for the election commissioners, had promised to bring. Mr. Wheelock telephoned that he had been unable to find the person wanted, and then Mr. Deneen announced that the investigation was over for the day. Just before he left, he said:

"There will be no more arrests and no warrants issued in the election fraud investigation tonight. I am not prepared to say that there will not be tomorrow. There will be no special session of the grand jury called unless the evidence in the fraud cases becomes so extensive that this office cannot well go through it.

"Several of the witnesses today told straight stories, and if they are not impeached it looks bad for some of the judges and clerks of election. If the prosecution is defeated it will be on account of the publicity given the case. There is no doubt in my mind that there was crooked work in the Eighteenth and probably other west side wards on election day and no efforts will be spared to punish the guilty ones."

Asked as to evidence involving Ald. Brennan, Mr. Deneen said:

"One witness told some things about the alderman, but it is doubtful if the case against him can be made strong."

Seven Witnesses Examined.

The examination of witnesses began in the afternoon in Mr. Deneen's office. Mr. Deneen conducted the examination, assisted by Albert Barnes and Harry Olson of his office and W. W. Wheelock, attorney for the election board.

There were seven witnesses, including Policemen Smith and Dempsey of the Desplaines street station, who had been on duty on election day in the Eighteenth ward. Smith denied that he had seen any illegal voting. He said that a number of times he had seen men enter, heard them give their names, and then heard them told that others had voted under those names, after which they had gone away. He had failed to notice any of them returning again to vote.

The state's best witness is said to have been John Barrett, formerly connected with the sporting departments of New York and New Orleans papers, and at present living in the lodging house district of the Eighteenth ward.

Story of John Barrett.

This witness related the story of arriving in Chicago May 29 and finding lodging at the Salvation Army hotel, 118 West Madison street. There he learned of a saloonkeeper who was willing to give a little pocket money to those whom he might use on election day. On the morning of election day a man who had given the name of Foley came into the hotel and after some conversation with others approached Barrett and offered to pay him 50 cents if he would vote as he directed at the judicial election. When the witness hesitated, because he was not registered, Foley is reported to have said:

"There is no risk. All you have to do is to get the name and vote. There will be some one there to fix your ballot."

Barrett then gave the details of meeting a young man in the saloon of Ald. Brennan. This man instructed him to vote under the name of "John Veneman, 126 Madison street." He had afterwards gone to the polling place adjoining the saloon. Continuing, the witness said:

"Ald. Brennan was in the polling place and stood in such a position that any one voting would have to pass him. When I went to vote I was plucked on the sleeve by Ald. Brennan, who shoved me into a booth, followed, and marked my ballot, one of the crosses being in front of the name of Judge Hanecy. As I left the polling place Brennan gave me two 25 cent pieces."

Votes Seven Times for $3.50.

One other witness testified that he had voted seven times on election day, and had received $3.50.

State's Attorney Deneen declined to give the name of the witness.

"It would result in injury to the case," said he. "If the perpetrators of the fraud are not punished it will be due to the publicity given the investigation. There is no question that if enough of these witnesses are secured so as to make their story corroborative the state will have a good case."

The examination of witnesses will be resumed today. Thus far the investigation has not extended beyond the Eighteenth ward.

O'Donovan Gives Himself Up.

Harry O'Donovan, the cab driver, living at 180 Madison street, who acted as a judge of election in the Twenty-seventh precinct and against whom a warrant had been issued, gave himself up during the day. He was released by Judge Carter on a bond of $3,000, furnished by Ald. Conlon, who is also bondsman for Henry B. Sherman and J. J. Kelly, also arrested on charges of complicity in election frauds in the Twenty-seventh precinct. Their hearing is set for tomorrow.

Charles A. McCarl, the fifth man against whom a warrant was issued, has not been apprehended. He has been identified as a bridge tender at Lake street, but has not been seen there since election day. He is charged with marking the ballot of an illegal voter.

Brennan Waiting for Arrest.

In his saloon at Desplaines and West Madison streets Ald. Brennan last night awaited the coming of detectives or deputy sheriffs. With him were friends who could have scheduled property in any amount required, had bonds been necessary. Ald. M. C. Conlon, ex-State Senator Broderick, ex-Lieutenant of Police Bowler, and others remained about the place for many hours.

All except Brennan were excitedly discussing the events of election day. The alderman alone remained unmoved and jocular.

"Coming home from the races this afternoon I picked up a newspaper and found I was a fugitive," he said, "but that's only one of a dozen things I've discovered about myself in the last week, so it didn't disturb me much."

"You don't need to be disturbed, John," an adherent assured him, "we know you, and they can't tell us anything about you."

"Yes, I found I had fled and they were about to offer a reward for me," continued the alderman. "Why, I never got further away than the Hawthorne track, and you can bet that I'm not going any further than that for some time.

"I had intended going downtown tonight, but when I learned that there was a possibility of my arrest I decided to stay here where they would have no trouble finding me.

"But I don't think I'll be arrested. They don't arrest people without cause in this town. I have nothing to say about the events of election day. Let some one show something and give me a chance to answer in the right way. Of course, there was money distributed that day. What election ever took place in any ward in the city when a little money wasn't handed around to keep things moving? That doesn't mean bribery or corruption, though."

Distributes Silver Daily.

"Sure, there isn't a more charitable man in the city than John Brennan," averred ex-Lieut. Bowler. "He feeds hundreds of hungry persons every day, and there isn't a day that he does not distribute handfuls of silver to applicants."

This is declared to have been a habit of Brennan's since he was elected alderman of the ward a dozen years ago. Every day several large bills are converted into silver coins of various denominations, which are carried in an outside coat pocket and given away to the scores of applicants who besiege him. On election days his followers say hundreds of dollars are distributed in this manner.

Others Waiting for Warrants.

Samuel Cohen, John Flaherty, and other followers of Brennan were awaiting the arrival of officers carrying warrants for their arrest. All were prepared with bondsmen. Flaherty, who is a saloonkeeper at 142 South Halsted street, said he was eager to have the warrants served, to be given the opportunity of proving his innocence.

"There was no bribery," he declared. "I have been in politics long enough to know when things are being run straight and when they are not. There was no money used in my precinct; I handled none, and I want to be given a chance to prove that in a court of record and clear myself of the charges made by irresponsible men."

SECRETARY SHAW'S DAUGHTER TO GRADUATE FROM COLLEGE ATTENDED BY HER FATHER.

Mount Vernon, Ia., June 3.—[Special.]—Miss Enid Shaw, eldest daughter of the secretary of the treasury, is to be graduated from Cornell college, her father's alma mater, on Thursday, June 18, and it is probable Secretary Shaw, who speaks at the college the day before commencement, will remain over to see his daughter receive her diploma.

Miss Shaw's graduation essay is entitled "Shylock." The exercises will be held on the campus green. If Secretary Shaw is able to be present on commencement day he will deliver a short address.

The entire Shaw family, with the exception of Secretary Shaw, will sail for Europe on the steamer Kroonland July 4. Four months will be spent abroad, principally in Paris. Upon the return of the family to this country Miss Enid Shaw will make her début in Washington society.

CANVASS VOTE FOR JUDGES: FIVE WARDS ARE COMPLETE.

Begin Official Count of Ballots Cast at Last Monday's Election—Detail of Figures for Each of the Candidates.

STEAMER LOST; 70 DROWN

BRITISH VESSEL TRIES IN VAIN TO RIDE OUT A GALE.

Later Reports from the Gale Off the Coast of Chile Show That the Arequipa Went Down Outside Valparaiso Harbor and That Only Seventeen Escaped—Capt. Todd and His Wife Among the Victims—Bodies Being Washed Ashore.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

VALPARAISO, Chile, June 3.—Only seventeen persons escaped alive from the British steamer Arequipa, which foundered in the gale yesterday. Capt. Todd, his wife, and nearly seventy persons went down with the vessel. The bodies of the firemen and some of the passengers have been washed ashore.

During the gale which swept this port Monday night it was reported that the Arequipa had foundered at its anchorage. The steamer held till morning, however, and yesterday during a lull in the storm left port, intending, it is supposed, to ride out the storm at sea.

The violence of the gale was soon afterwards renewed, and the steamer went down.

NATIONAL PAWNSHOP BURNED.

Institution Conducted by Italian Government at Naples Destroyed with $2,200,000 in Pledges.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

NAPLES, June 3.—Fire last night in the Monte di Pieta, a public loan office or pawnshop conducted by the state, burned furiously throughout the night, and this morning only the walls remained. During the night a strong body of troops had difficulty in restraining the crowd, composed of the poorest Neapolitans, who assembled in the hope of being able to save their pawned belongings.

It is estimated that fully 20,000 persons had property pledged at the Monte di Pieta.

The marquis di Sarmiento, who was helping the marines with fire pumps, was caught betwen the engines and almost instantly crushed to death. A ladder on which were six firemen broke and all the men were injured. One of them has since died.

The Bank of Naples announces that the holders of pawn tickets will be gradually reimbursed. The newspapers place the loss at $2,200,000.

PALMA TO CONTINUE HIS POLICY.

He Is a Member of No Party, but Is Supported by Those Who Favor Conservative Government.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

HAVANA, June 3.—The Mundo publishes an interview with President Palma, in which he says he maintains the same position he took when he assumed office. He does not intend to change his conservative peace policy. He is a member of no party, but those who favor his conservative policy will support him. Treaties with the United States should be approved, and not subjected to the opposition of party tricksters. If Cuba acts properly and approves the treaties it will be a point in her favor with the American congress when the reciprocity treaty again comes before that body. The president adds that the conditions of the coaling stations lease will be completed when Secretary Zalago returns from the United States.

MONKS PURCHASE IONA ISLAND.

Carthusian Order, Expelled from France, Secures Spot in Hebrides from Duke of Argyll.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, June 3.—It is understood that the duke of Argyll has sold Iona island, Hebrides, to the Carthusians, who were recently expelled from the monastery of the Grande Chartreuse in France. The terms of the sale provide for the preservation of the sacred and historical associations of the island.

Rich Strike in Vivandiere Gold Mine at Turret, Colorado.

On June 2d a telegram was received at the main office of the Twin City Development Company, 1306 Tribune Building, from General Manager New, saying that an enormous body of eighty-five dollar ore has been opened in the lower workings of the mine. It was only recently that Professor Lake, former State Geologist, visited this district and expressed an opinion that Turret at no distant date would rank among the great gold producing districts of Colorado. This last discovery in the Vivandiere Mine more than ever confirms the prediction of many of the most eminent mining experts who have lately been attracted to this section of Colorado.

The Vivandiere Mine was recently bought by the Twin City Development Company.

PLAN TO REVIVE SHIP SUBSIDIES.

Senator Elkins Would Reduce Duty on Goods Carried by American Vessels.

NO COST TO THE NATION.

Expects Little Objection to the Measure He Will Offer at the Next Session of Congress.

PARIS, June 3.—That the next congress of the United States will be called upon to consider again the country's shipping interests was announced here today when United States Senator Elkins of West Virginia stated that he would introduce a bill covering that subject at the next session.

Senator and Mrs. Elkins arrived here today, and will stay at Paris and at Nauheim for some time.

Speaking of his plan Senator Elkins said that he intended to introduce at the next session a bill reducing by 10 per cent the duties on goods brought to the United States in American ships, or increasing by 10 per cent the duties on goods brought in foreign ships. He predicts strong support for the measure as a result of the failure of the shipping subsidy bill.

Mr. Elkins claims the proposed measure is not open to the same objections as the shipping bill, as it will develop American shipping without the expenditure of a cent, large or small ships receiving the same benefits. The senator regards Colonial Secretary Chamberlain's preferential tariff plan as impracticable, owing to British dependence on American breadstuffs, and says the carrying out of the plan would bring on a renewal of the bread riots.

He also says an understanding exists in congressional and governmental circles for the authorization of the building of three more battleships or armored cruisers next year, and each succeeding year for a period of eight or ten years. He regards this as essential for the protection of the colonies, commanding respect, and assuring peace.

John R. McLean of Cincinnati, O., has arrived here. Senator Gorman of Maryland is expected to reach Paris tomorrow from London.

JEWS IN RUSSIA ARE ARMING.

Every Man, Woman, and Child, to Be Provided with Revolver—Plans for Defense.

BERLIN, June 3.—Advices received here from Odessa under date of May 28 say the Jews there are now prepared to defend themselves intelligently. Several thousand revolvers have been imported since the Kisheneff massacre, so that at present almost every Jew, man or woman, is armed. Those who were unable to buy weapons received them as gifts from the defense committee.

A system of communication has also been agreed upon, so as to spread a warning throughout the city when there is an outbreak of violence in any quarter. Families residing near each other will concentrate for defense and every second man will join what might be called an expeditionary corps, to take part in aggressive defense where rioting is actually going on.

The Jewish safety committee is also reported to have arranged with the workingmen's associations for aid in the event of outbreaks. Arms have been distributed from Odessa to the Jews in other cities of Russia.

The Tageblatt today prints a dispatch from St. Petersburg announcing that a law was published there today giving a list of 101 towns in Russia in which Jews were allowed to acquire land and live without restriction. Jews are temporarily forbidden to buy land outside these places, where they will be legally settled.

BELGIUM SURRENDERS CONGO.

Government Allows Annexation Option Secured by King Leopold to Expire by Limitation.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

THE HAGUE, June 3.—According to advices received here the government of Belgium has decided to abandon the project of annexing the Congo Free State by allowing the option of annexation to expire. It is explained that Belgium is not inclined to assume the responsibility of governing the Congo as a colony because of the popular opposition and the attitude of Great Britain.

The Congo Free State was established by act of the international conference of Berlin in 1885, under which it was declared to be a sovereign power under King Leopold of Belgium.

Leopold bequeathed all his rights in the state to Belgium, and by a treaty made in 1890 Belgium received the privilege of annexing the state after a period of ten years. This convention with its extensions expired today.

FRANCE NOT SEEKING CONQUEST

Premier Combes Tells Colonial Delegations the Policy Regarding Algerian Frontier.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

PARIS, June 3.—A deputation from the colonial group waited upon Premier Combes today to inquire about the expedition of artillerymen recently sent to relieve the French force at Figuig in the Sahara. M. Combes stated that, while it was determined to maintain French prestige, the government had no intention whatever of conquering new territories. Its only desire was the maintenance of the status quo on the French frontier and to assure order and security in the Algerian possessions. The premier added that three punitive columns were in the course of formation.

A dispatch to the Patrie from Algeria says a serious engagement between the French troops and the insurgent Moors took place during the night, near Figuig, and that the result is not known. Another skirmish, in which three French soldiers were killed, is also said to have taken place at Djenan-el-Dar.

POPE'S GIFT TO ROOSEVELT.

Vatican Printers Preparing a Superbly Bound Set of Volumes Containing All of Leo's Encyclicals.

[Copyright: 1903: By the New York Herald.]

ROME, June 3.—Leo XIII. has ordered the vatican printers to reproduce all his encyclicals and different pontifical acts and forward them as a gift to the president of the United States. They will form a magnificent set of volumes and will be superbly bound. The pope, who overtaxed his strength in receiving a large number of pilgrims lately, has now unwillingly yielded to Dr. Lapponi's advice and will take a rest. It is rumored that the forthcoming consistory will be postponed for some days.

POISON RUMOR FROM BELGRADE

COLONIES LIKE TARIFF.

AUSTRALIAN ATTORNEY GENERAL SAYS PLAN IS APPROVED.

Secretary Chamberlain Issues Statement in Which He Declares That the Proposals Could Not Be Even Considered if They Had Not the Enthusiastic Support of Colonial Opinion—Sir Charles Dilke Speaks on Topic at Liberal Club.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, June 3.—A telegram was received today from Alfred Beakin, the attorney general of the Australian commonwealth, saying the Australian commonwealth and all the governments of the separate Australian states approve Colonial Secretary Chamberlain's proposals. Only an extreme section of free traders oppose them, and an immense majority is assured for the new policy when it is submitted to the country.

In reply to a correspondent who inquired regarding the alleged hostile feeling in the colonies toward Mr. Chamberlain's imperial zollverein proposals, the colonial secretary has written his views.

Claims Colonial Support.

"I need hardly point out to you that," he says, "if colonial opinion were, indeed, hostile or even apathetic, there would not be the slightest possibility of carrying through so great a reform, and I should feel justified in abandoing the struggle if I were not warmly supported by the colonies. I do not, however, accept the reports and articles on Australian opinion as in any way conclusive, and I shall certainly be much interested to know what is the final judgment as far as public opinion can be tested when the nature of my proposal becomes known."

The expected meeting of the cabinet has not yet been held, but the cue of the ministers appears to be to earnestly repudiate any intention of appealing to the country in the near future. Walter Long, president of the local government board, speaking at Epworth tonight, took this view, and declared that the government would take its own time and not allow its hand to be forced by the opposition. He also protested against the great problem being smothered at its birth by a flood of declamation.

Sir Charles Dilke Opposes.

Among the important speeches on the subject was one by Sir Charles Dilke, M. P., at the Gloucester club. He said that the secretary of the board of trade attributed the prosperity of the United States to protection, and declared that the United States every year was leaving Great Britain completely behind in the face of foreign trade. These statements, Sir Charles said, would not bear investigation. The exports from the United States in 1902 were not greatly in excess of those of 1898 and were less than those of 1900 and 1901. Such were the natural advantages of the United States that nothing but protection could have kept her back.

An overwhelming majority of her exports did not consist of manufactures, despite the abundance of her coal and iron, but of the actual crops from the surface of the soil. The one item in which she was beating Great Britain was iron and steel, and the only wonder was that she had not beaten Great Britain therein a great many years ago.

Must Safeguard Food.

The government had shrunk from advocating a duty on cotton, the largest item of exports from the United States, but was gong to propose a duty on grain and meat by interfering with the trade of the United States. Great Britain was weakening one of her greatest imperial securities in a general war. The people of Great Britain had welcomed the increase in the fleet of the United States, because in a general war she would be the protector of the rights of neutrals, who in a last resort would feed the British while they were fighting, and would at least contribute to the permanence of the British empire.

Opposition Is Powerful.

It is already clear that Mr. Chamberlain will have an uphill fight against the more important labor organizations in the country. All the trades union leaders have spoken strongly against his scheme, whilst the fact that the Coöperative congress, representing two millions of the best class of workers, also opposes any form of protection is considered significant. It is probably in view of these indications that the ministers and the unionist party generally are counseling a policy of caution and deliberation before committing themselves to any definite pronouncement.

At a meeting of the tariff league it has been decided to largely increase the scope of the organization, which it is hoped will soon include a large number of peers, members of the house of commons, and leading manufacturers. It is intended to immediately commence a campaign of education of the people in the direction of preferential tariff by the compilation and distribution of a mass of literature in view of a possible early general election.

SHAMROCKS ARE AT THE AZORES

Both Challengers Reach Islands in Good Shape and Will Resume Voyage Today.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

FAYAL, Azores, June 3.—Shamrock III. arrived here today in tow of the steam yacht Erin. Shamrock I. arrived some hours later in tow of the tug Cruiser. Both yachts are in splendid condition and all on board the racers and their escorts are in best of health and spirits. They sail from here in the morning.

Reliance Ready for Coming Trials.

Bristol, R. I., June 3.—[Special.]—Reliance left here this evening in tow, and will anchor at Newport for the night, and proceed to New Rochelle tomorrow. The yacht is in the best possible shape for the contests next week, and the tender is packed full of spare spars, sails, and other racing gear. Constitution's rigging was completed this morning and it was warped out into the harbor this evening. The new standing rigging of Constitution is of nickel steel, and is much lighter than any ever used on a ninety foot racer before.

Shareholders Cheer Shamrock III.

LONDON, June 3.—The shareholders of Lipton company, limited, at their meeting today gave hearty cheers for Shamrock III. Heretofore the shareholders have generally criticised Sir Thomas' devotion to his pursuit of the America cup, as being hurtful to the interest of the company.

FAST TRAINS IN ENGLAND.

British Railroads Resume Rivalry and Run Cars at 75 to 100 Miles an Hour.

[Copyright: 1903: By the New York Herald.]

LONDON, June 3.—Railway racing in this country has been dormant for a while, but now it is beginning again. The Great Northern company proposes to run trains between London and York, a distance of 188 miles, without a stop. The London and Northwestern proposes to run between London and Carlisle, a distance of 300 miles, without a stop, in a little over four hours. The London and Southwestern railway yesterday started record breaking on that line, the ordinary express doing the journey between London and Salisbury, a distance of eighty-nine miles, in eighty-four minutes.

DOCTOR EXPLAINS CANCER CURE

French Physician Who Used X Rays with Success Says Achievement Is Overstated.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

PARIS, June 3.—Dr. Le Redde, one of the physicians who was alleged to have cured a case of cancer of the stomach by means of the X-rays, announces that the discovery has been misrepresented and says that a means has been found for using X-rays almost without danger in treating superficial cancers, some of which have been successfully removed, but he never pretended to cure internal or deep seated cases.

PLAN A FINISH FOR LORIMERISM

Republican Leaders Discussing Ways of Reorganizing the Party.

BOSS WILL MAKE FIGHT.

Objects to Retirement and Is Expected to Try to Nominate Next State Ticket.

Before the end of June, probably next week, the republican reorganization campaign will be inaugurated. It was suggested that Chairman E. S. Conway of the county committee should call a conference of leading party men to determine just what should be done, then devise ways and means of doing it.

Without any formal caucus or debate one question seems to have been settled—the party must be rid of Lorimerism. It is pretty generally conceded, too, that the only way to eliminate Lorimerism is to shut William Lorimer out of the party councils by removing him from the managing committees.

"To go on as we have been going for the last four years," said a prominent republican, "means that we cannot elect our county ticket in 1904, and also that Chicago will roll up a big majority against our state ticket. The workers are beginning to realize this, and they are getting uneasy. The demand that Lorimer be forced to drop out, or at least take a back seat, is coming from the ward and precinct clubs more than from any other source.

"Probably fifty of the boys will lose their jobs as a result of the judicial election. Naturally that will make them and their friends feel discouraged. Their misfortunes are bound to affect others, and when they get to discussing the outlook they see the necessity of a change. The anti-Lorimer sentiment is undoubtedly spreading, and it will go on until we take some kind of action."

Propositions for New Lineup.

Several propositions for a new lineup have been submitted. It was proposed during the day that the principal members of the executive committee and other leaders ought to go to Mr. Lorimer, explain the situation, and say to him that for the good of the party he should step aside. Whether they will do it is another question. It was said that too many of the committeemen are under obligations to Mr. Lorimer for political favors. He has probably secured more places for workers than any politician in Illinois.

It has become apparent that he does not intend to retire voluntarily. His argument is that he must protect his friends. In other words, if he has to get out E. J. Magerstadt, John A. Cooke, Dexter Burke, Joseph E. Bidwill, and other of his lieutenants would surely have to be relegated to the rear with him.

Lorimer, it was stated, expects to play a big part in nominating a candidate for governor and naming the county ticket next year. According to those who claim to know, at this time Yates is his choice for standard bearer. The story is that when Lorimer took charge of the speakership fight last fall he got the support of Yates and the administration crowd for J. H. Miller on promise that the "organization" would be behind Gov. Yates for renomination. His lieutenants talk against every other possible candidate whose name has been mentioned.

Opposition to Lorimer Strong.

It is freely predicted by the men who generally go as delegates to conventions that Mr. Lorimer will have the hardest undertaking of his life when he starts to put the organization behind Yates or anybody else of his choosing.

Reports are to the effect that the anti-Lorimer movement is on foot down the state as strongly as in the city. If necessary there will be a fight in every precinct where the Lorimer-Yates outfit tries to secure a delegate. In the city anti-Lorimer delegate tickets will be put out in every one of the so-called Lorimer wards and they will have the aid of the party managers, who believe the time has come for him to retire.

Tired of One Man System.

Those who thus express themselves are not looking for a leader. Their ideas were voiced by a ward club president who made this statement:

"We do not want a one man leadership. It is not possible to run the party in Chicago with only one leader. There are too many divisions of territory and too many interests. Some of us believe in getting back to the old style of ward leaders. Then there could be no complaining about the dictations of a Lorimer or a Jamieson when it came to making up tickets and nominating candidates. Every interest would be treated fairly, and everybody would get a hearing. There would be no more of this picking up of men never heard of, and not known even in their own neighborhoods and nominating them to some office."

PLAN APPEAL BY EXTRA JUDGES.

Conference to Be Held on Saturday to Decide on Method of Bringing Case Before Supreme Court.

There will be a conference on Saturday, probably in Judge Carter's chambers, to decide on a program for getting the case of the provisional judges before the Supreme court. The plan outlined is for the county clerk to refuse to certify the election to the state board, then the three candidates will apply for a writ of mandamus. This will bring the question to a test, and on appeal it will be taken to the Supreme court for a ruling as to whether the law creating the additional judgeships was repealed by the last legislature.

PRISON FOR STRIKING OFFICER.

German Seaman Sentenced for Attack on Ensign, Who Committed Suicide After Affair.

KIEL, June 3.—A seaman of the German navy named Andreas Messerschmidt was sentenced by a naval court martial today to eighteen months' imprisonment for striking Ensign von Abel on May 2 at Kiel. Von Abel committed suicide after he found he was unable to challenge the man who assaulted him and personally avenge himself. The court today read Von Abel's letter explaining why he committed suicide. The ensign said the assurance given him by the commandant that the matter would be rigidly investigated was poor consolation for him, and added: "I cannot allow myself to be struck and then put up with it."

GAME ALL OVER IN FIRST INNING.

Colts Make Seven Runs at the Start and Then Gallop to the Finish.

MANY BROOKLYN ERRORS.

Pittsburg Again Shuts Out New York, Letting Selee's Men Farther Away.

Ned Hanlon's Superbas had absolutely nothing to say about yesterday's game at the west side grounds after the first inning. That lasted about fifteen minutes, and in that time the visitors had played more ragged baseball than the average prairie lot team would in a whole game and Selee's Colts had sandwiched in enough hits to roll up seven runs. These made Brooklyn's one tally in the first look smaller than Billy Lorimer did after the votes were counted Monday night.

Both teams scored at intervals thereafter, but there was never any diminution in Chicago's margin, which at the end was increased to 11 to 3.

Virgil Garvin, the wanderer who has found a resting place in Hanlon's roost, was in the middle of the diamond for Brooklyn and might have made things interesting with a little support, but he didn't get any until after the game had been bagged beyond redemption. Wicker opposed the elongated Texan and had command of the game at all times, although occasionally he did not have command of the ball. His frequent bases on balls added some excitement to an otherwise listless game, for without them the Superbas could have got few men to first.

Visitors' Makeshift Infield.

Chicago had its regular lineup in the field again, Tinker having returned from his attempt to swim the Kansas floods. Manager Hanlon had another makeshift infield, switching Strang back to third and Jordan to second. The latter was benched after the first inning when it was discovered that he could not cover more than his shadow, and Catcher Jacklitz tried his hand. He helped Chicago to at least two more runs, once by muffing an easy popup and again by failing to cover second base on a hit to Dahlen with a runner at first. These funny breaks were practically the only features.

Brooklyn looked good for half an inning because Dobbs smashed out a triple with two out and scored on McCreedie's scratch safety to Casey. Mac was caught stealing, and then it was Chicago's turn. Harley lifted a high one to right. McCreedie camped under it, but muffed it, and Dick reached second. Slagle sacrificed and Chance chopped a safe one over Garvin's head, scoring Harley. In a minute Garvin threw to first just as Chance started for second. Frank kept on going, and, because Doyle's relay was a trifle wide, landed in safety at second.

Triple Play of Errors.

Jones hit a little bounder just in front of the plate. Ritter jumped for it and the ball struck him in the head on the rebound. Then he grabbed it and threw to first without a chance to get Jones, and the ball flew out into right, letting Chance home and Jones to third. Luck was coming Chicagoward in chunks. Tinker hit safely into left, scoring Jones. Casey hit one through between Doyle and Jordan on which Joe sneaked to third. Garvin cut off Evers' sharp bounder and threw to third to catch Tinker, but Strang wasn't looking for the play, and the bases were full with one out. Kling emptied them on the gallop with a clean double to center. He reached third on Dahlen's fumble of Wicker's grounder and scored on Harley's fly to McCreedie. Strang fielded Slagle out at first, and the game was over so far as results go.

The Colts pegged away at Garvin and with the assistance of more errors made four more runs, one at a time. The Superbas did not get another until the sixth, when a pass and two singles made one. In the last round two singles and a long fly scored the last of the day. Score:

Chicago Against New York Today.

New York comes today for a series of four games, and the Colts have a little revenge to get for those two defeats which they suffered at the hands of McGraw's men in Gotham.

Notes of the Colts' Game.

Kling retired the side in the eighth on two fouls and a strikeout.

Wicker found Dahlen a hard mark to shoot at, apparently. He gave Bill three successive passes.

Garvin was remembered by his Chicago friends, who gave him a big bunch of flowers and a silk umbrella the first time he came to bat.

Jimmy Slagle retired at the end of the seventh inning to give his doubtful leg a rest and let Raub get a little practice, as the game was all Chicago's.

Hanlon had five Chicago castoffs in his lineup yesterday—Strang, Dobbs, Doyle, Dahlen, and Garvin. Strang and Garvin were traded to New York for Doyle a couple of years ago, and now all three are on the same team. Strang and Garvin have been turned loose by both of Chicago's teams.

BETTING ON PITTSBURG GAME.

New York Is Favorite, but Is Shut Out, Five to Naught, by Clark's Men.

Pittsburg, Pa., June 3.—[Special.]—For the first time in two years a visiting team was the favorite in the betting against Pittsburg today. The New York club was made a 10 to 9 favorite, but it was again shut out. McGinnity's good support saved many hits, and the work behind Leever was brilliant. New York got beyond first base only three times during the game. Attendance, 4,400. Score:

Weaver Goes to Pittsburg.

St. Louis, Mo., June 3.—[Special.]—"Buck" Weaver, the former Cedar Rapids catcher, has been released by St. Louis to Pittsburg and left to joint the champions tonight. Weaver promises well. He is an exceptionally brilliant thrower and a good sticker, but a slow thinker. A few more cardinals are due to be released.

CHICAGO NINE BEATS INDIANA.

Hoosier Pitcher Gives Ten Passes and Capt. Harper Hits the Ball Hard.

The University of Chicago defeated Indiana yesterday afternoon on Marshall field by a score of 14 to 2. Boyle's generosity in issuing passes was chiefly responsible for the one-sided score, as the hits on both sides were just equal and the fielding about the same. Boyle gave ten bases on balls. Capt. Harper's hard hitting was responsible for five of Chicago's runs. Score:

BASEBALL CLUB IN LABOR WAR.

Toledo Management Discharges Pitcher Carrick on Demand of the Central Union.

Toledo, O., June 3.—[Special.]—Toledo baseball managers are in the throes of a labor war. The trouble originated when the Central Labor union demanded and secured the unconditional discharge of Pitcher William Carrick on the ground that years ago he acted as a spy for a manufacturing concern in time of labor troubles in some western city. Manager Strobel, himself a member of the Central Labor union, was unable to secure any concessions, and was obliged to let Carrick go. The matter has been taken up by the press and public in the hope of inducing the C. L. U. to rescind its arbitrary action.

Morgan Park Nine Makes Trip.

The Morgan Park academy baseball team will leave tonight for Cleveland, O., where it plays the Cleveland university school on Friday and the Cleveland Central High school on Saturday. Last year the Morgan Park boys shut out the university school 18 to 0, and they hope to repeat the victory this year. At a student rally last night the Morgan Park Athletic association presented each member of the football, baseball, and tennis teams with an intercollegiate sweater. A. A. Stagg had charge of the presentation.

Wheeler's Coppers Win.

Inspector Wheeler's baseball team defeated the Canalport avenue police yesterday afternoon at Kedzie avenue and Huron street. Score, 4 to 3. The feature was John Dixon's home run drive.

THIRD STRAIGHT FOR COLLINS' MEN

Boston Takes Another Fall Out of New York Americans at Home.

GRIFFITH IS HARD HIT.

Gotham Fans Do Not Take Kindly to Showing of All Star Aggregation.

New York, June 3.—[Special.]—Boston jumped half of its hits off Griffith in the third inning and scored six runs. This ended the game, for Young had the locals in hand at all stages. The work of Lachance at first and Williams at second were the features of the game.

Nine to three was the score at the end, and it marked the third consecutive victory for the Boston Americans over the New York cliff dwellers. Only one home run was made today. Beaneater Freeman, who twice swept the bases on Monday, made it.

The New York men are undoubtedly all stars, but it is also a fact they are playing for individual records, and, as this means an absence of team work, the "all stars" as a whole are a negative quality. Score:

'GRIFF' WANTS PITCHER MILLER

New York Wires Illinois' Star for Terms—Others of Huff's Players May Get Professional Berths.

Urbana, Ill., June 3.—[Special.]—Major league managers are scanning the champion university of Illinois baseball team with eager eyes. Clark Griffith of the New York Americans today telegraphed "Deacon" Miller, asking the tall twirler his terms for a tryout, and what salary he would want if he made good.

Miller has pitched ten games this year and has not lost one. He telegraphed Griffith his terms, and it is probable he will be seen in a New York uniform shortly.

Third Baseman Steinwedell, Huff's premier infielder, may be seen in the National league, according to reports, which are to the effect that Cincinnati is considering him. Steinwedell has played four years at third base and will be graduated this year.

Jimmy Cook, the hard hitting captain and fleet baserunner, is said to be considering several offers to embark on the professional sea. First Baseman Ashmore, who may not return to college next year, will play first base on Rockford's Three "I," league team. With Lundgren and Falkenberg in the National and Stahl in the American league already, Illinois will be well represented in fast company.

There is much interest in the baseball captaincy, for which Second Baseman Parker and Pitcher Beebe are the candidates.

RUBE WADDELL CATCHES BRIDE.

Pitcher-Angler Marries Miss May Skinner of Lynn, Mass.—Romance Begins in Boston.

Lynn, Mass., June 3.—[Special.]—George Edward Waddell, better known as "Rube," the star pitcher of the Philadelphia American league team, and Miss May Wynne Skinner were married in this city this afternoon. The ceremony was performed without display, and immediately after the wedding the couple departed for Philadelphia, where Waddell will join his team.

The marriage occurred at the home of Philip Boland, 400 Essex street, the Rev. John A. Marsh of the High Street Baptist church, of which the bride is a member, officiating. After the ceremony there was a brief reception, at which friends of the couple extended congratulations and the members of the Lynn Eyrie of Eagles presented a sideboard.

Miss Skinner became acquainted with Waddell last year at a game on the Huntington avenue grounds in Boston.

CATCHER SULLIVAN IS BETTER.

White Stocking Player at Mercy Hospital Is Improving, but Not Out of Danger.

Billy Sullivan, the White Stocking catcher who is at the Mercy hospital recovering from an operation for appendicitis, continued to improve yesterday, and reports last night were distinctly favorable, although Dr. Barnes would not pronounce his patient entirely out of danger from possible complications for another twenty-four hours. The absence of unfavorable symptoms is considered hopeful.

PLAY IN GOLF TOURNAMENT.

Eight Contestants Remain in the Women's Metropolitan Championships.

New York, June 3.—[Special.]—Eight of the original thirty-seven starters in the women's metropolitan golf championships remain in the struggle now in progress over the links of the Richmond County Country club on Staten island. The second round, which was decided today, resulted besides others in victories for the present title holder, Mrs. E. A. Manice; Miss Ruth Underhill, and Mrs. C. T. Stout, formerly Miss Hecker, the champion for the previous two seasons.

Mrs. Manice was pitted against Mrs. William Shippan, captain of the Morris county team, and eventually won by 5 up and 3 to play. Going out, the Baltusrol representative was not in her happiest vein, and had Mrs. Shippan not been so weak from the tee she undoubtedly would have more than held her own. As it was, Mrs. Manice, who was 1 up at the turn, required 48 to go out to her opponent's 49. Coming back, the present champion gave a glimpse of her true form, and, after being 2 up going to the twelfth hole, won three in succession and the match.

The best scoring match of the day was between Mrs. M. D. Patterson of Englewood and Mrs. J. F. Hubbard of Harbor Hill. The first named went out in 42, and eventually won by 6 up and 4 to play. Mrs. A. H. Harris won the driving competition with an average of 183 yards 7 inches. Miss Irving of the home club drove 200 yards, the longest single effort.

ACADEMY TRACK MEET TODAY.

Five Good Teams Are Entered and a Close Contest for First Place Is Anticipated.

The interacademic track meet, the most important event of the year in academy track circles, will occur today on Marshall field. Five academies—Morgan Park, Lake Forest, Northwestern, Culver, and South Side—are represented by strong teams, and the fight for first honors promises to be keen.

Some of the best prep men of the west are entered in the dashes. The two best men entered in the 100 yards are Matthews of Northwestern and McQuade of Culver. Both have done :10⅕, and each is confident of winning today.

In the high and low hurdles and the broad jump, McConoughy of Morgan Park should have everything his way, as he has been doing excellent work in these events during the winter, tying the Chicago varsity record in the broad jump.

In the quarter mile, Zimmerman of Lake Forest should win if he runs true to his form, although Tompkins of South Side, and Bichoff of Northwestern may cause him trouble, as they are in good condition and pulling hard to win.

In the distance runs Jane of Morgan Park and Hultquist of South Side look best, with Jane having slightly the better of it, as he is the more consistent runner.

Clapp to Captain Yale Team.

New Haven, Conn., June 3.—[Special.]—Edwin J. Clapp of Minneapolis, Minn., was today elected captain of the Yale track team for next year. He belongs to the class of 1904 and is the champion intercollegiate hurdler.

Significant Move by Fitzpatrick.

Ann Arbor, Mich., June 3.—[Special.]—While the Michigan track team was posing for the college photographer today Trainer Fitzpatrick made a little speech requesting the men who had entered for the A. A. U. meet at Detroit on Saturday to withdraw. The athletes were astonished, but obeyed.

FINISHES SECOND AFTER RUNAWAY.

SHAWANA IS THE WINNER

Jockey Birkenruth and Horse Flying Torpedo Are Permanently Barred.

At Hawthorne yesterday Ida Davis, J. C. Milam & Co.'s G. W. Johnson—Preference filly, almost repeated Flying Torpedo's performance of tossing a jockey, running away, and then winning a race. Ida finished second after she had jumped the fence, rolled over, shed all her trappings, and run around all the barns and stables back of the backstretch.

The mishap occurred previous to the Lassie stakes, a five furlong dash for 2 year old fillies, and the last stake event of the Hawthorne spring meeting. The filly, with Davis up, went to the post gently, but upon her arrival at the barrier she lunged forward and tossed the boy. Riderless, she ran about a furlong, then jumped the outer rail, missed her footing, and rolled over on her back. Upon regaining her feet she ran in and around the barns and stables and was corralled at the other end of the track, resaddled, and started.

Her previous win with 115 pounds up gave her an excellent chance to annex the stake, but her escapade, it was considered, killed her off, and any old price was offered in the ring that she would not finish in the money. To the surprise of her backers she broke second, and in a flash was leading her field by a length. She retained this lead until well into the stretch, where she was overtaken by Shawana and beaten out by one and a half lengths. Her race, everything considered, stamps her a cracking good filly. Among those which finished behind her were Fred Cook's pair, Glisten and Determination; Schreiber's Dorice, shipped here from Latonia especially for the race; Badger Girl, Wreath of Ivy, and the favorite, Handsome Florry. The winner is owned by Talbot Bros., and is by The Commoner—Becky Sharp.

The handicap at one and one-sixteenth miles was won by Favonius. Opposed to the winner were Airlight and Pat Dunne's imported colt, Red Comyn. The race was simply a procession, as Favonius took the lead, followed by Airlight, with Dunne's colt bringing up the rear, and that was the order of the running throughout.

The surprise of the afternoon was Alene Abbott's win of the fifth race. The mare was held at 15 to 1, and made the best of her rail position by securing the path and gaining a lead of several lengths, which none of the field could overcome. Loone and Wing Dance finished second and third.

BIRKENRUTH IS DOWN AND OUT.

Jockey and Flying Torpedo Are Permanently Suspended by the Hawthorne Officials.

The Hawthorne judges yesterday took action in the much talked of Flying Torpedo race and handed down the following decision:

After a thorough investigation of the running of Flying Torpedo we suspend indefinitely Jockey Birkenruth and order in future the entry of the horse Flying Torpedo be refused. The ruling in regard to the horse shall not apply to stake engagements already made.

By this action Jockey Birkenruth is the principal sufferer, inasmuch as the horse is engaged in all of the big local handicaps, and may yet win a considerable sum of money for his owner. Jockey Birkenruth's friends complain of the decision, maintaining that the boy has been riding to orders.

Notes of the Hawthorne Track.

Barney Schreiber's colors were seen for the first time this season on the local tracks in the Lassie stakes.

C. E. Westfall of the Grosse Point track at Detroit emphatically denies the stories regarding the poor condition of the track.

Billy Bissett, John A. Drake's betting commissioner, bet $1,000 on Alan-a-Dale at 10 to 1 to win the Harlem National handicap.

Race Results at St. Louis.

St. Louis, Mo., June 3.—Stand Pat won the feature of today's card over a heavy track at the Fair Grounds. Scorpio, the favorite, showed the way to the last sixteenth pole, where he gave way to Stand Pat, who came with a rush from third place and won by a length. Results:

First race, 9-16 mile—Ailasa, 104 pounds [A. W. Booker], 3 to 1, won; Pinky B., 104 [D. Hall], 3 to 2, second; Enigma, 50 to 1, third. Time, 1:00. Colin George, Mattie R., Hoe Down, Frank Risser, Castle Gregory, Billy Jackson, Monjis, Canoe, and Hazel Boyle also ran.

HERMIS IS BADLY DEFEATED.

Dublin Outruns Thomas' $50,000 Beauty in the Latter's First Start of the Season.

New York, June 3.—[Special.]—Hermis was vanquished at Gravesend today in a way that made the big crowd of 12,000 racegoers open their eyes in wonderment, and caused E. R. Thomas, who recently purchased the great race horse from L. V. Bell for $50,000, to look serious. But to the keen eyed horsemen and trainers who looked Hermis over in the paddock it was apparent the horse was nowhere near a race—that he was much on the big side. Odom was engaged several days ago to ride Hermis, but at the last moment Burns was substituted, which gave rise to a story that Burns was put up at the request of Mrs. Thomas in opposition to the wishes of Trainer J. H. McCormick. Mrs. Thomas and her husband were close at hand when McCormick gave his instructions to Burns just outside the stall. The thousands of others without the paddock did not know this, and readily accepted 3 to 5. Hermis was run off his feet by Dublin in the first mile and dropped way back in the ruck.

Six favorites went down today, and the bookmakers are said to have won more money than at any time in years.

Field for Derby at Detroit.

Detroit, Mich., June 3.—[Special.]—Fifteen horses will go to the post in the International Derby at Grosse Pointe next Monday. Bob Franklin and Kilmorie will be here from Pugh's stable at Covington, and one of them will start. The George Hendrie string has arrived from Latonia and Mr. Hendrie says he will surely start Reservation. Baker & Gentry will ship fifteen here from Lexington, and in this lot is the colt Sir Gallant, which they think is of Derby caliber. William Gerst's Fore and Aft will also start.

SMATHERS HERE TO SEE BIG RACE.

McChesney's Owner Comes to Watch His Horse in Saturday's Event.

BIG FIELD IS ASSURED.

Secretary Nathanson Says Twenty-one Animals Will Go to the Post.

E. E. Smathers, the New York owner of McChesney and Dick Bernard, arrived last night to see the first named horse run in the Harlem National handicap on Saturday.

Mr. Smathers was loath to express an opinion as to whether he thought his horse would win the big event. He said: "I know absolutely nothing as to the condition of McChesney other than what I learned from Mr. Hildreth by letter, and that was favorable. I read the accounts of his race at Hawthorne on Tuesday, and judge from the weight he was asked to carry and the condition of the track his performance was good. Hildreth, I understand, wanted the horse excused, which to me is convincing evidence the conditions of the race were not favorable, so his defeat caused no surprise. I am going to the Harlem track in the morning and look him over, and in the afternoon will witness the races at Hawthorne."

Mr. Smathers appeared surprised to learn that McChesney, with top weight up, was the favorite in the ante-post betting, as he had really done nothing to warrant it. When informed that his horse was the idol of the west he smiled as much as to say, "Idols do not always win."

Will Race at Washington Park.

Speaking of the future of his two colts, he said he would race them in the west until after the Washington park meeting, then ship them to Saratoga.

"Will they go east in charge of Mr. Hildreth?" was asked.

"That is too far ahead to think about," he replied. Continuing, he said: "They are in good hands at present, and I have confidence in Mr. Hildreth's ability to send McChesney to the post fit. I have placed a good sized wager on him to win the handicap. The field, I understand, will be large, and such being the case will not be disappointed should he fail to reach the wire first. There is everything against a good horse in a large field—such as getting into pockets, being hemmed in, cut off on the turns, and any number of happenings that are not preventable. I have engaged Bullman to ride McChesney, so I feel easy on that score. I must admit I had some trouble in securing Bullman, as his employer, Mr. Schorr, has four 2 year olds running on Saturday, and we in the east think Bullman the best in the country on youngsters. Schorr was loath to let the boy come, but if he had not given his consent I think I would have kidnaped him."

Mr. Smathers saw the Brooklyn handicap finish between Irish Lad and Gunfire and thought it the best he had ever witnessed. "They crossed the finishing line so close together," he said, "none but the judges and those on a direct line of the wire could tell which had won.

Mr. Smathers thinks Irish Lad the greatest 3 year old in the east, but would not express an opinion as to what his chance would be to win the American Derby.

Mr. Smathers is as deep in the harness game as ever. His trotter, Lord Derby, is matched with Major Delmar, the best two in three heats, and the race will take place at the Empire track on July 4.

Field for the Big Race.

Secretary Nathanson yesterday made up a field of starters for the big handicap on Saturday from information which he had received, and it contained the names of twenty-one horses, supplemented by several others that he said might be seen at the post. Such a field is unheard of and it is likely the list will be considerably reduced before Saturday. The only thing the Harlem managers are worrying about, however, is the weather. If the weather is fair, they say the field of horses will do the rest.

Secretary Nathanson's revised list is as follows:

Horse, owner, and jockey.
McChesney, E. E. Smathers, Bullman.
Lucien Appleby, Durnell & Herz, Henry.
Runnels, John A. Drake, Houbre.

WISCONSIN FOUR TO GO EAST.

Columbia Offers Westerners the Use of Its Shell for the Poughkeepsie Event.

Madison, Wis., June 3.—[Special.]—Through the kindness of Columbia university Wisconsin will be represented in the four oared shell race at Poughkeepsie this year. The boating department here was unable to buy a four oared shell this season, and Coach O'Dea had about given up the plan to row a four. He received a telegram from Columbia today offering the use of the Columbia's shell, and this afternoon telegraphed acceptance. The shell will not be shipped west, but the crews leave here on June 18, and the men who will row in the four will have ten days' practice on the Hudson.

Harvard to Try Cornell Stroke.

Cambridge, Mass., June 3.—[Special.]—The Harvard varsity crew will leave for New London on Friday. Coach Higginson announced today the crew would be given a trial of the Cornell system of rowing, and if any aptitude was shown the stroke would be used against Yale.

Tennis Results from Middlesex.

LONDON, June 3.—In the Middlesex lawn tennis championship games today Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hobart beat H. J. Burkhill and Miss Bargent in the open doubles, 4-6, 7-5, 6-4. In the third round of the mixed handicap Mr. and Mrs. Hobart beat Mr. Barker and Miss E. T. Johnson, 6-4, 6-1, 6-3. In the ladies' doubles handicap Mrs. Hobart and Miss Coles, giving 15, beat Mrs. Barker and Miss Gordon Hogg, 8-6, 6-2.

Philadelphia Cricketers Arrive.

QUEENSTOWN, June 3.—The Philadelphia cricket team arrived here in excellent form this morning, having practiced aboard ship on the way across.

Pugilistic Pointers.

Buddy Ryan, now in Sig Hart's stable, and Charlie Neary, will contest the windup at the Badger club's show at Milwaukee June 10.

Mike Ward of Sarnia, Ont., and Gus Gardner will hook up in a ten round bout at Port Huron, Mich., tonight.

Silvie Ferettie will match Billy ... against Abe Attel for the 122 pound championship and will post a forfeit of $1,000. Silvie says Attel can name his own conditions as to the division of the purse.

Jack Root will spend a week at West Baden before he goes into hard training for his bout with George Gardner. The latter will remain in Buffalo and will leave for that city ...

Harris Wins from Brunswick.

Harris defeated Brunswick 50 to 47 after a close contest in Mussey's three cushion tournament last night. Avery and Riley will play tonight.

CREST OF FLOOD NEARS ST. LOUIS.

Hundreds of Houses Floating Past the City, but No Fatalities Are Reported.

ILLINOIS SIDE A BIG LAKE

Gangs of Men Working on Sny Levee in Order to Save Vast Farm Region.

St. Louis, Mo., June 3.—[Special.]—The Mississippi has passed the danger line here and is still going higher. Every inch of rise on this side means miles of flooded country in the lowlands opposite. No serious damage can be done to St. Louis, as there had been ample warning of the coming of the waters. To the north and south of the town nearly all property has been removed to points of safety.

The surface of the river as it goes by is thickly bestrewn with driftwood, indicating that the crest of the flood is approaching. A number of frame houses, submerged all but the roofs, passed St. Louis, and now and then a dead animal, but no human bodies, were seen, although a vigilant watch has been maintained.

Harbor department officials believe that tomorrow the river will rise more rapidly and they look for a thirty-five foot stage by Saturday.

Among those who will feel the losses most heavily are the small truck farmers and gardeners along the river Des Peres, near its confluence with the Mississippi.

On the Illinois side there is a more serious flood condition. Venice, situated north of East St. Louis, is in almost immediate danger of inundation. A rise of a foot more will submerge the west portion of the town and manufacturing industries will suffer heavy losses. The water works which supply Venice, Granite City, and Madison, are situated on Gabaret island. Already the water has reached the sill of the boiler-room floor.

Between Venice and East St. Louis is a lowland area used as farming lands. Water now covers this area to a depth of twelve feet, forming a lake about a mile square.

The river has encroached into the railroad yards and shipping district of East St. Louis and warehouses located along the levee are half submerged. With the first warning stores were hurriedly removed beyond possible reach of the water.

Hope to Save Say Levee.

The river at Louisiana, Mo., is still rising at the rate of one inch an hour, and the gauge now registers 17 feet 6 inches. In 1888 a stage of 18 feet 6 inches broke the Say levee, which protects more than 100,000 acres of fine farming land in Illinois. Since then, however, the levee has been improved, but it is now feared that the levee will break. All the men that can be employed are working on the levee. The only communication between Louisiana and Quincy and the north by rail is via the east side, and four roads are using one track. It will be impossible to use that after today.

Water Receding at Kansas City.

Kansas City, Mo., June 3.—The Missouri river fell seven inches between 7 a. m. and 7 p. m. today, and the Kansas river fell nine inches in the same time. There was sunshine during a large part of the day. Militiamen and police still guard all approaches to the flooded district. Seven street car lines are in operation. The city water works will begin pumping late tonight.

The reports of heavy loss of life in Kansas City, Kas., are not true, and the stories of bodies lying in the drift there are unfounded.

C., B. and Q. Train Is Safe.

Chicago, Burlington and Quincy passenger train No. 3, from Chicago to Kansas City, due here at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon, is known to be safe somewhere east or north of here. The train arrived at Liberty, Mo., twenty-five miles northeast from Kansas City, late Sunday afternoon. The tracks into Kansas City being unsafe, the train was split into two parts and sent east and north to accommodate the new conditions.

Topeka Counting the Cost.

Topeka, Kas., June 3.—The Kansas river is falling rapidly. The number of known dead is 21; unidentified dead, 5; reported dead, 66. Gov. Bailey has issued a proclamation calling for help and asking that contributions be sent to William Sims, treasurer.

The general relief fund has passed $14,000. The Elks fund has passed $4,000, and the fund in the hands of the governor now amounts to $3,500.

Over 200 deputies are guarding property in North Topeka. The governor may call an extra session to provide state relief for all sufferers from floods in Kansas.

Two hundred school children were rescued today from the Grant school. They had been imprisoned there since last Friday. The children were in a half starved condition. The rescuers shot and killed a negro caught in the act of looting deserted houses. Eugene F. Ware, commissioner of pensions, is here safe. He has been in no danger at any time.

Crevasse Near Quincy, Ill.

Quincy, Ill., June 3.—[Special.]—A crevasse in the Indian Grave levee, fifteen miles north of Quincy, today flooded 20,000 acres of growing crops. Two hundred feet of the levee gave way. No lives were lost, but the damage to property and stock is enormous. The river tonight is twenty feet and one inch above low water mark. The river here is ten miles wide, the water extending back over the lowlands to the bluffs. The towns of Lagrange, Canton, Gregory, and Alexandria, Mo., are all under water. Trains on the Burlington system between Hannibal and Burlington have been abandoned, as the track is under water. The water works pumping station has shut down, as the engine room is flooded.

Ottumwa Still in Trouble.

Ottumwa, Ia., June 3.—A fall of three feet in the Des Moines river was recorded here this morning, the water standing ten feet. The water works plant is still under water and the only protection from fire is an engine from Chicago.

Lincoln at Last Sees the Sun.

Lincoln, Neb., June 3.—[Special.]—The sun shone on Lincoln this morning for the first time in fifteen days.

FLOOD RAISES POTATO PRICES.

South Water Street Gives Out Report That Water Will Kill Crop in the Kaw Valley.

"One effect of the western floods will be to make an advance in the price of potatoes in Chicago," said a South Water street commission merchant yesterday.

"Thousands of carloads of potatoes are brought to Chicago every year from the Edwardsville district in the Kaw valley, which is now under water. The crops there will fail, and the tubers will be scarce."

New potatoes were selling at $4 a barrel and $1.50 a bushel in the street yesterday. An advance of 50 cents a barrel was expected today.

The flood has raised the price of other vegetables. Cabbages were 50 cents a crate higher and beets and carrots had advanced 25 cents a box. It was stated that the strawberry market had weakened $1 a case, owing to the impossibility of making any western shipments.

A passenger train from Kansas City, made up of three or four regular trains, arrived late last night over the Santa Fé. No trains run on that line for the west, but it was announced last night that an express would leave this morning for California.

Local officials of the packing houses in the Kansas City bottoms have received word that, though the water was receding, it was still necessary to use boats.

GIRL LEADER OF THE JUNIOR "PROM."

Edith Marion Williams

Students at the University of Chicago are looking forward to the junior promenade, the big social event of the spring quarter, and which closes the social calendar of the college year. Miss Edith Marian Williams, together with Julian Lafayette Brode, will lead the "prom." Miss Williams is a popular girl, being a member of the Wyvern club. She came to the university during the winter quarter from Minneapolis, Minn., where for a term she attended the University of Minnesota.

WAR ON FIRETRAPS BEGUN

COMMISSIONER CONDEMNS KINDERGARTEN COLLEGE.

Notifies Chicago Club That Its Property Adjoining Clubhouse on West Is Unsafe—Mr. Blocki to Stop Obstruction of Sidewalks in Front of Buildings In Process of Erection—Several Violators of Health Ordinance Are Fined Heavily.

Building Commissioner George Williams started his crusade against firetrap buildings yesterday by condemning the three story structure at 8 to 14 Van Buren street, west of the Chicago club and owned by that organization.

For several years the building served as the home of the Chicago Art institute, and at present the upper floors are occupied by the Chicago Kindergarten college, while a flower and fruit store is on the first floor. The large storeroom directly adjoining the alley was being remodeled for occupancy by an art gallery. The tenants were promptly notified of the department's order that the building must not be occupied for any business purpose.

Inspector Peters made the report on which the commissioner acted, stating that the rear and side walls are badly cracked and sunken; that there is little bond in the joints of the rubble stone foundation, adding: "This building is a veritable firetrap, having wood and board partitions all about. The exits for escape, in case of fire in this building, are bad, and in my opinion the building should be condemned at once."

The recent stirring up of inspectors for their lack of energy is resulting in increased reports as to buildings which violate the fire escape law. A thorough inspection in each district has been planned, a complete list of firetraps in Chicago having been ordered.

"The department will extend its crusade against firetraps to every section of the city," said Commissioner Williams. "There have been entirely too many calamities resulting from violations of the building laws. It will take some time to cover the entire city, but the work will be done as quickly as possible. Where dangers are found buildings will be condemned and taken out of business use."

Will Stop Sidewalk Obstruction.

Public Works Commissioner Blocki is after builders who obstruct sidewalks in the downtown district. He has issued orders that hereafter builders shall place shields over the sidewalk space at the earliest moment that construction of new structures will allow.

"There is a short period, during the placing of foundations and the first story of the steel frame work, that sidewalks must be closed," said he. "There has been a tendency, however, to block the sidewalks long after this period has passed. Hereafter 'aprons' will have to be built at the earliest possible moment. Wagons can then be sent in over the sidewalk, but the public will not be compelled to turn out into the street for weeks when passing new building sites."

Bay Window Permits Asked.

The application for a permit to construct a bay window at 154 La Salle street asked by John Fornaciari, the tailor, came up before the council committee on streets and alleys south in the afternoon. Fornaciari sought to build the window a few weeks ago without seeking council consent. As a result he was fined $50, and the policeman who had been posted to prevent the violation suffered a fine of five days' pay because he turned his back long enough to allow a corps of carpenters to put in the window. A subcommittee consisting of Ald. Jones, Carey, and Snow was appointed to inquire into the matter. The same committee will pass on the application for a bay window at 86 Monroe street. H. M. and M. R. Marks are the applicants.

Former City Treasurer Adam Ortseifen appeared before the same body seeking the vacation of an alley end in Pullman. He offered to pay any compensation the city may desire.

"It is not used now and there is no objection to its vacation," said he. "The vacant strip lies between two pieces of property used by our brewing company and has, I must confess, been used by us. But I cannot afford to be caught with an alley in my pocket," he concluded, with a laugh.

The matter was referred to the corporation counsel and to the city real estate expert.

Pumping a "Hole in the Lake."

The rural visitor who has been led to the lake front by confidence men to see the "hole in the lake" will be able to find what he goes after about ten days hence. The city is pumping a "hole in the lake" off the foot of Thirty-ninth street. A great cofferdam is being placed there, its dimensions being 400x200 feet. In the "hole" will be put the foundations of the new pumping station which will be placed at this point in the intercepting sewer system, to aid in maintaining the flow of water through the new Thirty-ninth street conduit.

Health Ordinance Violators Fined.

Violators of the health ordinances who were arraigned for trial before Justice Gibbons were dealt with severely. The city health department, which was the complainant, showed that the property owners had been notified to clean their premises. Among those found guilty and fined were:

Mary E. Nevin, River Forest, owner of property at 77 West Twelfth street; fined $200.

Mrs. F. O. Carlson, 4900 Dearborn street; fined $100.

Joseph Beifeld, owner of property at 35 Blue Island avenue, fined $50.

J. R. Thompson, 78 State street, fined $25.

M. Franck, 12 Marion place, fined $100.

C. Rauth, 130 Flournoy street, fined $50.

S. Rogers Touhy, 84 La Salle street, insanitary vault, fined $25.

Discipline in Police Department.

Chief O'Neill read Lieut. O'Hara a lecture on enforcing discipline during the day. Detective Walter M. Zimmer was before the trial board charged with absenting himself from his district during hours he was on duty. His partner, Detective McDonald, answered a telephone call for the pair by saying Zimmer had gone to "the south side." Zimmer was fined five days' pay and the chief delivered a lecture to Lieut. O'Hara.

"As long as commanding officers neglect to enforce strict discipline," said he, "the work of the department will be unsatisfactory."

Patrolman Thomas Curtis, who has a long record for efficient service, was fined ten days' pay for intoxication.

The order of the chief commanding his subordinates to look "clean and decent" had its effect. The shoes of policemen were polished as they had never been before. Uniforms were clean and brass buttons had been polished.

EXPERTS SWEAR CHASE IS INSANE.

Drs. Cook and Neighbor Tell of the Mental Condition of Young Millionaire.

COURT'S RULING ON SIRE.

Must Show That the Son Had Lucid Intervals When He Became a Citizen of Ohio.

Lafayette, Ind., June 3.—[Special.]—Judge Rabb, before whom the Moses Fowler Chase suit is being tried at Fowler, Benton county, today ruled that the father would have to prove the insanity of the boy at the time the petition asking for a guardian was filed, and that unless the defendant could show that the boy had had lucid intervals, during which time he had changed his residence to Ohio, the court would instruct the jury that the boy's domicile was in Lafayette.

Gives Expert Testimony.

Drs. Cook and Neighbor of Fowler were today examined as to the mental condition of the boy, and they agreed that he lacked will or reasoning powers. The doctors related questions they put to young Chase and the answers he made thereto.

Dr. Cook had asked Chase to write his name, and he wrote: "Moses Fowler Chase, 155 South street, Lafayette, Ind." Dr. Davidson of Lafayette exhibited a check signed to the boy for $100,000. He had made it on request. Dr. Davidson said there were depressions in the head of young Chase that were abnormal and insymmetrical, that the brain cavity was below normal, that the ears were not similar, showing the presence of the stigma of degeneration.

Father on the Stand.

The court shut out further expert testimony at this time as to the sanity of the boy, and Fred Chase, father of the boy, was the next witness. He gave a history of his son from his birth to the present time, telling of the various specialists who had examined him. Great interest was shown in the testimony of the father. The petitioners closed their evidence in chief at 4:30 o'clock, and the attorneys for the boy began reading the depositions taken at Cincinnati, whereby they hope to establish that the boy was sane at the time he changed his residence. The deposition of Dr. Mitchell is being read first. It looks as if the evidence in chief might be closed on Thursday.

WILL "LIMBER UP" TODAY FOR COUNCIL BALL GAME.

Aldermen to Practice on South Side Grounds in Anticipation of Saturday's Charity Benefit.

There will be "doings" at the south side ball grounds from 3 o'clock this afternoon until darkness throws its curtain on the scene. A meeting of the city council will be held there, but not to consider municipal problems. It will be the preliminary "workout" of the candidates for the "Scully Pirates" of the west side and the "Butterworth Wonders" of the south and north sides. The public set to betwen these teams will come on Saturday, the proceeds to be devoted to charity.

Last year the scorekeeper was chased from the field and the result of that aldermanic battle on the diamond has never been determined. This year it is to be a "game as is a game," according to the verbal contract entered into by the opposing forces.

Capt. Adrian C. Anson will undertake to umpire the game, and has required a rigid contract that parliamentary rules shall be barred as the basis for decisions, a point which caused trouble last year.

Ald. Honoré Palmer, if his pitching arm is in condition, will hold the slab for the "Wonders" in the "tryout" this afternoon. Ald. Badenoch will catch, while the bases will be filled by Ald. Butterworth, Dailey, and O'Connell. Ald. Snow will play shortstop, and the outfielders will include Ald. Wendling, Burns, and Moynihan or Jones.

For the other side Ald. Scully will do the pitching, while Ald. V. E. Cervenky, who weighs 350 pounds, will make things impassable in the neighborhood of second base. Ald. Zimmer, who played professional ball in his day, will be behind the bat. Ald. Sitts, another diamond star of a few years ago, will hold down the first bag, and Ald. Harkin will play third. Ald. Anderson at "short" and Sindelar, Preib, and Moran in the outfield complete the roster.

WILL MEET TO DISCUSS PAVING.

Downtown Property Owners to Debate Plans for Asphalting Streets in Business Section of City.

The board of local improvements is preparing to call a public hearing of downtown property owners so that a full discussion may be had on the proposed plan of asphalting the downtown streets. The board has received letters from owners of more than 26,000 feet of frontage assenting to the plan, while owners of 5,555 feet are opposed to it.

Members of the Building Managers' association have forwarded a long letter urging abandonment of the plans. The communication, which was drafted by A. S. Trude, A. T. Aldis, and N. W. MacChesney, holds that there should be no improvement made until the traction question has been "measurably settled," so grooved rails may be a precedent requirement, and the problem of a system of underground subways at least partially solved.

The plan of delay suggests that experts should investigate the kind of paving needed on each street before any decision is reached.

TYPHOID GERMS KILLED
Brandt's
California Lemon Juice

Report of Dr. W. K. Jacques
In Charge of Chicago Health Department Laboratory

Our Laboratory experiments have clearly verified the assertion of the eminent London physician (Dr. Ferguson) that lemon juice will destroy the germs of typhoid. A small quantity of lemon juice was added to bouillon, in which typhoid germs had been cultivated, and investigation showed that the germs were all killed.

5 —Chicago Tribune, Dec. 29, 1902.

Is pure juice of lemons clarified, and slightly condensed; it is about twice as strong as natural lemon juice, therefore a few drops will instantly kill the typhoid germs in a glass of water. It is so completely and quickly assimilated by the system that it is grateful to the most sensitive stomach.

MANDEL BROTHERS DAILY STORE NEWS

ART NOUVEAU BRONZES.

The Finest Showing of Bronze Electroliers and Library Lamps in America.

The new section devoted entirely to bronzes is one of the most interesting of the art rooms at Mandel Brothers. Especially attractive are the electric library table lamps in the new art, with handsome, richly colored shades, fringed in beads, and the portable bronze figures for newel posts with electrical attachments. One tall figure for this purpose holds a torch, the electric light shaded by a crystal globe shaped to represent the flame of the torch. A suspension light represents a flying figure holding in each hand a light, shaded by swinging prisms. Scattered about on tables are any number of small desk lamps in the Art Nouveau and Verde antique bronze, the incandescent lights shining through brilliant red and bright green globes festooned with bright colored beads.

Vienna Bronzes.

The new Indian groups and single figures of Vienna bronze are extremely artistic and graceful in outline, and from Vienna also are the tiny cabinet curios so finely wrought and so minute that the curio gazer feels the need of a microscope to aid the eye in beholding the careful detail of the workman. A number of handsome pedestals of Mexican onyx and white and green Italian marble support the more impressive large figures. The new ash and pen trays in different shades of bronze show some highly original designs.

A MARINE MASTERPIECE.

Charles Hallberg's Latest Picture, a Sea View Off the Isle of Wight, on Exhibition at Mandel Brother's Galleries.

Mandel Brothers' art rooms are the scene of attraction just now owing to the exhibition of a new oil painting from the brush of Charles E. Hallberg, the Austin painter, whose remarkable talent as a painter of marine scenes has at various times attracted widespread attention. Mr. Hallberg, who is employed at the Austin bank, is a Scandinavian by birth, and before coming to America weathered many a gale as a sailor. His latest sea picture, now hanging in the art department at Mandel's, shows the Isle of Wight rising out of the water in the distance, while to the left, in the trough of a big wave, is a small fishing smack with sails unfurled. A number of sea gulls float low over the blue-green expanse of water and in the distance are the dim outlines of a steamer and a barge. The canvas is three by five feet in dimensions and is set in a wide, handsome frame of heavy gold.

About the Artist.

Mr. Hallberg, who has never taken a painting lesson, has had one of his works hung in the Art institute of this city, and some time ago the Kilo club purchased for its rooms one of the marine scenes of this artist-painter. "The Isle of Wight" is one of his best efforts at reproducing the sea on canvas, and artists, both amateur and professional, as well as many of the Kilo and other club members, are calling to survey and study this bit of "old ocean" and the Ills Britten Island sketched entirely from memory by the gifted painter. Come in and see the master painting now on exhibition in the art gallery on the fourth floor.

Picture framing.

Most people have pictures put away that they intend to have framed some time. Our special reduction offer ought to furnish the incentive to have this done at once.

We will frame your pictures now at a reduction equal to 25% from our regular prices.

Complete lines of frames to choose from—bring in your pictures and let us frame them.

Annual June sale of sterling silverware at great savings.

THE variety of artistic designs in solid silverware, 925-1,000 fine, offered during this sale calls forth admiring comment from every visitor. This is an opportune occasion for the purchase of wedding gifts, particularly chests of silver. The prices are in many instances less than the present cost owing to the recent advance in bullion.

Reductions of 20% to 33⅓% on some of our finest oriental rugs.

Wedding stationery.

Our unequaled facilities for supplying the very latest and most approved ideas in wedding stationery will appeal to June brides.

In our engraving room specimen books, containing the most select modes, are open for inspection.

Orders for engraved wedding invitations, announcements, cards and menus are executed with faultless correctness at very low rates.

Exceptional values in fine shirt waists

OUR showing of these ever popular garments this season demonstrates more forcefully than ever before that Mandel's is shirt waist headquarters.

Many new creations to be found only here will be shown today for the first time, and the values are of an exceptional character.

Here are two pretty styles—white shirt waists of fine white dimity, with satin stripes, front trimmed with dainty plaits and pearl buttons; another dainty white waist in a splendid assortment of handsome designs, trimmed with choice insertings of lace and embroidery and tucks; very special at 1.95 and 1.59. 1.59

Basement: Clearing of fine madras shirt waists at great reductions — several pretty styles, 1.25 values, choice tomorrow for 69c.

Basement: White cotton shirt waists, splendid values, front trimmed with hemstitched plaits, remarkable values, at, each, 50c.

The new checked dress silks.

HERE is an opportunity to purchase those very fashionable dress silks that are so much in demand for shirt waist suits and summer dresses, at just about half the regular prices.

To keep our silk stock up to standard from year to year, we make it an inalterable rule never to carry one season's goods over until the next.

50c for new $1 checked dress silks—the kind that are so stylish for shirt waist suits—all sizes of checks, in navy, brown, tan, black, green, etc., with white.

50c for $1 and 1.25 shirt waist silks.
39c for 19-inch Shantung pongee silks.
50c for 24-inch Shantung pongee silks.
50c for finest satin liberty foulards.

Basement: A very special lot of silk wash cords, some twenty style stripes, at less than half the usual price—15c.

Great sale of white petticoats.

TODAY we have made petticoats the leading feature of the undermuslin sale, offering a number of splendid lines arranged on separate tables at special prices.

The fabrics from which these garments are made are all thoroughly tested, and they are all cut and sewed by skilled operatives in light, clean factories.

$1 for petticoats with deep full tucked lawn umbrella flounces — others with deep knee flounces with rows of choice lace insertings and edges.

1.39 for white petticoats with various pretty flounces that are full and flaring, trimmed with tucks, hemstitching, choice lace or embroidery inserting and edges.

2.25 for fine white petticoats with deep circular flounces composed entirely of bands of lawn and fine point de Paris lace, torchon lace insertings and edges.

2.95 for about 28 exquisite styles with deep knee flounces that are made full and flaring, with rows of Cluny, torchon, point de Paris or Valenciennes lace, inserting and wide edges to match.

95c for fine nainsook bishop gowns, square or round necks, elaborately trimmed.

Basement: White petticoats with tucked umbrella flounces, 75c.

Basement: White petticoats, full flounce, emb'd'y ruffle—59c.

Basement: Night dresses with lace or emb. trimmed yokes, at 75c.

$25 silk lined suits for $15.

"Clear up all odd lines" is the order in our coat and suit section this week. Wherever there's a size missing in a certain suit, all the other sizes go on sale at great reductions.

Nothing the matter with the styles—a week ago women were eager to buy them at regular prices, but we can't keep just one size of this and two of that on hand until they're all sold out.

Here's a lot of handsomely tailored suits that were $25, now $15 buys one. Many of them are the new thin voiles and etamines so practical for summer wear, others are of cheviot and broadcloth. Then there are a number of walking suits in fancy mixtures. You'll get plenty of chance to wear them this summer, and the styles won't be passe in the fall. Great bargains at $15.

Shirt waist suits of blue and white and black and white polka dot foulards, fancy blouse and flounce skirt, plain blue and black piped—special 9.75.

Covert jackets, strapped, corset shaped, collarless, lined with taffeta—$35 values—great bargains for $15.

Brilliantine walking skirts, black or blue, tailor stitched and kilt plait bottom—extra special values—$5.

Basement: Women's tailor-made suits, worth up to $25, choice materials—very special for this sale at $10.

Reduction sale of summer underwear.

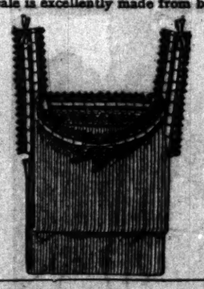

RIGHT at the beginning of the season we're offering some remarkable bargains in fine summer underwear—odd lines from our own showing and a manufacturer's surplus stock bought at a discount of 35%.

This great clearing sale has the greatest kind of bargain interest for people who are just about to change their winter woolens. Every garment in this sale is excellently made from best materials and designed to fit perfectly.

Women's strapless vests, Richelieu ribbed lisle—to wear with fancy waists—at, per garment, 25c.

Women's shield shape vests—we bought all the maker had and will sell them at just about half price—made with small shield under the arm—excellent garments for 75c and 35c.

Women's lisle vests, low neck and sleeveless—daintily trimmed across bust and around armholes with imported lace—special 45c.

"Dip front" vests, like cut, made large and full—perfect fitting across bust, trimmed with fine silk lace—in white, pink and sky—a style exclusively Mandel's, 50c.

Women's Swiss made lisle thread vests with handsome crochet effects over bust and shoulders—best assortment shown in Chicago at the price—special, 1.25.

Women's mercerized silk union suits, low neck and sleeveless, wide lace trimmed umbrella bottoms—suit, 75c.

$5 buys a smart trimmed hat.

BECAUSE we must have more space to show our Derby Day millinery we have taken a large number of handsome hats, trimmed in our own workrooms just a few weeks ago, and have reduced them from $12 and $15 to $5.

They are all exceptionally stylish models, with the picturesque beauty that's characteristic of this season's dominant fashions. Such an opportunity hasn't occurred before this season and probably won't again.

Don't judge these hats by the ordinary $5 ready-to-wear hats, but remember that they were made to sell for double and treble the price, and have the real tone of smart style that all fashion followers want.

Basement: Exceptional bargains in untrimmed hats—stylish shapes, formerly priced at 1.25 to 2.50, special now at 50c.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Weather today: Fair. Store closes at 5:30.

Our bargain basement is virtually a separate store devoted to the sale of the less expensive lines of merchandise. It is in no sense a dumping ground for unseasonable or undesirable merchandise from our main sections. Of course many odd lines, broken stocks, etc., from the upper floors find their way to the basement for clearance, but they are always thoroughly meritorious and exceptional values. Vast quantities of brand new merchandise, however, are ordered specially for the economy salesroom. In these we insist upon high standards of quality. We will not knowingly sell trashy merchandise; are as anxious to build up a permanent patronage for our basement as for our main sections.

True economy depends both on quality and price.

Forty-eight years of successful merchandising prove the wisdom of Mandel methods.

Our facilities for filling mail orders at short notice are unexcelled. If there is anything you want, try our city mail order service. All orders are filled and delivered on the day they are received.

Men's business suits at $15.

MEN who have put off the buying of a new summer suit will welcome this announcement.

Unusual saving opportunities are afforded purchasers, while at the same time the fabric, fit and workmanship are equal to the best custom tailor work.

For today we offer as a special inducement men's $15 suits of fine cheviots, worsteds, and neat silk mixed cassimeres, all tailored in the height of fashion, such as have been selling at $20 and $25, reduced to $15.

Men's straw hats.

A showing that embraces all the new shapes in sennit, split and Milan straws, as well as the best showing of panamas in the city.

Men's hats in a splendid assortment of choice shapes in sennit, split and Milan straws at $4 and down to $1.

Genuine panamas—the best values in the city, here at $10.

The "Arnold" knit gauze umbrella drawers. "A synonym for summer comfort."

THE coolest summer garment for women that can be imagined. Made of fine knit material so light and gauzy you can blow through it, yet so fine and strong it will outwear muslin or any other material.

Those Arnold Goods

Dainty ruffles of lawn trimmed with lace or fine embroidery hold the drawers away from the body, and add as pretty a finish as you could desire.

Wear the "Arnold" knit gauze drawers once, and you'll wonder and wonder how you could ever tolerate any other kind. Cut ample size to fit the form without depending upon the strength of the cloth. Price range from 50c to 80c.

We run our shop 54 hours per week, and our men have always been satisfied with their pay, surroundings, and treatment.
A number of our men quit work a short time ago under the following circumstances: We were among the first to adopt the 54 hour week in Chicago, and at the time the shorter hours were put into effect we submitted the arrangement of hours to a vote of our employes. Almost unanimously they voted for a division of the 54 hour week which provided for a Saturday half holiday. A vote was taken a second time last fall with the same result. Upon a recent demand by the Machinists' union that we run the shop nine hours each day, we offered to take a vote again and abide the preference of the majority of our men. This vote was taken and resulted in a majority favoring the Saturday half holiday. A number of our employes then quit work, although expressing themselves as entirely satisfied with their jobs. Our shop is an open shop, not discriminating for or against union or nonunion men. Apply to

MEDICAL AND HOSPITALS.

CHICAGO'S EMINENT PHYSICIAN—
DR. W. F. BRINEY,
TREATS WOMEN ONLY.
Office, 130 Dearborn-st., Room 408, Phone Central 815. Hours 9-5. Sunday 10-11.
A WOMAN WHO REQUIRES THE ADVICE OF A PHYSICIAN owes it to herself to seek the aid of one who is an EXPERT in the treatment of the complaints peculiar to her sex.
Every woman can come to Dr. Briney in absolute confidence; her secrets will be respected and she will find in him A FRIEND and ADVISER who will give her the benefit of his marvelous skill in restoring her to health, happiness, and freedom from care and worry.
Under his reliable and skillful treatment the most obstinate cases yield at once. Patients may return home the same day or remain under his personal care at his elegant suburban sanitarium. He is the only specialist in Chicago who has and employs perfectly safe, sure, and painless methods.
Fees within the reach of all. Same accommodations to rich and poor.

Curious Water Dispute.

There is a grimly humorous side to the flood situation in Kansas. The people of that state have been complaining that, owing to irrigation in Colorado the flow of the Arkansas river has been interfered with and that while the people of the latter state have had all the water they need and more than they need, Kansas has had less than it is entitled to. So strong has been the feeling in Kansas, indeed, that the attorney general of the state was en route to Washington when the first news of the flood came to make formal complaint against Colorado. The Colorado engineers, on the other hand, stoutly have maintained that but little of the water originating in Colorado could reach Kansas, and that Kansas must look to its own watershed for supply. The situation seems to bear out the contention of the Colorado engineers, for while Colorado has had but little rain Kansas has had more than it needs and so much that it has resulted in a most costly flood. It is likely the people living in the valley of the Kansas river would be glad to let Colorado have all the water in their vicinity if that were possible.

Summer Reading.

With the casting off of "winter weight" clothing and the assumption of more airy fabrics comes a corresponding rejection of heavy intellectual attire for the mind and the demand for "something light" in the way of reading matter. It would seem an outrage against the eternal fitness of things to come upon a summer girl seated in a summer chair reading the "Origin of Species," or "Dynamic Sociology," while to discover her perusing one of a series of "hammock books" would be but to realize one's expectations. The demand for a particular style of literature during the warm months is met by publishers with lists of books "particularly designed for summer reading," and the inference is that the authors of these volumes had the thermometer constantly in mind during their composition, and that they rigidly confined themselves to thoughts calculated not to raise the reader's temperature "above normal." But a glimpse at the lists of these summer books reveals the fact that they are not confined to novels, and that nature books and art studies are considered suitable for summer perusal. This would seem to prove either that love stories are not cooling to the mind or that modern minds have grown stronger and can grapple with scientific and artistic problems even while the body is suffering from the enervation caused by hot weather.

A King's Miniature.

During the embrace of Henry Watterson and Mortimer Pheus one evening last week an item crept into the Louisville Courier-Journal to the effect that King Charles V. of Spain presented his miniature to William S. Short of Philadelphia, our minister to that country during the Napoleonic era. The New York Times copied the item thereby misleading large sections of the eastern metropolis. It was Charles IV. who was the Spanish king then, not Charles V. And Charles IV. was one of the weakest and most useless specimens of humanity ever called upon by the monarchical system to reign over a hapless people. His wife and her favorite, Godoy, whose chief and only qualification for the position of prime minister, which her influence obtained for him, was his personal pulchritude, sacked the country under the guise of law and bartered its dignities in a manner as reckless as any that history notes. The weakling king lived with the two in amity and complaisance, and when the soldiers of Napoleon deposed the three from their positions the king's first plaintive wail consisted of falsetto notes for his Godoy. The miniature of Charles IV. which is in the possession of descendants of Minister Short is interesting as a picture of the degradation to which a human being can fall.

A PERIPATETIC STATUE.

All Chicago and much of the surrounding country are aware of the fate of the bronze effigy of Christopher Columbus which stood so long upon our lake front gazing over to State street in a vacuous manner, and which for a still longer time lay prone behind the south park barns and gazed upon the sky, unshielded from summer heat and winter storm. But the statue of Columbus is not the only one which has had strange experiences. "There are others."

It may be remembered that Boston a short time ago collected some of its statuary monstrosities and generously presented them to its suburban towns as object lessons. But Cleveland's most memorable statue, that of Commodore Perry, may claim the palm as the great American traveling statue. It was dedicated forty-three years ago with a memorable pageant, and numerous patriotic addresses were made in which Perry's great battle was described and his service to Cleveland and the lake region was extolled. As is customary on such occasions, it was announced that the statue was to stand there forever, and that for all time to come the marble commodore would point exultantly to the great lake which was the scene of his famous victory. For a few years the commodore, standing in the center of the public square, faithfully pointed that way, as he was artistically bound to do, greatly to the edification of patriotic Clevelanders. Then the public which rides on street cars and drives carriages, and cabs, and trucks found him in the way, and he was moved to one side of the square where he pointed to a fish market. Soon he was found in the way again and was moved this time to a dilapidated shed, where he pointed to nothing more important than some old tools and harnesses. A few years ago he was moved again, this time to a park, where he cannot see the lake at all and where he placidly points his marble finger at the monkey house!

Perry's statue teaches many lessons cities should heed. It exemplifies civic forgetfulness and ingratitude. It is a warning against the habit some cities have of commemorating the services of heroes with statues instead of more lasting and fitting memorials. If cities will have statues it is a warning not to have statues which point, statues which stare, or statues on horses which rear.

LAY BARE THE ELECTION FRAUDS.

The art of fraudulent voting as practiced in the Eighteenth ward is a subject which calls for searching inquiry and vigorous prosecution on the part of the election commissioners, the grand jury, and the state's attorney. Evidence that frauds were committed on Monday last has been secured. From the deliberate, systematic way in which they were carried out it is plain that they were no first offenses, and were not the work of novices. Unquestionably similar frauds have been perpetrated on a large scale for many years. The methods of violating the election laws in the ward have been worked out through long practice. The buying of votes and the casting of fraudulent votes have been reduced to a system. It is incumbent upon the proper officials to utilize the opportunity afforded them and clear out the system root and branch. Monday's cheating did not affect the result of the election, but unless the organizers of fraud are exposed and punished frauds of the same kind will be committed on a greater scale a year and a half hence and may affect the result in some cases.

There are thousands of men in the Eighteenth and one or two other wards who will not vote unless they are paid to do so. With them a vote is a commodity which they are ready to sell to the highest bidder and which has no value if no purchaser offer himself. At a judicial election they will consent to take a bargain counter price of 50 cents for their free and enlightened suffrages. At a presidential election they probably reason that the goods they have to offer are worth more money, and stand out for a dollar and get it.

Of course the sellers of votes, when caught, should be punished, but they are not so guilty as the men who buy their votes. The chief criminals are the men who organize bureaus of fraud, who send their agents out to gather in the outcast voters and teach them what to do at the polls, and who induce election officials to wink at frauds or to take an active part in them. They are the "head centers," who must be unearthed and punished to secure results of real and lasting value. It may well be that if the investigators do not stop on the threshold of the inquiry men of prominence—from the Eighteenth ward point of view—will be brought to the bar. Justice cannot stay her hand lest the feelings of such men be wounded, for they are the chief transgressors.

The conviction of men who have made the science of election frauds a serious study will have a salutary effect. It will have a healthful influence in the First ward as well as in the Eighteenth. The conviction of a few election officers will keep such officers in other wards who are inclined to be dishonest on their good behavior. If one organizer in chief of election frauds be sent to Joliet other organizers will consider the business extra hazardous and quit it.

This is the election commissioners' opportunity. Now is the time to dig deep and to lay bare the elaborate system of cheating at elections which has been slowly built up in the Eighteenth ward, where there is so much "raw material" for "fine workers" in the form of men who look on election day merely as the day when they can earn half a dollar or a dollar by marching to the polls.

COLLEGE STRIKE BREAKERS.

From various centers of learning comes the news that college boys are spending some of their idle hours this spring in strike breaking. Chicago university students set the fashion by shipping as firemen on lake steamers; Yale students are acting as draymen and hackmen, one of the Yale cabbies being lately arrested for extortion and assault; Pennsylvania athletes have turned carpenters and finished a grand stand left incompleted by a walkout.

The boys do not try strike breaking because they have a dislike to trades unionism and sympathize with capital, or because they need the money, but primarily because they are looking for trouble. They like the excitement, the risk, and the chance of a possible fight. It is a daring and consequently exhilarating thing for them to take the places the ordinary nonunionists are afraid to fill.

College boys are far "off their beat" when they start strike breaking. Without investigating both sides of the dispute, they plunge into it out of a spirit of mischief. In so doing they increase the bitterness of the struggle without settling it, since they cannot and will not themselves stick to their new jobs. Their strike breaking fun brings their colleges and all colleges more or less into disrepute with large, influential, and conservative sections of the community and fans the flames of a class hatred which should have no place in this republic. President Harper is right in declaring against college strike breakers. In their own parlance, they are "too fresh."

IMPROVE THE DEPARTMENT.

Remember that the civil service commission is not investigating Hull house. It is investigating the health department.

Remember also that the health department is being vigorously and belligerently defended by its attorney. There is no corresponding vigorousness and belligerency on the part of the assistant corporation counsel who is handling the Hull house charges. As that counsel himself says, he is simply the means by which the charges are brought before the commission.

It therefore follows that the civil service commission is hearing a case in which there is a defense but no prosecution. Assistant Corporation Counsel Fyffe's conduct throughout has been that of a perfectly colorless medium of communication. This is no doubt the function which he ought to discharge. All that the public can complain about is that the two sides of the case are not evenly balanced. If one attorney is colorless the other ought to be so, too. The slightest acquaintance with court practice will show the justice of this assertion. A case which is defended but not prosecuted is in a bad way. The full truth will not be brought out.

It is some satisfaction, however, to notice that it has not been possible so far to disprove the charges, however limply urged by the assistant corporation counsel, that the health department has been allowing complaints to pass uninvestigated and unremedied. This is the disease from which our city administration in general has been suffering. Sanitary conditions contrary to law have been allowed to continue contrary to law.

The civil service commission will therefore undoubtedly find that the Hull house charges were justified by the facts. The facts are patent, palpable, notorious. But it would be simply a kind of joke, a poor kind, to go through a civil service commission investigation in order to exonerate Hull house for having preferred true charges against a negligent and dilatory department.

The civil service commission is not investigating Hull house. It is investigating the health department. Its verdict will be concerned, not with Hull house motives and methods but with municipal administrative practice. Hull house is an incident. The health department is the main plot. How can the health department be improved? That is what the public wishes to know.

LIVE UP TO THE AWARD.

Some of the anthracite coal operators do not appear to be inclined to comply cheerfully and promptly with the award of the strike commission. They seem to court strife instead of seeking to avert it. The commission, in its report made March 18 last, "adjudges and awards" that a permanent board of conciliation be appointed to which shall be referred disagreements as to the interpretation or application of the award, or in any way growing out of the relations of employers and employed. Three of the members of the board are to be appointed by the operators, and the miners' organization in each of the three districts into which the anthracite region is divided is to appoint a member.

The board of conciliation, whose services are greatly needed, has not been organized yet. The fault is not with the miners. The three district boards have appointed the district presidents as the representatives of the miners. The operators refuse to accept the three delegates as members of the board of conciliation. They make no personal objections to the delegates, but they quibble about the manner of their appointment, although they appear to have been chosen in strict compliance with the terms of the award.

The district officers are in doubt whether to ask President Mitchell to issue an order for a general suspension of work, or to call a delegate convention to consider the advisability of such action. Hasty action in any direction is what the miners chiefly should guard against. It behooves them to refrain from doing anything which the operators may call a violation of the award. Probably they would be quite pleased to see the miners do something which would give them an excuse for saying that they no longer considered themselves bound by the findings of the commission.

The operators have put themselves in the wrong, but the miners should not imitate them. It is vexatious and irritating not to have the board of conciliation, so that disagreements may be adjusted, but it is better to put up with the annoyance than to do anything which may make nugatory the labors of the strike commission and put matters back where they were a year ago. Surely the operators will recede from a false position if the miners are patient.

IT is plainly evident now that all the rain didn't fall last year.

TO PROVIDE for future contingencies the railways must take higher ground.

THE water at all the stations was reported boilably yesterday.

THERE is no danger that the small milk dealer who furnishes a pure article will be wiped out.

THE demonstration appears to be conclusive that Ferris wheels go out of fashion after a few years.

IF Mr. Cleveland is fishing for a presidential nomination he is doing it, you will please to observe, in a gentlemanly and sportsmanlike manner.

IT has been at least several days since there has been any loud talk of a Yates vice presidential boom.

ALL is not gloom in western Kansas. The boys are finding a ready sale, at 25 cents apiece, for the young prairie dogs that have been driven out of their holes by the floods.

STILL, enough of the voters turned out to assist materially in the work of keeping the city clean.

IF Chicago's 300 pound policemen could have a few weeks of following the president around they would lose all that superfluous flesh.

AND, besides, the Ferris wheel had served its turn.

THE time to help the flood sufferers is now.

ST. LOUIS has begun to view with alarm.

BUT the Eads bridge still stands.

IN A MINOR KEY.

The Mighty Fallen.

"Who is that bored looking old fellow in the opera box with the richly dressed woman?"

"That's a duffer of the name of Spykus. Got immensely rich in mining stocks or something of that sort, I believe."

"Spykus? I haven't heard that name for a dozen years or more. I used to know a famous baseball player named Hi Spykus, but he disappeared all at once and I've never heard of him since."

"Yes; this is the same man."

Meant Well.

Observing a prim, angular matron in the elevator, Col. Hankthunder removed his hat.

On reaching the tenth floor the elevator conductor, a dignified personage with side whiskers, leaned over and whispered to the colonel:

"Lady says will you please put your 'at on again, sir? Your bald 'ead dazzles her eyes, sir."

"London Tit-Bits will please change to "lift."

Power of Habit.

"What's that you are sending away, Will?" asked his wife.

"That," replied Mr. E. Will Borus, the struggling author, as he sealed the envelope, "is a letter of regret in reply to an invitation to attend a reception at the Hossfords' next week."

"But what did you inclose all those stamps for?"

"To be sure—I forgot!" he said, opening the letter again, in some confusion.

Ground for Suspicion.

"Old Swaddleford always pretends to be as deaf as a post, but I believe he can hear as well as anybody."

"What makes you think so?"

"Nobody ever saw him walking along a railroad track in advance of a train."

Locating the Trouble.

"Perhaps," remarked the caller, observing that the rain seemed to be falling in a sheet down the side of the house, "the pipes are clogged with leaves."

"I don't think it is that," said Mrs. Lapsling. "The gutturals are old and need repairing."

LETTER OF MARQUISE DE FONTENOY.

Copyright: 1903: By the Marquise de Fontenoy.

As a general rule, when Emperor William gets tired of one of his cabinet ministers he sends to him his principal private secretary, Privy Councilor Baron von Lucanus, who intimates to the statesman in question in the most diplomatic manner possible that the minister has ceased to enjoy the entire confidence of his sovereign, and that it would be well to tender his resignation. So well has this become known to the people of Berlin that whenever they see baron von Lucanus on his way to call on some minister they at once assume that the latter's days as a member of the cabinet are numbered.

Lucanus goes by the name of the kaiser's "blackie man," partly on account of the omen of his visits, and partly, too, because, being the only civilian among the high dignitaries of the immediate entourage of the emperor, his black frock coat and high hat are particularly noticeable among the brilliant uniforms of the other members of the imperial suite.

For once in the way, however, the emperor did not avail himself of the services of Lucanus when he demanded the resignation of Gen. von Goessler, the minister of war, the other day. In fact, he subjected the unfortunate general to a disagreeable experience. He summoned him to his presence, overwhelmed him with reproaches, and then commanding him to take at once a furlough of three months, intimated to him that at the end of that time he would no longer require his services as minister. It is said in court circles at Berlin that after the general left the palace the kaiser expressed the wish bfore a number of people never to set eyes upon him again.

While every allowance must be made for the general, whose office is rendered exceedingly difficult to administer, owing to the fact that most of its prerogatives have been assumed by the chief of the emperor's military "chancellerie," it must be admitted that the general, who is a weak vessel and something of a mediocrity, had not been a success either in parliament or at the war department.

The name of the present czar will be associated henceforth with a reform which is of an enlightened and liberal character. Until now sentences of penal servitude, no matter whether for common law crimes or political offenses, ipso facto dissolved matrimonial ties, and as divorces are exceedingly difficult to obtain in Russia, being only granted in altogether exceptional cases by the holy synod, those wearied of marriage ties have been subjected to the temptation of conspiring to secure the conviction of their spouse, often by means of false testimony, for no other purpose than to obtain the annulment of a union that had become distasteful.

In Russia a mere accusation, even if it be anonymous, goes a long way towards securing the conviction of a person, especially if the political offense that is charged. And it is well known that there are quite a large number of women, and not a few men, who in times past have by means of denunciations of this kind and by false testimony secured the condemnation of those united to them by marriage to terms of penal servitude, thus securing matrimonial freedom at the expense of a terrible fate suffered by the victim of the plot.

From now on all temptation to secure dissolution of marriages by this means will be at an end, and the case of convicts will henceforth be not so entirely hopeless as heretofore, since they no longer feel that their conviction has entailed the loss of their wife and the dissolution of all family ties.

What with the state visits of King Victor Emmanuel to Paris and London during the next few weeks, the state visit of President Loubet to England, and the equally ceremonious visit of the king of Denmark to Paris—the first visit of the kind that he has ever paid to the French capital—both Paris and the British metropolis will be gay during the next two months.

When King Edward was in Scotland the other day and crossed the old Cramond bridge that spans the Almond river on the road running from Edinburg to Queensferry, the royal carriage halted for a moment and an elderly man handed him water in a silver basin, which he filled from a ewer, and into which the king dipped his fingers, thereupon engaging in a brief conversation with the bearer of the basin and shaking hands with him most graciously before the royal equipage proceeded on its way.

This little ceremony constituted the fulfillment of the obligation connected with one of those picturesque and interesting old tenures by which land is occasionally held from the crown in the old world. In this particular case the tenure dates from the reign of King James V. of Scotland, who, like Haroun El Raschid, the famous caliph of Bagdad, was wont to roam in disguise among his people for the purpose of learning their views.

One day, disguised as a poor man, he was tramping from Stirling to Edinburg, when he was set upon by a band of gypsies at Cramond bridge, and was in a fair way of being killed, when a peasant named Jock Howison, who was working in a field close by, seeing one man battling against several, rushed to his rescue and routed the gypsies.

The king's face was covered with blood, and, being fastidious about his person, he got Jock to get him a hat full of water in order to wash the blood and dirt away. While thus engaged James led on Jock to tell him his greatest wish, which proved to be that he might become the owner of Braehead, the farm on which he was toiling as a serf. Inasmuch as Braehead was crown land, James experienced no difficulty in paying a debt of gratitude to the man who saved his life. It was thus that the Howison family became proprietors of Breahead as tenants of the crown on the condition that each time the sovereign passed over Cramond bridge the descendants of Jock Howison were to wait upon him with a basin of water. This species of tenure being known as "blanch tenure," that is, holding a piece of land to which some honorary act of vassalage is attached.

When King George IV. visited Edinburg in state in the third decade of the last century, the owner of Braehead was bidden to Holyrood palace so that the royal house of Hanover might ratify the ancient Stuart tenure, and, Queen Victoria likewise received a similar act of homage on the occasion of one of her private visits to the Scotch capital. Until railroads did away with the old stage coaches the one that ran on the Cramond road used to be called "Jock Howison," in memory of King James V.'s rescuer. But since then his name has been to a great extent forgotten, and it was only King Edward's visit the other day to Edinburg that served once more to recall it.

That King Leopold is seriously alarmed at the attitude of the foreign powers in connection with his maladministration of the Congo Free State, and by the expressions of public horror that have been called forth from all parts of the civilized world by the stories of frightful cruelties perpetrated by white officials in his royal and private employ upon the unfortunate natives of the Congo valley, is shown by the fact that by his direction wholesale dismissals have been taking place within the last few weeks, and that the Belgian envoy of Berne is having advertisements inserted in the Swiss papers for officials to fill the large number of posts thus vacated in Leopold's African dominions. Large salaries are offered, liberal expenses promised, and a glowing account of the advantages and quick advancement in King Leopold's service is given in these advertisements, which direct applicants to communicate to the Belgian legation at Berne.

PERSONAL.

Florence Nightingale entered upon her eighty-third year some days ago. She lives in seclusion.

King Alfonso of Spain is getting along in years, having completed his seventeenth year a short time ago.

The venerable and popular King Christian of Denmark will pay Paris a visit as soon as he has taken a cure at Wiesbaden.

Dr. Charles W. Needham, the new president of Columbian university, Washington, was born at Castile, N. Y., in 1848, and is not a college graduate.

Contributions of $1,000 by Alice Longfellow, daughter of the poet, and $500 by Mrs. Bayard Taylor raise the Emerson fund to $150,205 and assure the erection of the Emerson hall of philosophy at Harvard.

A LINE-O'-TYPE OR TWO.

THE question is not how to can Lorimer, but how to make the can stay on after it is attached. The gentleman has been canned so often that he has come to like cans. His fad is collecting cans, just as other people collect candlesticks or first editions. And he is widely known as the canniest politician in this part of the country. It is possible that "Billy," being a scapegoat, eats his cans; at all events he gets away with them as fast as they are tied on. If some one will devise an attachment that won't come off we will undertake to have Patience Tinker construct a Can Beautiful in beautiful repousse work.

MR. CLEVELAND regrets that he and the A. Booth Packing company both come under the head of "fishermen." Yet there seems no better word. Old Izaak's phrase, "a brother of the angle," never obtained real popularity.

WHY WE ALL SYMPATHIZE WITH UNIONISM.

"The driver of the wagon was Richard Richardson, and he is employed by a laundry at Ashland avenue and Addison street. The strikers gave him a severe beating and escaped before the police arrived."—Afternoon paper.

CALLERS at the executive mansion yesterday smoked 25 cent cigars at the governor's expense. This would never happen to Mayor Harrison.

ALL ABOUT THOMAS JONES.

[From the Dunlap (Ia.) Reporter.]

It is rumored that Hon. Thomas Jones and family are coming to Dunlap to reside.

Thomas J. Jones is putting in a line of fine pianos that will meet with the approval of the people both in price and quality.

Mrs. Thomas Jones has a fine contralto voice and among the music element at her former Nebraska home has a high reputation as a pleasant singer.

Jones, the piano man, lately put in a new piano for M. S. Wingate.

The family of Hon. Thomas Jones numbers five members—Mr. and Mrs. Jones, two daughters, and a son.

The Hon. Thomas Jones is an expert whist player. He prefers the Kalamazoo duplicate system.

The Reporter has made arrangements for an interview with Hon. Thomas Jones, and will print in its next issue interesting details concerning the Jones family and their new house.

ON account of the floods in the west ice prices may advance. A poor excuse is better than none.

WHY DO HUSBANDS GO OUT NIGHTS?

"Is your wife entertaining this year?"
"Not very."—Old joke.

To the Editor: Before I was married I went out nights to get society. Now I go out to avoid it. H. B.

To the Editor: As I am a man of affairs my usual reason for going out nights is to meet a financier at a hotel and close up a big deal. MORGAN JR.

To the Editor: I am afflicted with headaches, which generally attack me after dinner, and I find a walk in the night air is the best cure. E. D. F.

To the Editor: My boss is extremely fond of me, and for policy's sake I frequently accept an invitation to dine with him. This takes me out evenings and keeps me out until a late hour. THODARE.

To the Editor: Will you permit an experienced wife to say that one reason why husbands go out nights is to smoke. A husband should be encouraged to smoke at home, or some day the wife will yearn for a whiff of cut plug. MRS. WISE.

To the Editor: Please send me ten copies of Tuesday's TRIBUNE. I am cutting out your symposium and sending it to wives I have met, with the following request: "Please keep your husbands at home nights. I haven't had any sleep for a month." D. H.

ON account of the floods rents in Chicago will be advanced Sept. 1, while an increase in the price of gas stoves and heavy hardware is expected by the most conservative dealers.

A VAIN RUBBER.

Quite a good many strangers are in town this week, but we have not found out their business.—Owatonna (Minn.) Press.

ANOTHER thing about Pittsburg: There never has been any difficulty in maintaining a good orchestra there. They cry, "Save the orchestra!" is there unknown.

DOGDAZE'S WEATHER REPORT.

Summer is a-joggin'
Down the road at las',
Warnin' Mr. Winter
To keep off the grass.

July, round the corner,
Fingers to his nose,
Pictures us a-wallin'
Soon for winter snows.

MR. MORTON G. SMITH wants $35,000 because Ald. Fowler struck him. That's a good deal to strike a man for. It requires nerve.

SEND a marked copy of yesterday's string of marriage licenses to Mr. Roosevelt. It will please him.

OUR friends, the South American republics, have decided that it wouldn't be a bad idea to have a Monroe doctrine of their own. It's hard work trying to understand the one we provide for them.

ON account of the western floods potatoes will also be advanced in price, and it will be impossible to obtain Jerusalem artichokes at anything like a reasonable figure.

MONEY MAKES THE PRESS GO.

Alfred Camron, west of town, made his regular Saturday visit to the Springs, and called at our office just in time to furnish a little elbow grease on our press.—Excelsior Springs (Mo.) Standard.

THE latest Swedish movement in taxation matters would be rather severe on citizens of Mr. Cleveland's displacement.

IF the Swedish idea is adopted in Chicago aldermen will have to pay for bay window privileges. This will be reversing the usual order of things.

MR. KNOX decides that a postoffice employé can carry as many side lines as he wishes. We advise the Hon. Gus Nohe to get a job in the postoffice department.

THE political doctors are agreed that Mr. Lorimer is the vermiform appendix of the situation, and there are loud calls for the saw.

M. FLAMMARION doubts that the lately observed projection on Mars is a Ferris wheel; nor does he think it likely that the Martians are signaling for news about our judicial election.

WE don't mind saying that our opposition to Mr. Haney was what did the business for the gentleman. All other claims are spurious.

ATHLETIC college girls are getting smaller round the waist and broader across the shoulders, according to Ann Arbor statistics, and it is concluded that the gymnasium will drive the corset out of business. But we guess not.

DEAN HOLGATE of Northwestern reminds the graduates that they will not work under the rules of a Rubicon Crossers' union. No man ever amounted to anything in this world who dropped his hammer because a whistle blew, and no man ever will.

THE janitors' strike was called by Business Agent Feather. We fear Feather is out for the dust.

BUCKING THE TIGER.

The Marinette Euchre club will meet with Mrs. Gamble next Wednesday.—Marinette (Wis.) Star.

MR. TILKE, who became disorderly when a lady refused to let him insure her life, denies that he exceeded "the ethics of his profession." We fear Mr. Tilke is stronger on blotters than on ethics. We have been chased by many of his craft, but always the pursuit has been conducted in the most orderly manner, with occasional stops for a cigar or a twenty-year endowment inkstand.

CONSISTENCY, says Mr. Cleveland, requires those of us who are right minded fishermen "to reasonably limit" ourselves. But would a right minded fisherman split an infinitive in that coldblooded way?

IT is certainly news to learn from Dr. Helen Thompson that men are more emotional than women.

WHO cares about Midway experiments on dog hearts? Let's hear from the hearts of the fair sex.

MY! what a string of marriage licenses! Among those present was Birdie Trustin.

PICK out your June bride. They're going fast.

ALL we've known were flat-head janitors.

THURSDAY, JUNE 4, 1903.

DO YOU REMEMBER THAT—

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO TODAY:

The invention of steel pens by "Mr. Wise," an Englishman, was announced. Great Britain took possession of Guiana.

FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY:

One-nineteenth of the island of Cuba was reported under cultivation.

FORTY YEARS AGO TODAY:

President Lincoln revoked Gen. Burnside's order suspending publication of the Chicago Times, as the result of a petition signed by M. F. Tuley, Lyman Trumbull, William B. Ogden, Wirt Dexter, Judge Van H. Higgins, and others.

Gen. Pemberton, rebel commander at Vicksburg, Miss., appealed to Gen. Joseph E. Johnston for assistance, declaring that his provisions would last but thirty days longer.

The United States government contracted for a large supply of wooden arms at $50 each, which were to be supplied to wounded soldiers free of cost.

President Lincoln's policy was indorsed at a large union meeting in the Chicago courthouse square, of which John L. Hancock was president, J. Y. Scammon, J. M. Loomis, A. C. Hesing, and E. B. McCagg vice presidents, and E. A. Storrs and John H. Kinzie secretaries.

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY:

The celebration of the rebuilding of Chicago was begun with an inspection of the "magnificent rotundas" of the new Pacific hotel, at which Gov. Beveridge, Senator Oglesby, John F. Tracy, John N. Jewett, Postmaster McArthur, John M. Rountree, and other citizens were guests.

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY:

Li Hung Chang, premier of China, threatened war against France unless the latter recognized the Chinese claims to Annam.

P. T. Barnum, on being awakened at a Chicago hotel and told that his circus had burned up on the lake front, exclaimed: "Well, let her burn. I'm used to it," and went to sleep again.

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY:

Ignatius Donnelly arrived in Chicago with plans for "reducing the suffering brought about through the infamous trust system."

The Man with the Transferable Conscience.

A truthful, if not factful, fairy tale.

WHEN James Johns Jones was so young that his own mother could not have picked him out if he had been shuffled well with a number of other babies of his age his mother managed to offend a fairy.

It is astonishing how careless parents can be about this. Usually the fairy is offended by not being invited to the christening. The parents of James Johns Jones avoided giving offense in this way, and all would have gone merrily if it had not been for a chance remark.

While the christening was being held and while James was being named partly after his grandfather on his mother's side and partly after his grandfather on his father's side Mrs. Jones happened to remark:

"I am so glad he is a blond baby.

James Johns at 10

Blonds are good natured always and good. If he had been dark I should be afraid for him."

James Johns had so little hair that nobody but his mother could have told that he would be a blond. Now, the fairy who was offended was a brunette, and, having a slight headache that morning, she was a little more than usual off her temper.

"Well," she snapped—brunettes always snap—"well, I like that. I'll make that child so good that he will be painful to himself and to everybody else."

Of course, nobody but the other fairies heard her. She snapped in the fairy language. She flew away rapidly to the place where St. Anthony's conscience was kept. St. Anthony was the original George Washington. She came flying back with his conscience and gave it to James Johns. He thought it was something to eat and ate it.

A good fairy, who, being a blond, was flattered by the remark which offended the bad fairy, saw J. J. J. swallow the conscience. She knew what an awful thing it would be for a man in this day and generation to go through life with St. Anthony's conscience. To offset it she gave James the power to transfer it.

She thought he could get along well enough with it until he was 21 years old and was able to vote, so she fixed it so that he would not know he had the power until he came of age and was about to cast his first ballot.

James grew up to be the pride of the neighborhood. He was so angelic that the other boys threw mud at him on general principles every time they saw him. His mother kept him in kilts and curls until he was 10 years old, and he never murmured. He was sent to bed at 6:30 every night, and he never tried to turn the clock back an hour. He never was late at Sunday school. He never stole the jam. He never threw his piece of bread and butter under the table to get at his piece of pie the quicker. He always preferred to wheel the baby rather than to play one o' cat in the alley.

Other mothers pointed out James to their boys and told them he would be president some day. This made James so popular with the other fellows that they would leave a game of ball to follow him around and do things to him. But James never murmured. It is true his conscience impelled him to tell the Italian fruit man that Ferdinand Archibald Hicks stole the bananas and Willie Brown's mamma that Willie had been flipping cars. If any one did anything wrong in school James always told the teacher.

He could not help it. St. Anthony's conscience was working overtime in him every one of the twenty-four hours.

When he was sent to college he was known as a prig, but he was honest and good. James was so good that ordinary people could not associate with him. In college he was so industrious that he was graduated before he was 20 years old, and his father prepared to take him in business.

"Now," said Jones Sr., "I intend to take a rest for awhile. This is the opportunity for which I have been looking. I will take a rest."

He installed James and then left on a vacation up the lake. He came back suddenly on receipt of a telegram from his chief clerk. He found that James had succeeded in ruining his business in less than a week. Getting back into the harness he picked up as much as he could from the wreck. It wasn't much, but he thought that an application to old time principles might save the family furniture from the chattel mortgage man.

Jones Jr. was tried in various irresponsible positions, and Jones Sr. finally made him office boy. Even there he was a failure. He could not tell a lie. If Jones Sr. told one Jones Jr. reminded him of it and told the men who had been told the lie that it was a lie. Finally papa said to him:

"Look here, there may be climates where you would thrive and Chicago has a good many kinds, but there are none of them for you."

He shipped James to a ranch where he would be sixteen miles from his nearest neighbor and warned the neighbor about him. There James remained until he was 21 years of age.

Then he discovered he had St. Anthony's conscience. He also discovered his power to transfer it. He walked the sixteen miles to the nearest neighbor and handed him the conscience. The neighbor suddenly remembered that he had fenced off a hundred acres of James' ranch and paid him $400 for it.

This operation completed, James extracted the conscience and telegraphed father that he was coming home. Father fainted when he got the bad news, and telegraphed the sheriff to hold James, but it was too late.

When the son came into the father's office he was wearing a fancy waistcoat and Jones Sr. surmised that something was wrong. When he discovered that there was a small wad of bank notes in the waistcoat pocket he knew there was.

Just to punish his father James gave him the conscience for a half an hour and locked him in his room, telling the clerks to stay away from him. When they opened the door they found that Jones Sr. had written twenty-one apologies for things he had done the day before, and had made out checks to accompany them. These checks if cashed would have overdrawn his bank account by $75,000.

James took the conscience away from his father, and the old man sank wearily into a chair. They tore up the letters and the checks and no damage was done.

"That," said James with a chuckle, "is just to show what can be done."

He then transferred the conscience to the president of a great corporation. For a week the president did not feel it acting. On the eighth day he noticed an uneasiness within. On the ninth he sent for a physician. The doctor said it was liver and advised him to take a rest.

On the tenth day he raised the salaries of every one in the employment and then they knew he was sick. The next day he reduced the price on everything the company produced. The directors came down on him with their hair standing on end and he told them they were a pack of robbers.

The conscience had not started to work well yet. The president was a tough customer, but it kept grinding away on him. There was a little deal projected to squeeze a competitor out of business, send him to the cemetery, and his wife and children to their relations.

Just then the conscience hit the president hard. He bought out the other plant at a fair price and took to his bed. With his remaining energy he superintended the giving away of his fortune.

James decided that the opportunity was ripe. He went to the vice president and told him he could cure the president, but that it would take a check with six figures to do it.

The vice president saw his business going to the dogs and he wrote out the check. James took the conscience away. Now the president is sitting up nights wondering how he can make up for the things he did during his temporary insanity. That was what his disorder was called.

James Johns at 21

With this little deal James was comfortably fixed in life. Having all of this worlds goods that he needed he said to himself:

WEDDING OF MISS MARI MILLS TO TAKE PLACE ON JUNE 16.

Mr. Frank Taylor Crawford, the Groom, the Best Man, and All the Ushers Former Yale Students—Miss Emma Louise Merigold Married to Mr. Robert White—Large Crowd at Saddle and Cycle Club for Dinner.

At the wedding of Miss Mari Brainerd Mills, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Laflin Mills, to Mr. Frank Taylor Crawford, which will be celebrated Tuesday afternoon, June 16, at 5 o'clock, at the Lake View Presbyterian church, the bride will be attended by her sister, Miss Electa Mills, as maid of honor. Two other sisters, Miss Caroline and Miss Agnes Mills, will be bridemaids, the other bridemaids being Miss Ethel Mason, Miss Lucy Peet, Miss Mary Dickinson, Miss Margaret Potter of East Orange, N. J., and Miss Ethel Boles of Scranton, Pa.

The groom and his best man, Matthew Mills, the bride's brother, are both Yale men, and the ushers are Yale men, and all but one of the same class. They are Thomas Benedict Clarke Jr., Charles Wylre McKelvey, both of New York; Malcolm Lee McBride, Crispin Oglebay, both of Cleveland; James Henry Niedecken of Milwaukee, and Hopewell Lindenberger Rogers of Chicago.

The reception which will follow the ceremony at the Mills residence in Buena Park will be a small one.

The wedding of Miss Emma Louise Merigold, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Merigold, to Mr. Robert White, took place last evening at the Church of the Transfiguration at 8 o'clock. The Rev. Dr. Fleetwood performed the ceremony.

The bride had no maid of honor, but was attended by four bridemaids—Miss Adelaide Burhans, Miss Florence Drake, Miss Wangeman, and Miss Erna Brackman. The groom had two best men, his brother, Harry White, and his business partner, Roy Tabor. The ushers were Arthur Sheldon Merigold, Roy Bailey, Percy Strickland, and T. Egbert Vaughn.

The bride's gown was of white point d'esprit and duchesse lace, with bouquet of lilies of the valley. The bridemaids' gowns were of white mousseline de soie. They wore pink wreaths in their hair and carried bouquets of pink roses.

The reception at the family residence, 3984 Lake avenue, was only for the bridal party and relatives.

A large crowd went out to the Saddle and Cycle club last evening. The dinner hosts were Dr. F. S. Doane, John C. King, Dwight Lawrence, Sidney C. Love, Frank B. Noyes, Stewart Patterson, J. C. Bowen, William Monroe, Morrill Dunn, Harry High, Bernard F. Rogers, Thomas W. Hinde, and W. W. Tracy. Miss Byram also gave a dinner.

The marriage is announced of Miss L. S. Cook to Mr. James Armstrong, which took place last evening at the Wellington hotel.

Miss Florence Smith of 3147 Vernon avenue will give a tea tomorrow for Miss Gertrude Geiger of Detroit and Mrs. Arthur Blackman Turner of New York.

The wedding of Miss Adelaide R. Born to Mr. Edwin Stanton Rosenbaum was celebrated last evening at 6:30 o'clock at the Standard club, Dr. E. G. Hirsch officiating.

The Misses Devlin will give a luncheon on Saturday at the Washington Park club for Miss Celeste Walsh, one of the June brides.

The formal opening for the season of the Oconomowoc Country club will take place on Saturday.

Mrs. J. R. Winterbotham and her daughters, Miss Margaret and Miss Catherine Winterbotham, have arrived in New York from Europe, and will be in Chicago in a few days. Before going to Sugar Hill, N. H., for the summer, they will be the guests of Mrs. Baldwin of 47 Woodland park.

Dr. and Mrs. Clinton Locke left town yesterday for their summer home at Wequetonsing.

Mrs. Edwin L. Gillette and Mrs. William Shippen Jenks of 137 Lincoln Park boulevard have gone to their country place at Lake Beulah, Wis. Mr. and Mrs. Edwin F. Gillette will spend the summer in Nikko, Japan, having returned there from a trip to China and Manila.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence A. Young and their children have gone to their summer home at Mackinac.

The Herndon club will give a dance this evening at the Lincoln park casino.

The Girls' club, composed of Miss Anna Kollenberg, Miss Elizabeth Kasper, Miss Maud Moe, Miss Elizabeth Douglas, Miss Mae Dillon, Miss Clara Steifel, Miss Mildred Robertson, Miss Amy Erickson, Miss Josephine Weiferich, Miss Minnie Blackford, and Mrs. Henrietta Gilsdorf-Manz, chaperon, will give a shirt waist party Saturday evening at the casino, Lincoln park. One hundred invitations have been issued.

Miss Enola Juanita Cregier and Mr. Charles Stephen Senyard were married last evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Lyke of 1175 Wilcox avenue. The bride was given in marriage by her grandfather, John W. Lyke. Miss Grace Howard was maid of honor, and the bridemaids Miss Esther Montgomery and Miss Florence Crain of Milwaukee. Arthur Brookshank was the best man. The ushers were George Ramsey, Fred Cregier, Frank B. Green, and Knap Cregier.

The wedding of Miss Claribel Beck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander R. Beck of 5019 Kimbark avenue, to Mr. Thomas E. Maley took place last evening at St. Thomas' church, Fifty-fifth street and Kimbark avenue, the Rev. W. S. Hennessy officiating. Miss Leonore Beck was her sister's maid of honor. The bridemaids were Miss Nellie Hunt, Miss Bess Wright, Miss Frances Clague of Milwaukee, and Miss Helen Morgan of Aurora. George French was the best man. The ushers were Alexander Beck, George Critchell, Fred Fitch, and William Larkin. A small reception followed the ceremony at the family residence. Mr. and Mrs. Maley left for the east. They will be at home after Sept. 1 at 366 Sixty-first place.

The Quadrangle club gave a dinner last evening for Miss Mary Shaw. Miss Shaw gave a talk on Ibsen.

The annual reception and closing exercises of the Dearborn seminary will be held this evening at the school, Calumet avenue and Twenty-third street.

Miss Charlotte Lizette Arnold, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Arnold of Aurora, Ill., will be married this afternoon to Mr. Stephen Moore Wirts. After Aug. 1 Mr. and Mrs. Wirts will be at home at 614 Clark street, Evanston.

TRADE TRIUMPH FOR CHICAGO.

Local Merchants Rejoicing Over Success in Securing the Indian Contracts.

Wholesale dealers in Chicago are rejoicing over the success of the local houses in securing 90 per cent of the Indian supply contracts. In some cases bids were entered by foreign houses, as well as New York firms, and the competition was the strongest Chicago dealers have been called on to meet. Three-fourths of the contracts were secured by Marshall Field & Co.

Some idea of the amount of goods purchased by the government for the use of its wards may be gained by this list, which will be supplied by Field & Co.:

2,500 mattresses.
9,000 blankets.
27,000 yards of dress flannel.
700,000 yards of cotton dress goods, tickings, checks, and similar goods.
8,000 dozen handkerchiefs.
20,000 yards of table linen.
47,000 yards of crash.
4,000 shawls.

"The success of Chicago in securing the contracts despite most severe competition is highly gratifying," said John G. Shedd of Field & Co. "It simply indicates that Chicago is supreme in the dry goods field."

GANGS OF DOG THIEVES AND POISONERS WORK IN CHICAGO.

Organized Bands Steal Canines to Secure Reward—Strychnine in Candy Endangers Lives of Children.

"Boo—hoo, b-o-o—h-o-o; gwan, I ain't done nothin'," cried the ragamuffin.

"What's the mather wid yez?" demanded the policeman, jerking the urchin from his seat on the edge of the pavement.

"O, boo—hoo—me mudder licked me fer sellin' a dog fer 35 cents to the hospital when she c'd ha' got $50 reward—boo—hoo."

That was the story which came to the ears of Chief of Police O'Neill and set him thinking, and presently set the wheels of the police department to grinding out a war on the gangs of thieves who steal dogs for the rewards offered.

The number of lost dogs has increased greatly during the last six weeks, and investigation has convinced the police that well organized gangs are engaged in luring the animals from their homes. Inspector Lavin secured a confession from a thief some time ago which revealed the working of the dog stealing syndicate. The robber declared the rich residence portions of the city were systematically worked for valuable dogs that can be led away.

The dog notices in the "lost and found" columns of the newspapers have increased in number over 50 per cent during the last year. Last week there were thirty-eight dogs reported missing, and in each case a substantial reward was offered. The dog thieves often are unable to secure any reward, and they sell the dogs to medical colleges and hospitals, where they are used for dissection classes. Chief O'Neill has ordered his men to be especially vigilant in detecting this sort of robbery.

Capt. Rehm of the East Chicago avenue station has his men out looking for dog poisoners. Dogs belonging to William C. Clike, 673 Wells street, and Robert Gale, 44 Tell court, were found dead, and a postmortem examination proved strychnine poisoning had been the cause. Over 100 canines in the same neighborhood have been killed. Pieces of sugar containing strychnine were found on the pavement at Wells and Eugénie streets, and the neighborhood is alarmed, fearing children will be poisoned.

INCREASE OF LICENSE FEES ATTEND PURE MILK CRUSADE.

Inspection Bureau Collect $20,740 During May, While the Expense of the Department Is Only $11,000 a Year.

Receipts by the milk inspection department of the city for May from milk wagons and milk stores was $20,740. This was $3,300 more than was received for the same month last year, and the increase is credited to the campaign for pure milk. The increase has another point of interest in that the expense of the department, salaries, and maintenance, is only $11,000 a year.

During the month licenses were issued for 1,354 wagons and 720 stores, the total being 330 more than was issued during May, 1902. The license fee is $10.

"The entire cost of the department is but $11,000 a year," said Chief Inspector Grady. "If we had what was coming to us we would be able to have one inspector for each ward and six in the country. It is impossible for six men to do the work. All the fees we collect go into the city treasury."

The small milk dealers, at the suggestion of Dr. W. K. Jacques, director of the city laboratory, will issue circulars to their customers stating what precautions they are taking in the way of sterilizing milk vessels. Many of them are buying small boilers.

The milk ordinance will be taken up again this afternoon by the city council judiciary committee. It is understood that Ald. Werno and Dunn will report adversely on that section which gives the health department judicial and arbitrary powers in fining dealers whose milk is not of standard quality.

LINCOLN PARK BOARD PLANS.

Commissioners Talk Over Expenditure of $1,000,000 in Extension Work—Thieves Damage Electric Fountain.

The Lincoln park commissioners yesterday discussed the extension of the park provided for by Monday's election. The plans for the expenditure of the $1,000,000 were gone over, but no action was taken, as the commissioners decided to wait until the official count of the ballots. Surprise was expressed at the small majority in favor of the bond issue.

The commissioners discovered that thieves have carried away so many parts of the electric fountain that the cost of repairing it will be $1,500. Commissioners Kennedy and Simmons said the Union Traction company should bear the expense, as it reaps the benefits.

The monthly bills, which showed a decrease, were allowed.

ACROBATS MARRY IN COURT.

Love Affair Involving Three Continents Leads to Ceremony Performed by Judge Gary.

A courtship involving both hemispheres and three continents ended in a court marriage yesterday when Clotilde Amelia Meyer and Emil Sobiebrowsky Kutlow were wedded by Judge Gary. Both are acrobats, and were members of the same troupe in Europe. Later Kutlow went to Australia, and for more than a year neither knew of the whereabouts of the other. Recently Miss Meyer learned that Kutlow was coming to America. She made arrangements to come to the United States, and reached New York two weeks ago last Saturday, on which day Kutlow arrived in San Francisco by steamer. They met in Chicago a few days ago and yesterday appeared in Judge Gary's court and were married, the court delaying another case long enough to perform the ceremony.

FATHER SPOILS AN ELOPEMENT.

Breaks from Telephone Booth, in Which Daughter Locked Him, and Causes Youth's Arrest.

Modern invention made an elopement easy for Mary Schultz, 19 years old, but trouble came thereafter. Miss Schultz is a Joliet girl, and when her father, John Schultz, stepped into a telephone booth she saw her chance and seized it. Slamming the door of the booth, she turned the key, and then, with her father locked in, she went to another telephone and called him up.

"Papa," she said, "you're whipped. I'm going to run away with Harry Cowan and—I'm—going—to—do—it—right—away."

Run they did, but Schultz broke out of the telephone booth and followed them to Chicago by the next train. Yesterday he caused Cowan to be arrested on a charge of abduction.

STUDENTS HAVE A BOOK STORE.

University of Chicago "Laws" Adopt Plan to Save Expense by Co-operation.

University of Chicago law students organized a coöperative book store at a mass-meeting of the "laws" held yesterday. As it costs the law student from $40 to $60 a year for books alone, the council of the law school gave its approval to the plan. The store will be in charge of a business manager, who will act as middle man between the buyers and sellers of the new and second hand books. Such money as the association clears, which is estimated at $150 a year, will be devoted to the purchase of new books, to be rented to students. John Cochran was elected the first business manager of the association.

The Tribune's Vacation Guide

Continuing its series of hints for vacation hunters "The Tribune" presents the third installment of a guide to the most desirable spots for summer outings. The series will be continued daily and will be found invaluable to those who are wondering where to go.

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.—Historical interest and natural advantages have made Charlevoix one of the most favored of summering places on the eastern shore of Lake Michigan. It is 280 miles from Chicago, and can be reached by lake steamer in a trip taking from twenty-one to twenty-three hours. The rates are $11 for the round trip, transportation, or $15 including meals and berth. The city is picturesquely situated, and a swimming pool affords bathing facilities. The heights about the town are wooded and are the sites of many cottages of the summer residents. Round and Pine lakes furnish boating and yachting grounds. The place round about has been improved to meet the demands of the thousands of pleasure seekers who visit Charlevoix annually, and the many Chicagoans and southerners who seek the cool, healthful retreat for summer homes. Points of interest in connection with the early Indian days, and the later attempts of the Mormons to establish themselves there may be visited. Its proximity to Mackinac island is also an advantage.

CASS LAKE, MINN.—The lake lies deep in a forest of primeval pine, whose balsam is accredited a panacea for lung troubles. The wooded shores and islands in the lake make the place ideal for camping. In one of the large islands is another lake, in which bass are plentiful. This doughnut shaped island is timbered with tall spruce and in summer is dotted with the tents of campers. Duck shooting is good in the fall. Cass City is 257 miles northwest of St. Paul. The round trip rate to St. Paul from Chicago is $16, and excursion rates may be secured to the lake. There are four hotels near the lake with rates at from $4.50 a week upwards, and a number of boarding houses in the town. Buses run from Cass City to the lake at a fare of 25 cents the trip.

CLEAR LAKE, MINN.—Within a radius of five miles from the station are fourteen lakes. Transportation to the lakes is easily obtainable. The lakes are good camping points, and fishing from rowboats is the chief attraction. Accommodations may be had at the hotel for $1 a day with a weekly rate. The lake is sixty-five miles from St. Paul.

CALUMET, MICH.—Near the shore of Lake Superior, in the northern peninsula of Michigan, Calumet furnishes a field of action for the camera enthusiast. The roads about the town are good for wheeling. It is 425 miles from Chicago and the round trip fare is $21.70. Smooth roads lead to lake points. Board may be had for from $5 to $12 a week at six hotels.

CAMP DOUGLAS, WIS.—The several regiments of the Wisconsin National guard camp at this point in the summer. The country about it bluffy and picturesque. Trout streams are near by and prairie chickens are to be shot in season. The resort is 227 miles from Chicago and the round trip fare is $10.40. Two hotels offer board from $10 to $10.30 a week.

CHAMPION, MICH.—Several trout streams in the vicinity are the chief attractions. Summer cottages may be rented and boats hired. There is good hunting in the fall. Champion is 346 miles from Chicago and the fare is $10.35 one way. At the two hotels the rates are $5 and $7 a week.

CHANNING, MICH.—There are good facilities for camping here, and teams and guides can be secured for excursions along the streams for trout and bass fishing or for hunting. Camp supplies may be obtained at the town. It is 315 miles from Chicago and the fare is $15.10 for the round trip.

CHISAGO LAKE, MINN.—A chain of five lakes can be reached from Chisago City, which is thirty-five miles from St. Paul. The lakes may also be reached from Lindstrom or Center City. Bass, pike, and pickerel abound in the lake, and in the towns are hotel accommodations and outfitters who will equip the hunter or fisherman. Wild duck and geese, partridge and rabbit shooting is an attraction. The round trip rate from Chicago is $21.10.

CLEAR LAKE, IA.—Groves of oak, walnut, elm, and maple surround the lake, which is a popular camping and summer home resort. The grounds are laid out in parks and private preserves, and the lake is well supplied with boats, and tackle is for hire. Accommodations may be secured at five hotels for from $4 to $14 a week. This is a pleasant place for a quiet, restful vacation. It is 365 miles from Chicago and the round trip fare is $16.45.

CAMP LAKE, WIS.—Lying near Clear Lake and close to the Fox river, on the line between Wisconsin and Illinois, Camp Lake furnishes the vacation seeker a choice of recreation. Boating, bathing, and fishing are the attractions. A good place to rest. There are four hotels and the rates are from $7 to $10 a week. It is sixty-two miles from Chicago.

CALUMET HARBOR, WIS.—On the eastern shore of Lake Winnebago, and opposite Oshkosh, this retreat for campers is easily accessible. There is a hotel where board may be had at $8 a week, and there are excellent, shaded tenting grounds. It may be reached by road from Fond du Lac or Neenah or by steamboat from Oshkosh. It is a favorite excursion and picnic point for the large cities on the lake. Fishing, boating, sailing, and bathing are the attractions. The round trip fare to Oshkosh is $8.60, and the trip to Calumet Harbor is 75 cents.

CECIL, WIS.—Shawno lake and Berry lake, near by, are good fishing grounds, where wall eyed pike, bass, and trout may be caught. Cecil is 263 miles from Chicago, near Shawno, and there are three hotels ranging in rates from $3.50 to $5 a week. Cottages at the lakes may be rented.

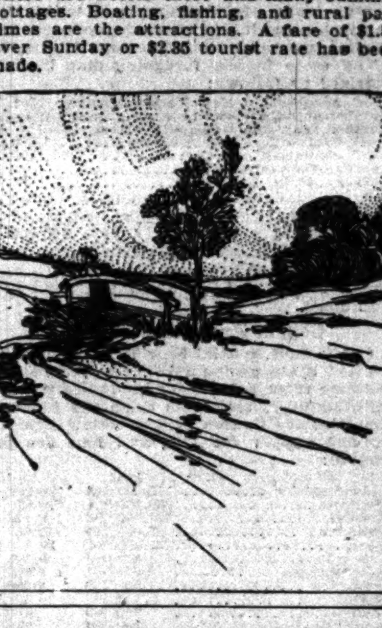

CHETEK, WIS.—Lake Chetek is ten miles long, and good fishing grounds. It lies forty-three miles north of Eau Claire and 365 miles from Chicago. Boats, guides, and tackle may be secured at any of the three hotels. Hotel rates are from $3.50 to $8 a week.

CISCO, WIS.—Lying on waters tributary to Lake Superior, near the Gogebic country, the fishing for lake trout and small mouthed bass is good. On other nearby waters which flow south muskellunge are found. Pine forests cover the land between the numerous small lakes. May be reached by through sleepers from Chicago. It is 380 miles from Chicago, and has two hotels, at which board can be secured for from $10 to $12 a week.

CEDAR LAKE, IND.—Timbered shores of this lake have been improved by the construction of Monon park, thirty-eight miles from Chicago, making the spot a pleasant place for a day's outing or a month's camping. At the hotels visitors are accommodated at reasonable rates, and the fishing and boating are good. Special rates make the trip inexpensive to one who wishes a day in the country.

CLEAR LAKE AND LAKE KOSHKONONG, WIS.—The duck shooting in the fall has made these lakes well known to Chicago sportsmen, the canvas back duck being a frequenter of the rice grown shores of the waters. The lakes are reached from Milton Junction, a station ninety-nine miles from Chicago. The waters also furnish good bass, pickerel, and pike fishing. The round fare from Chicago is $5.50 tourist or $4 "over Sunday" trip.

CRYSTAL LAKE, ILL.—Good train service with Chicago, forty-two miles away, make this resort easily accessible. It may be reached in one hour and fourteen minutes, and is a good place for an outing. There are hotels there and many summer cottages. Boating, fishing, and rural pastimes are the attractions. A fare of $1.55 over Sunday or $2.35 tourist rate has been made.

AMONG THE NEW BOOKS.

CAMPION'S ENGLISH POEMS.

A New Edition, Edited by A. H. Bullen.

A new and pretty edition of Thomas Campion's English poems has been imported into this country by Charles Scribner's Sons. It is edited by the well known and acknowledged authority on Elizabethan lyrics, A. H. Bullen. To him and to Prof. Arber is due the credit of rescuing from neglect the fame of Campion and of making the present generation aware of the beauties of his verse. Sixteen years ago these men began to insist that Campion's poems be given their real place in English verse, and in 1889 Mr. Bullen prepared with great care an editio princeps of Campion's collected works, including all his Latin poems, and from that time the appreciation of the sweet, old singer has grown apace.

The present edition includes the English verses only. The contents are: The four "Books of Airs," "Songs of Mourning," masque at the marriage of Lord Hayes, "A Relation of the Entertainment Given by Lord Knowles," "The Lords' Masque," besides his "Observations in the Art of English Poesy," and some scattered verses. There are a few interesting notes at the back of the little volume, and Mr. Bullen has supplied an introduction in which he recounts the little that is known of the poet himself, and something about the editions of his works. Miss Janet Dodge adds a word on Campion's music, for he has been as much neglected as a composer as a poet.

The readers of THE TRIBUNE'S "Poems You Ought to Know," who have noticed therein many of the poems of this Elizabethan songster, will be glad to know of this convenient edition of his works.

NEW BYRON VERSES.

Fourteen, Hitherto Unpublished, Appear in a New Volume.

Volume VI. of the portion devoted to Byron's poetry in the new twelve volume edition of the poet's works has just been imported by Charles Scribner's Sons. It consists of 611 pages and is devoted entirely to "Don Juan." The frontispiece is a portrait of Byron made from the J. Holmes drawing, and the dedication is to Swinburne.

The text used is one which has been collated from the MSS. in the possession of Lady Dorchester and Mr. John Murray. There is now printed for the first time a fragment of the seventeenth canto, consisting of fourteen verses. It may here be said that the publishers of this edition have decided to add another volume, making thirteen in all. This will contain occasional poems, epigrams, etc., a bibliography, the most complete published, and an exhaustive index.

Some readers who may have been curious to know what happened to the hero who was left in such an interesting situation at the end of the sixteenth canto will be disappointed to know that what they sought is not revealed in the fourteen verses of the seventeenth now printed in this edition for the first time.

Mr. Ernest Hartley Coleridge, who is the editor of the poetical part of this edition of the works, has supplied an introduction and so many notes that they surely occupy one-third of the total number of pages, in spite of their fine type. Besides the frontispiece there is a portrait of Wordsworth, one of Ninon de l'Enclos, and a picture of the fountains at Newstead abbey.

CYMBELINE, WITH NOTES.

Appearance of the Drama in Dowden's Edition of Shakspeare.

"Cymbeline," edited by Edward Dowden himself, is the latest volume to the familiar series of Shakspeare's play which the Bobbs-Merrill company is issuing. In an exceptionally lucid and interesting introduction, Mr. Dowden explains the probable origin of the tragedy, refers to the probable date of the first production, and collates a great amount of information from various sources concerning the drama. He traces in it Shakspeare's reading of Holinshed's Chronicles, and he pays a deserved tribute to Prof. Thorndike's "Influence of Beaumont and Fletcher on Shakspeare," in quoting from the American author's references to this particular play.

Prof. Dowden gives the tale as Boccaccio told it, and then an outline of the same story as it appeared in the old pamphlet, "Westward for Smelts," which was published in 1620. He also tells of a similar legend to be found in a thirteenth century romance and in a French miracle play of the fourteenth century.

There are many notes accompanying the text of Shakspeare's play.

TWO POCKET CLASSICS.

"Harry Lorrequer" and "Night and Morning" Revised in New Form.

That beautifully printed pocket series of English classics which George Newnes publishes in London, and which Charles Scribner's Sons import into America, has been enriched by the addition of Charles Lever's "Harry Lorrequer," that rollicking novel of the English army, and by Bulwer's "Night and Morning."

Two books more unlike could scarcely be imagined, and yet almost at the same time they enjoyed a remarkable popularity wherever the English language was known. Even today they are widely read, as the public libraries can testify and as new editions like the present show. The books, though of pocket size, are each nearly 600 pages in extent, but the thinness of the paper is an advantage rather than a detriment. There are beautiful frontispieces in each and the binding is a soft green leather.

Dilg's "Rival Cæsars."

Desmond Dilg of this city has written a romance around the Burr-Hamilton imbroglio. This has been a favorite theme with novelists lately, but none of them has treated the matter exactly as has Mr. Dilg. According to him, both these men and many other prominent characters of the early days were members of a secret order—the Iron Cross—and the death of Hamilton was a sentence of which Burr was really the executor. Many famous men are brought into the story, which contains many stirring scenes. While not making out Burr an actual hero, the tale is by no means favorable to Hamilton, who is painted in dark colors. The book is called "Rival Cæsars," and it is published by Thurland & Thurland, Chicago.

"THIS IS MY BIRTHDAY."
—SHAKSPEARE.

M'CULLOCH—Mrs. Catharine Waugh McCulloch, author, lawyer, lecturer, woman suffragist.

Mrs. McCulloch is famed as the leader of Chicago's women lawyers and woman suffragists.

She says: "The time is coming when women of education, and wealth, and leisure, and social prestige will take up the cause of women, other women, all women. Just now some of them apparently are more interested in society, clubs, Hindoo philosophy, whist, or the heathen or drunkards, criminals, or incompetents. They are busy studying, entertaining, reforming, curing. They are only sleeping on the question of women's needs. They will wake up soon to the injustice possible to all their sex, and will begin a work greater than that of charity or of philanthropy. They will begin to secure justice. Then mothers will be equal to fathers."

She sees promise in the signs of the present times:

"Those closely in touch with the work of equal suffrage all over the United States and all other countries can clearly and readily detect substantial, steady progress.

"While to the casual observer the recent defeat in the Illinois legislature of the bill advocating suffrage to tax paying women means defeat for the cause, we who have been following the progress of suffrage note the lessening of the opposition all the time, and the passage here and there of a bill for the adoption of the idea.

"There are absolutely convincing signs of progress visible to us who keep close track of the work. We see a rapidly changing sentiment everywhere. Even in New Orleans, in the south of the south, where conservatism is supposed to rule and men, out of chivalry are credited with restraining women from politics and business, women vote on certain municipal questions.

"It was their vote that carried the bill providing for a sewerage system for New Orleans, a greatly needed city improvement.

"Moreover, when the last woman's suffragist convention met in New Orleans the conservative southern people came in crowds. We had overflowing audiences and turned 2,000 or 3,000 people away.

"Another promising feature: Last year the Jewish council of women, the state federation of clubs, and other prominent women's organizations indorsed woman's suffrage bills. Five or six years ago this would have been unheard of."

Mrs. McCulloch has been called upon to draft bills and to discuss on the platform or in writing the legal aspect of legislation in behalf of women, not only in Illinois but in other states.

In the passage of a bill which she framed giving to mothers equal rights with fathers in the control of the child, "Mr. Lex," a tale of the legal status of mother and child, became an "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

Mrs. McCulloch's personality is magnetic, pleasing, and graceful.

WHEAT PRICE ABOUT HELD

BUYING ENCOURAGED BY THE STRENGTH OF ST. LOUIS MARKET.

Improved Weather in the Southwest and Indifferent Foreign Cables Cause a Break Early — Export Demand Poor and Northwest Selling Here—Corn Strong for July, Cash Prices Firm — Oats Do Not Yield—Provisions Easier with Hogs.

Decided indisposition on the part of foreign wheat markets to follow the advance here and decided improvement in the weather in the west and southwest made an easier opening here. But the initial decline of ½c marked the low point of the day. The St. Louis market was still stirred by threatened floods and reports of crop damage, the close there being ¼c to ½c higher, and this held the local market firm, the close unchanged for July to ⅛-¼c lower for September.

This market might have been stronger but for the confusion of the trade over the operation of the new rule which went into effect yesterday, making No. 2 hard winter wheat deliverable on new contracts on a 5c penalty. Some local speculators thought the old style contracts on which only No. 1 northern and No. 2 red are deliverable ought to be worth a premium over the new style, and succeeded in securing one of ¼-⅜c. Trade was light, the feature moderate buying for St. Louis account and free selling by the northwest. The news from that quarter was bearish and their markets ⅜c to ½c lower. Minneapolis claimed some of the flour mills would close down because of poor flour demand, and again insisted that receipts would increase. There were 180 cars at the two points compared with 146 a year ago, but primary receipts were 249,000 bu compared with 271,000 bu, there being no report from Kansas City.

Export Demand Poor.

Foreigners were not inclined to follow the advance and exporters called the demand poor. Local houses reported bids 2c out of line, though improved, and foreigners reselling here. Duluth reported the other side offering to resell old contracts there at 2½c to 3c under offers made abroad the night before. The seaboard put export sales at 80,000 bu. Clearances were 341,000 bu. There was a poorer demand for No. 1 northern here, the premium reduced ½c, but a good demand for No. 2 red around July price, with sales of about 200,000 bu to go to the seaboard. This buying suggested a continental demand on the expectation of one. Liverpool was up only ⅜-½d compared with a 2c advance here, Broomhall explaining the indifference there to profit taking and liberal offerings from India for shipment. Paris was ¼c lower, Antwerp off ⅝c. Bradstreet's reported a decrease of 1,990,000 bu in world's stocks for the week, compared with one of 5,417,000 bu a year ago.

The Ohio state crop report for June made the condition 89, compared with 92 a month ago, the loss due to the May drought. Reports from St. Louis were that the cordage companies, which recently reported large sales of twine to the southwest, have been receiving large cancellations.

Firm Feeling in Corn.

Corn felt the effect of the reduced rainfall and the forecast for fair weather or only light showers through the west more severely than wheat, with declines of ⅛@⅜c at the opening. But country acceptances were light, the west was trying to cancel sales to arrive made last month, and the belief that it will take more than a little sunshine to repair the damage done brought good support to the market. There was an active trade, the close ½c higher for June, unchanged for July, and a shade lower for September. There were 1,081 cars inspected in, with 138 contract, but only 320 estimated for today. Primary receipts were 1,108,470 bu, compared with 568,488 bu last year. The cash market was steady; shipping sales, 260,000 bu. The seaboard reported a good export demand; sales, 320,000 bu; and clearances were 277,000 bu. Bradstreet's reported an increase of 555,000 bu in world's stocks, compared with a decrease of 2,000 bu last year. Liverpool was 1⅛@1⅜d higher for futures.

General Demand for Oats.

Oats yielded a trifle early on the better weather, but there was a prompt rally on buying by local bull interests, offerings being light. Reports from Iowa were serious, claims that yield could not exceed 200,000,000 bu with favorable weather, compared with 360,000,000 bu last year. July gained ⅛@¼c, December ⅜c, September closing unchanged. A speculative incident was selling of September and buying of July by Howe. There were 416 cars here, with 17 standard, but only 105 estimated for today. Bradstreet's reported a decrease of 1,156,000 bu in stocks east of the Rockies, compared with one of 851,000 bu last year. The cash market was steady, shipping sales 125,000 bu. Clearances were 17,000 bu.

Provision List Easier Throughout.

Final prices were lower all through the provision list, pork settling back 12½@17c, lard 7½c, and ribs 10@15c. Grain houses sold lard freely, and it was said the Cudahy people were letting go ribs. Otherwise business was more or less slack. The live hog market was about as weak yesterday as it was strong the day before and prices were 5@10c off. Receipts were 37,000. Western receipts, Kansas City missing, were 81,400, as compared with 87,000 last year. Shipments of cured meats were 2,028,200 lbs, against 2,737,100 lbs a year ago, and of lard 1,331,500 lbs, as compared with 1,044,900 lbs a year ago.

Rye ruled dull and about unchanged; July, 50c bid. Inspection was 8 cars. There were 17,800 bu of No. 3 withdrawn from public elevators.

Barley was also the usual steady market. Samples were moderately offered, inspection being 34 cars. Choice to fancy screenings and feed barley were quoted 40@48c; low grade malting, 45@48c; fair to choice, 49@53c; and fancy, 54c.

The seed list was generally steady; September timothy 5c higher at $3.35 bid, without offerings. Fair to good country lots ranged from $2.75@3.00. Clover seed was quiet at $11.50@11.75 for contract. Flaxseed was entirely nominal, no trading being done. There were 2 cars here, 19 at Minneapolis, and 9 at Duluth. No. 1 northwestern was $1.13 bid and southwestern quotably $1.10. July was nominally $1.12 and September $1.18 bid. Rejected, $1.05@1.08.

Trade Gossip on 'Change.

Wheat traders forgot for a time yesterday that they had voted to make No. 2 hard winter wheat deliverable on contracts at a discount of 5c, and there was confusion in the pit and in the trade outside when it was found some were trading in "old style" contracts and others in "new style." It took an announcement by the secretary from the galleries to make it clear that on all new contracts for wheat the hard winter would be deliverable and that in closing out old trades, if the buyer wished to receive No. 1 northern or No. 2 red, the old contract grades, it would be necessary to specify that the contracts were old style. There seemed to be an idea in the trade that the old style contracts ought to be worth a premium in addition to the 5c premium the new rule gives them, and buying of old style against sales of new put the former to premiums of ¼@⅜c in both July and September. This spread was probably based on the theory there would be a big crop of hard winter wheat in the southwest, which would find a better market here for delivery on contracts than anywhere else, and that the old contract grades would go to premiums. In the cash trade there is not much idea any No. 2 hard will come here to be delivered on contracts except in case of a corner, and that the new rule is an additional insurance against corners and manipulation.

There is an occasional murmur of disagreement from St. Louis with the general bullishness of sentiment there on wheat. One house wired McReynolds: "Crowd bulling on flood. Last big overflow was in 1892; maximum rise then thirty-six feet; extreme prediction present rise thirty-four feet. Crop wheat in Illinois and Missouri combined in 1892 was 53,060,000 bu; average last eight years, 42,000,000 bu."

There were sales of 260,000 bu corn yesterday for shipment, including 50,000 bu No. 2 yellow at 1⅝c over July, f. o. b. Sales of wheat were 200,000 bu No. 2 red; of oats, 125,000 bu.

Members were inclined to look on the efforts of some persons to embarrass the administration and several reputable firms by haling them to a justice court to answer charges of bucket shopping as the last disgruntled, dying struggle of the bucket shops.

Estimated receipts for today are: Wheat, 25 cars; corn, 320 cars; oats, 105 cars; hogs, 32,000.

Richardson's agent at Hardin, Mo., wired yesterday: "Three-fourths of the wheat in our territory is under water and badly damaged. Missouri river high and rising. If the water should go down quick farmers think they can plant and raise a crop of corn yet. Looks pretty sick here."

There were charters yesterday for 200,000 bu corn and 100,000 bu oats to Buffalo.

Ames Brooks of Duluth wired Maynard: "The export demand for wheat is flat. Foreigners are offering to resell old contracts, winter wheat, at 2½@3c under our offers abroad last night."

The St. Louis curb on wheat was 1c higher yesterday afternoon.

The Ohio state crop report for June makes the wheat condition 89, compared with 92 on May 1 and 96 in April.

IN THE NEW YORK MARKETS.

Quotations on Dry Goods, Poultry, Butter, Coffee, Metals, and Other Special Lines.

NEW YORK, June 3.—The dry goods market has not shown any activity and the demand from buyers is restricted on account of the higher level of prices. The buyer is operating conservatively, and, while he had purchased a fair yardage during the last two or three weeks, he is not adding materially to his stock. In spite of this fact goods in certain lines are increasingly difficult to get for nearby delivery, and with increased curtailment this difficulty will continue to grow.

Range of Coffee Prices.

Coffee—Futures opened dull at unchanged prices to an advance of 5 points on October, closing steady net unchanged to 10 points higher. Sales were 10,500 bags, including July at 3.80c; September, 4.00c; October, 4.10c; November, 4.15c; December, 4.45c; and May, 4.70c.

Poultry, Alive and Dressed.

Poultry—Alive, firm; western spring chickens, 25c; fowls, 15c; turkeys, 10@11c. Dressed, irregular; western broilers, 20@28c; fowls, 13¼@14c; turkeys, 13@16c.

Butter, Dairy and Creamery.

Butter—Receipts, 6,917 pkgs; firmer; state dairy, 17@21½c; extra creamery, 22½c; creamery, common to choice, 18@22c.

MONEY A LITTLE FIRMER.

LOCAL DEMAND QUIET, BUT NEW YORK HAS ADVANCED.

Gold Exports Show Increasing Volume—Business in Stock Commissions Shows a Marked Falling Off — How New York Exchange Houses Have Been Affected—Lake Street L Traffic for May—Increase in Copper Production—Day on Local Exchange.

Although the demand locally for money is quiet there is a shade firmer tendency. Some advance in New York in the last few days has been reflected here. New York commission houses are bidding 5 per cent for time loans in this market without being accommodated.

Yesterday a six months' local loan at 5 per cent was reported by one of the trust companies. From the same source it was learned that last week a loan of $1,000,000 for one year was negotiated at 5 per cent.

Chicago commercial banks held their minimum rate steadily at 5 per cent for collateral loans during the last fortnight. They did this while some of the trust companies were freely lending at 4½ per cent. The largest trust company did not reduce its rate below 5 per cent, even when the others were doing so. Yesterday the tendency was toward a 5 per cent rate on all new business.

Meanwhile Chicago commission houses have been paying off loans, and the demand from commercial concerns has slackened owing to the unsettled condition of business growing out of labor troubles.

Increased Gold Engagements.

Total engagements of gold for export today would aggregate, it was announced in the afternoon, $4,700,000. The engagements were heavier than expected and the stock market for a time reflected the passing uneasiness over the shipments. But at the close of the day the disposition was to overlook gold exports in the making of prices.

Decrease in Stock Commissions.

The stock commission business has experienced such a falling off in the last two years it is doubtful whether firms which rely on stock commissions alone can be experiencing a profitable business.

There has been a shrinkage of practically 2,000,000 shares daily in that time.

Prior to May 9, 1901, total sales easily averaged from 2,000,000 to 2,500,000 daily. In the last three months this average has dropped to around 500,000 shares daily. In the meantime, beginning with 1897, the stock brokerage business continued to expand until the Northern Pacific panic. Memberships on the New York exchange advanced from $18,000 to $80,000. The number of commission houses increased accordingly. Now, in a sense, the commission business is overcapitalized, when the reduction in income through decreased business is considered.

There are an even 1,100 members on the New York Stock exchange. These are divided up into 482 copartnerships, with 952 members. The names of 148 other members appear and may be either individual firms in active business or otherwise. The presumption is, however, that the membership is in use.

Average sales of 500,000 shares a day are equal to transactions in 1,000,000 shares, since for each seller there must be a buyer. Commissions are $12.50 on every 100 shares. This would make the average commissions daily $125,000, to be divided among the copartnerships and individual firms or members.

The copartnerships and firms make a total of 630 groups, among which the business is divided. The business averages 1,587 shares for each group, or commissions of $198.41 a day. Dividing the business by the membership there is an average of 909 shares, or $113.63 a day.

Most firms do not rely exclusively on stock business. There is bond business and grain. But the money has been made up to this time in stocks, and it was on stock prospects that capital engaged in the commission business.

The facts in the foregoing may be summarized as follows:

Total membership New York exchange.	1,100
Number of copartnerships	482
Number individuals or individual firms.	148
Stock transactions a day, shares	1,000,000
Total commissions a day	$125,000
Average for each firm	198
Rate annually	59,400

From these profits are to be deducted, in the case of Chicago houses, rents from $8,000 to $12,000 a year, private wire $10,000 to $16,000, help $5,000 to $15,000 a year.

These are only presented as averages. Small houses run less and the larger houses run more.

Copper Production in 1902.

C. Kirchoff, special New York agent of the United State geological survey, has received returns from the copper producing mines in this country, and from them the following comparative figures of production in pounds in fine copper for 1902 and 1901 are presented:

	1902.	1901.
Lake Superior	170,609,228	156,289,481
Montana	269,707,024	229,870,415
Arizona	121,085,896	130,778,611
California	25,038,724	33,667,456
Utah	23,939,901	20,116,979
Colorado	8,422,030	9,801,783
New Mexico	6,614,961	9,629,884
Wyoming	1,539,228	2,698,712
Nevada	164,301	566,608
Idaho	200,000	480,611
South Dakota	200,000	753,510
South and eastern states	13,599,647	6,860,089
Lead desilverizers	500,000	531,585
Totals	641,620,840	602,072,519

Montana holds the lead easily in every respect in copper production in the United States. Its gain in one year was 39,936,609 pounds, or 17 per cent. The total shows an increase of 39,547,821 pounds, or 6½ per cent, in output. Mr. Kirchoff says in his report:

"All the large producers of copper, with the exception of two lake mines, have submitted a statement of the stock of metal. In the aggregate, these reporting mines represented a production of 456,779,663 pounds, out of a total of 641,620,840 pounds, or 71 per cent of the production. They reported a stock of 155,665,652 pounds of copper on Jan. 1, 1903, as compared with 282,014,297 pounds on Jan. 1, 1902, a decline of over 126,000,000 pounds, or 44 per cent, during 1902."

Dividends Declared.

The Interborough Rapid Transit company yesterday authorized to be declared a dividend of 1½ per cent on Manhattan railway company stock for the quarter ended on June 30, payable on July 1. Books close on June 12. The additional dividend of 7 per cent, if earned as provided in the lease, will be paid with the last quarter of the year.

The American Snuff company declared a regular quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent on preferred and 26 on common stock, both payable on July 1. Books close on June 17 and reopen on July 2.

Rockefeller Buys Stocks?

The Wall Street Journal says: "A governor of the stock exchange is authority for the statement that John D. Rockefeller has within the last ten days bought 150,000 shares of stock. Mr. Rockefeller's purchases are said to have been confined principally to Pennsylvania and St. Paul. One stock exchange house on Monday turned over in private sale 10,000 shares of St. Paul to Mr. Rockefeller. The head of the Standard Oil company subscribed $10,000,000 to the syndicate formed by Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and Speyer & Co. to underwrite the issue of $75,000,000 new Pennsylvania stock."

That Mr. Rockefeller should buy 10,000 shares of St. Paul at private sale may be readily believed, since that is a way he has of acquiring stocks, a fact well known in Wall street. That, however, he should be a pronounced buyer in the open market sounds more like a statement made to help things along.

Courts and Exchange Expulsions.

The New York Supreme court has sustained the right of the New York produce exchange to expel a member. The holding of the court is in harmony with the decisions generally rendered in cases of expelled members who have sought reinstatement through legal channels. The Chicago stock exchange recently had a decision rendered in its favor on the same grounds that obtained in the New York case.

In the latter instance the member was accused of having dealings with a blind pool concern known as the Lincoln syndicate. After hearing the case the board of managers expelled the accused member, and the courts later denied the application for reinstatement.

Lake Street L Traffic.

Lake Street Elevated traffic for May fell below the percentage of increase that characterized the preceding three months. But the five Sundays in May and the rainy weather contributed to reduce the average. The figures follow:

General Financial News.

The dominion government has announced that it will ask parliament to guarantee the bonds of the Canadian Northern railway to the amount of $13,000 a mile to facilitate the construction of 500 miles from the Manitoba boundary to Edmonton.

It is announced that the American Sugar Refining company has started in on a campaign to control the beet sugar industry of the United States as it does the cane sugar refining. The American company is said to have already invested between $8,000,000 and $9,000,000 in securing control of beet sugar plants.

As far as has been announced the members of the Morgan syndicate of the United States Steel conversion scheme have decided to exchange the stock they had in the pool for bonds.

Directory of Directors in Chicago.

The "Directory of Directors in the City of Chicago—1903," and published by the Audit company, New York, has been received. The price is $2.

The book contains the alphabetically arranged names of some 11,000 business men of Chicago who are directors in its various railways, banks, trust companies, manufacturing and other corporations, with an appendix containing the names of the officers and directors of leading corporations.

Chicago Stocks.

Pneumatic Tool was the feature of the local stock market, the price dropping from 52 to 47½. One firm had a selling order which was not executed until the bottom had been reached. Subsequently there was a recovery to 50. There is not enough business in the stock to make a steady market.

Chicago City railway also sold off on a market order. The price dropped to 197 and closed there. Bids at that price did not bring out any additional stock.

National Biscuit shares firmed up and the tone at the close was good. The Can shares also showed improvement.

PLANS FOR NEW SHIP LINE.

Boats to Ply Between Chicago, South Chicago, and Indiana Harbor Within Three Weeks.

South Chicago business men are actively at work on their project to start a steamboat line between Chicago, South Chicago, and Indiana Harbor. Provisional organization has been effected and over $6,000 of the $15,000 capital of the company has been paid in. An option has been secured on the steamer Joseph C. Suit of Duluth and it is planned to open operations in three weeks, making two round trips daily on the route. Docks have been secured for South Chicago at Ninety-second street and the Calumet river. With the Suit in operation Indiana Harbor will have two steamboat lines to Chicago, for the Ottawa has already begun making regular trips from a dock in River street, near Rush street bridge.

STOCKS GET NEW SETBACK

PENNSYLVANIA INTERESTS PUT IN BIG SELLING ORDER.

Bankers Credited with Having Sent Prices Down by Transaction Said to Be Dissatisfied with Mining Situation Involving Coal Roads—Efforts to Bull Shares Fruitless and List Is Moved Back—Rumors About St. Paul and Erie Denied.

[BY A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.]

NEW YORK, June 3.—[Special.]—Those professionals and others who today undertook to continue the advance in the market begun yesterday, conceiving that there might be no basis for the statement that important banking interests will oppose any attempt to "bull" the market at this time, were rudely brought to their senses today when in the late afternoon a heavy selling order in Pennsylvania stock was put into the market by one of the largest banking interests in the street. The result was a sharp drop in the stock to as low as the lowest price yet recorded on the present movement, while the entire market declined coincidently. What really seems to be the cause is that the bankers who sold the stock do not like the fresh turn taken in the situation in the coal district.

As a matter of fact, the general market had at no time been strong. Such strength as appeared being in spots, though so managed as to give the entire list an appearance of almost buoyancy. An analysis of the market, say at 2 o'clock, when St. Paul (picked out as a leader) was the highest and strongest, shows that other active stocks, Erie and Canadian Pacific excepted, were not strong. In Atchison at that time 30,000 shares had been traded in with a price then unchanged, Union Pacific was up ⅛ on dealings in 25,000 shares, Southern Pacific up ⅛ on 15,000, Rock Island down ⅛ on 16,000, and so on through the general list.

That is to say, despite "washing of up" of prices, there were sellers enough on the advance to check any upward movement in these representative stocks.

One of the fantastic stories in the street during the day was that St. Paul had obtained control of Erie, and that meetings had been held and were again to be held in the late afternoon to perfect the deal. From a leading interest in St. Paul an official and emphatic denial of the report was obtained.

IN THE BOSTON MONEY MARKET.

General Tendency of Cash, Bonds, Copper Shares, and Other Securities at the Hub.

BOSTON, Mass., June 3.—[Special.]—Covering by shorts caused a smart rally in prices in the local market today. Dominion issues were among the first to feel the short covering influence, both coming back smartly on the announcement that the directors of the steel and iron company had decided not only to issue additional capital to the extent of $1,500,000, but to underwrite the same. IN FOREIGN MONEY MARKET.

General Tendency of Cash, Bonds, and Securities in London, Paris, and Berlin.

LONDON, June 3.—Money was in active demand in the market today and rates were steady. Discounts were easier. On the stock exchange there was a better tendency and operators were more cheerful, owing to a rally in Canadians and Americans and less disquieting Montreal advices. Consols were firm. Americans improved a fraction above parity. Prices hardened later and closed firm. Grand Trunk rallied sharply on the traffic returns, being considerably above the estimates. Rio Tintos improved on the copper statistics and on account of Paris buying. Closing stocks:

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK MARKETS.

Movements of Cattle, Hogs, Sheep, and Lambs, with the Range of Prices and Comparisons.

Whether it was anticipated on Tuesday that market conditions on the opening day of the week would result in a liberal rush of live stock to market, the actual receipts of Wednesday were above the most extravagant expectations. The cattle run reached 26,000, hogs 37,000, and sheep about 15,000. Naturally, the markets were generally lower for the bulk of stock on offer, although in the cattle deal many sales did not show any decline whatever. While the receipts for Chicago are showing up heavy, the conditions at the Missouri river points are such that the total available supplies of slaughter stock for the week thus far have not been above normal figures, and the activity of trade here, although prices were lower on Wednesday, is stimulated largely by the fact that river points will have to draw on Chicago to supply their meat trade to a large extent.

The following is a statement of the movement of live stock at the Chicago stockyards for the period indicated, with comparative figures:

Cattle.

The supply of cattle yesterday was about 2,000 larger than the most liberal expectations, and far above what the trade is accustomed to getting on this day of the week. The market on steers was slow to get started, as buyers made a play to take off all of Monday's advance, and sellers, taking in the river situation, were not willing to let go at the first bids. The result was that it was well towards noon before the buyers started out bidding lower. They had liberal orders, and when the two opposing elements of trade got together the volume of business was large and swift, with prices ruling unevenly steady to around 15c lower than on Monday.

Cattle that were strictly ripe and of prime quality sold close to steady, with extreme top for a load of fancy black Iowa 1,500 lb steers at $5.50, the same as on Monday. While the top of the market is found in these 1,500 lb weights, it is worthy of emphasis that the bulk of steers of this weight do not sell as well as fully fat choice steers weighing around 200 to 250 lbs less.

The bulk of steers was made up of the cheap to medium priced grades, and it was on these kinds that the most serious decline of the day was felt, sales ranging largely between $4.60 and $5.15. A number of choice 1,150 to 1,350 lb grades sold at $5.20 to $5.35, but there was nothing between $5.35 and the top. The market for cows and heifers was active from start to finish, and prices were fully steady. Demand for bulls was strong and prices firm. Calves were about 25c lower than on Tuesday. A good clearance of all cattle on offer was made at around the following quotations:

Fancy steers	$5.15@5.50
Good to choice steers	4.75@5.00
Fair to good steers	4.50@4.70
Common to fair steers	4.00@4.50
Choice cows and heifers	4.25@5.00

Good to choice bulls	3.75@4.40
Good to choice feeding bulls	3.00@3.50
Common to fair bologna bulls	2.75@3.40
Good to choice stockers and feeders	4.50@5.00
Medium stockers and feeders	3.25@4.00
Inferior stockers and feeders	2.50@3.00
Choice calves, 100@150 lbs	5.75@6.75
Common to good calves, 175@400 lbs	3.00@5.00

Hogs.

In the hog trade the buyers made a bold play on the opening to fill their orders on a basis of Monday's prices, or fully 10c lower than the average of Tuesday, but sellers were not disposed to accept early bids, and it was late before trade got to going on a basis of 5@10c reduction from Tuesday's market, with most of the heavy droves costing close to 10c lower. Hogs were pretty well bought up at the decline.

The quality of the hogs was good and droves to the several buying interests would average better in quality than either Tuesday or Monday. The biggest packing drove of heavy mixed that went out of the yards cost $6.21, or about 9c less than on the previous day to the same house. A choice drove of shippers, averaging 273 lbs, cost $6.35, against $6.42 on Tuesday. A good drove of 220 lb packing mixed cost $6.15, against $6.25 the previous day. The light sorts, both to the bacon and shipper trade, cost $6.05@6.10, and were barely more than cost of the same droves on the previous day. Quotations:

Common to good, 245@400 lbs	5.90@6.25
Good to prime, 190@245 lbs	5.95@6.30
Assorted light, 160@180 lbs	6.05@6.10
Mixed, 200@245 lbs	5.85@6.20
Light mixed, 200@245 lbs	5.75@6.10
Pigs	5.25@5.60

Sheep.

In the sheep trade prices were close to steady on strictly prime offerings of both sheep and lambs, but for the bulk of the offerings the market was slow and prices 15@25c lower. The best heavy wethers sold at $5.30, prime clipped lambs at $7.35, and choice spring lambs, $7.75. A large string of grass Texans sold at $5.00, against $5.15 for the same kinds on Tuesday. Quotations:

Good wethers	$4.85@5.30
Fair to choice ewes	4.50@4.75
Fair to good ewes	3.90@4.50
Good to choice lambs	6.75@7.35
Fair to good lambs	6.25@6.50
Common lambs	4.50@6.00
Good to choice bucks	3.75@4.00
Cull ewes	3.00@3.50
Spring lambs	5.00@7.75

NEWS OF THE RAILWAYS.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE EASTERN ILLINOIS COMPANY.

No Financial Report Made, but Earnings for Year Ending June 30 Will Be 20 Per Cent—Chicago and Northwestern Files Answer to Government's Charges of Discrimination—Milwaukee and St. Paul Officials Deny New Stock Has Been Sold.

Stockholders of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad company, which is now a part of the Rock Island-'Frisco system, held their annual meeting here yesterday.

There were represented 126,205 shares out of a total of 140,485. Daniel G. Reid, William B. Leeds, and William H. Moore were elected directors for three years in place of E. C. Henderson, A. R. Flower, and Henry Seibert, whose terms expired. James Campbell of St. Louis was reëlected for three years. J. H. Moore and elected a director to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of R. M. Hoe, whose term would have expired in June, 1905. The full board of directors is now constituted as follows:

Term expires June, 1904—George H. Ball, Will H. Lyford, and H. H. Porter Jr.

Term expires June, 1905—Charles W. Hillard, J. Hobart Moore, B. F. Yoakum, and Frederick S. Flower.

Term expires June, 1906—Daniel G. Reid, William B. Leeds, William H. Moore, and James Campbell.

No statement of earnings and expenses was submitted. Since last December, when the road was acquired by the 'Frisco, earnings and expenses have been included in the 'Frisco statements.

It is learned from reliable authority that the net earnings of the Chicago and Eastern during the fiscal year ending June 30 will be over 20 per cent.

Railroads Oppose Injunction.

Railroad companies which were charged by the interstate commerce commission some months ago with having discriminated in rates have decided not to permit themselves to be bound by a permanent injunction without making a further fight. Judge Grosscup recently overruled the demurrers of six of the roads in this district, while Judge Philips acted similarly against eight other companies in the Kansas City district. It was thought then that the railroads would cease their opposition to the government's action. The contrary was shown yesterday when Attorney Lloyd Bowers for the Chicago and Northwestern filed in the federal court an answer in which the charges of the government as to discrimination in favor of certain shippers from Missouri river points are denied.

The other defendants are expected to file answers in a short time.

Denies Selling New St. Paul Stock.

Positive denial was made yesterday by a high official of the Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad company that the directors had disposed of any of the $25,000,000 stock issue authorized by the stockholders last fall. He said some of the stock probably would be issued later in the year, but just when the issue would be made, or what its amount would be, he was unable to state. He also said he had no reason to believe that any of the interests identified with the Milwaukee and St. Paul had purchased large amounts of Erie for the account of the Milwaukee and St. Paul.

Joint Terminal in New Orleans.

It develops that the St. Louis and San Francisco and the Southern Railway are to maintain close relations at New Orleans. They will not only occupy the same terminal property, but will own the property jointly in equal shares. The property includes the Chalmette terminals and the land recently purchased by the 'Frisco. The river frontage will be more than 9,000 feet.

Transportation Notes.

During the summer months the California limited trains of the Santa Fé will run semiweekly only between Chicago, Kansas City, Los Angeles, and San Francisco. West bound it will leave Chicago on Tuesdays and Saturdays, and east bound it will leave Los Angeles and San Francisco on Mondays and Thursdays.

The Erie railway will place in service on June 14 a new vestibuled train between Chicago and Buffalo, leaving Chicago at 5:15 p. m. and arriving at Buffalo at 11 a. m. Train No. 8 to New York and Columbus will leave Chicago at 10 p. m. instead of 9:20.

Seized by Customs Officers.

San Francisco, Cal., June 3.—A rich haul was made upon examination of the baggage of Henry S. Potter and wife of St. Louis, who arrived on the steamer America Maru. The articles were seized by the customs officers.

Slashed Throat with Razor.

Ashland, Wis., June 3.—Dr. J. R. Straw, a physician of Ashland, was found dead in the bathroom of his residence today, having cut his throat with a razor. Dr. Straw formerly resided in Virginia, but came to Ashland from West Superior.

DOWNTOWN BUILDING SOLD AND A LONG LEASE GIVEN.

Structure at 127-131 Michigan Avenue Passes to Gage Bros. & Co., the Consideration Being $301,577.

The sale of the twelve story building at 127-131 Michigan avenue and a ninety-nine year lease of the ground by Stanley McCormick to Frederick Bode and George Ebeling, representing the firm of Gage Bros. & Co., were filed for record yesterday.

The lessee firm pays $301,577 for the building, and pays an annual ground rent of $7,440 for the first seven years, and $12,400 for the remainder of the term. In the purchase of the building it pays $6,577 cash and executes a trust deed for $405,625 to secure the remainder of the principal and interest payments aggregating this amount.

The firm had a ten year lease of the property, the rent being based on 4 per cent on a front foot valuation of $3,000. This would have expired in 1910. The rent under the new ninety-nine year lease is based on 4 per cent on a front foot valuation of $5,000.

John H. Minges has sold to William B. McCluer the business property at the southwest corner of North Clark and Division streets, with a frontage of 78½ feet and a depth of 150⅝ feet, for $75,000.

Elizabeth W. Knights has sold to Daniel J. Hauptman the flat property at the northeast corner of Prairie avenue and Fiftieth street, with 50x106 feet of ground, for $30,000, with incumbrance of $15,000.

The Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance company has made a loan of $300,000 for ten years at 4½ per cent to William Kent, secured on 212½x105 feet at the southeast corner of Congress and Franklin streets, where a ten story building is in course of construction.

The Chicago real estate board at its monthly meeting yesterday decided to take its annual outing in the shape of an excursion to St. Louis. The party will leave on Friday, June 12, and will return Sunday night or Monday morning. The exposition grounds will be the center of attraction.

ATTORNEYS UNABLE TO AGREE.

Judge in Marcum Murder Trial at Jackson, Ky., Will Appoint an Elisor Himself.

Jackson, Ky., June 3.—The attorneys for the defense and prosecution in the Curtis Jett and Thomas White murder cases cannot agree upon an elisor, and Judge Redwine will appoint one in the morning. Capt. B. J. Ewen, the star witness in the Marcum murder trial, returned to Jackson tonight. As yet he has not requested a detail of soldiers to guard his residence. All is quiet here.

IN THE INSURANCE FIELD.

UNDERWRITERS ADOPT REPORT ON THE FIRE DEPARTMENT.

It Finds the Facilities in Chicago Inadequate and Suggests Increase of Rates if Improvements Are Not Made Soon—Statement Supposed to Be Fair to Musham, as Its Adoption Was Moved by a Friend of the Chief.

The Chicago Underwriters' association yesterday adopted the report of the special committee on the condition of the fire department by a practically unanimous vote. Strict injunctions of secrecy were laid upon the members till the report can be presented to the mayor on his return from his vacation. No person is mentioned by name in the report, which is short and deals with conditions only, and that it is regarded as fair to Chief Musham is shown by the fact that the motion to adopt it was made by a man who is regarded as one of the chief's warmest supporters.

The report compares the fire fighting facilities of Chicago with those of other large cities as regards population, area, and miles of paved streets, and shows that Chicago is sadly lacking in every regard. The addition of more men and new equipment is strongly urged. The presence on the effective force of over 100 men who should be retired because of age is noted, and it is urged that the lack of an adequate pension fund is no justification for exposing the lives and property of citizens to hazard.

The effect of the civil service law upon the peculiar conditions that must prevail in the fire department is criticised, and it is suggested that the rules be amended, so far as they can be without legislative action, so that ability as a fire fighter shall cut more figure as against literary skill. In general, the report finds the Chicago fire department in a most unsatisfactory condition so far as insurance interests are concerned, and it is made plain that unless there is a material improvement the companies will insist upon a further increase in rates, owing to the number of total losses.

The other business before the association was the report on the stockyards schedule, which was adopted. This applies the single occupancy manufacturing schedule to the yards, with some changes to suit peculiar conditions there. Its first effect will be to increase rates—even on the best risks 5 or 10 per cent, and on the poorer risks as much as 30 per cent. After the improvements are made which are suggested by the schedule there will still be an average increase over the present rates of from 10 to 20 per cent, which the companies claim is justified by the conditions at the yards. The special points penalized by the new schedule are large areas, high buildings, walls of insufficient thickness, and carrying on processes in warehouses. One result will be that more of the buildings will be used for strictly warehouse purposes, segregating the manufacturing processes.

D. W. Andrews, Missouri special agent of the Royal, has been transferred to the Michigan field, with headquarters at Grand Haven.

After this week the governing committee of the Union will meet but once a week, on Tuesdays.

The Northwestern Fuel company, with risks in Chicago, Milwaukee, Duluth, Superior, Green Bay, and Washburn, has decided to carry all its own insurance hereafter. For some time it has been carrying its own risk on coal, but insuring its docks, sheds, and machinery, with a total value of over $500,000. It has now decided, because of what it regards as excessive rates, to pay into an insurance fund the amount it has been paying in premiums, and from that defray any losses.

MILLERS PREFER CHARGE AGAINST COMMON CARRIERS.

President Eckhart Says Railroads and Steamship Lines Discriminate Against Flour in Favor of Wheat.

Detroit, Mich., June 3.—The first convention of the Millers' National federation was called to order here this afternoon, with over 300 delegates present. Transportation rates and the reciprocity treaties negotiated by Commissioner Kasson are two of the most important subjects to be considered. They allege that the railroads and ocean lines discriminate against flour in favor of wheat in making freight rates.

Claims Railroads Are Unjust.

President B. A. Eckhart of Chicago, in his address, gave a comprehensive résumé of the milling industry as it exists today. He said in part:

"The railroad transportation companies until quite recently have failed to show a proper appreciation of the importance of the milling industry, in that they not only refuse to make fair and reasonable freight rates for carrying the product of the mills but actually discriminate against flour for export, although such a differential is unwarranted by the relative cost of carrying the commodities. The ocean steamship lines are still discriminating against flour for export in favor of wheat for export, thus giving the foreign miller an undue advantage over the American miller."

Want New Reciprocity Treaties.

In regard to the reciprocity treaties, Mr. Eckhart said:

"The action of foreign countries in closing their doors against our flour, either by a high protective tariff or a registration duty, should stimulate the members of the federation, as well as the millers of the country, to favor a policy of national reciprocity and to induce the government to negotiate new treaties with France, Germany, England, and other European countries. It is the conviction of the most thoughtful minds of this country that the prosperity of American agriculture, commerce, and manufacturing industries depends in a preëminent degree upon the foreign markets to which our surplus products may be exported."

Use More Care in Shipping.

Herbert Bradley, traffic manager of the federation, in a short address, pointed out the apparent disregard on the part of the millers towards the details of shipping the product. "Flour bags are often placed in cars," he said, "that have just discharged a cargo of coal. By the time the bags reach a seaport and suffer several transfers before they reach the foreign dealer they do not present a desirable appearance."

American Product Preferable.

A memorial from the British flour buyers was read in which they declared that the American product was preferable to that received from any other foreign country, and urged the American millers to secure the establishment of a more satisfactory transportation rate so as to compete with the European trade.

Illustrated addresses were then given on "The Importance of Macaroni Wheat to the Milling Industry," by Prof. M. A. Carleton of the United States department of agriculture and on "The Food Value of Wheat," by Prof. Harry Snyder of the Minnesota experiment station. Tonight the delegates were entertained at a smoking concert in the Hotel Cadillac.

The Lace Sale.

ALTHOUGH the selling space was more than doubled and the selling force more than trebled, we found it next to impossible at times yesterday to handle the crowd on these fine laces. Certainly, it is the most interesting lace sale State street has ever seen. The finest qualities of just the kind of goods you want at just the time you want them, and at prices that cause liberal buying on the part of every person who sees them.

Every hour of the day the lace aisle was crowded with delighted customers—more salespeople today.

"Worth Its Weight in Gold."

HOXBAR, I. T.

DR. RADWAY & CO., New York—Gentlemen: I send enclosed M. O. for which you will please send me one dozen Radway's Ready Relief and one dozen Radway's Pills. Your Ready Relief is considered hereabouts to be worth its weight in gold. This is why I am induced to handle it. I have handled ——Oil for some time, but I consider the R. R. R. far superior to this, as it gives better satisfaction. J. M. ALEXANDER.

R RADWAY'S R READY R RELIEF

Radway's Ready Relief cures Headache, Toothache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Lumbago, pains and weakness in the back, spine or kidneys, pains around the liver, pleurisy, swelling of the joints and pains of all kinds. The application of Radway's Ready Relief will afford immediate ease and its continued use for a few days effects a permanent cure. Sold by druggists.

BE SURE TO GET RADWAY'S.
